VOTE GANGS OUT, LYLE'S PLEA

LEADERS SCORN SPANISH KING'S PLEA FOR HELP

Refuse to Play on Alfonso's Terms.

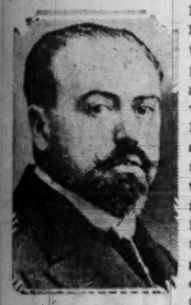
BULLETIN.

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Workmen crossing the Portuguese frontier today carried reports of strikes in Spain. They said civil guards had intervened to restore order in many instances.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Feb. 15.—While his subjects appeared to express their delight over his difficulties by displaying a gay carnival spirit, King Alfonso today met with two serious reverses in his efforts to form a government on his own terms.



SANTIAGO ALBA. [Underwood & Underwood.]

Francisco Cambo, the strong man from Catalonia and one of the richest men of Spain, came from Barcelona to tell the king that he was too sick to enter or lend support to a government of liberal, conservative, and monarchist elements that could get to work at once stabilizing the fallen peseta, then take its time about holding municipal elections, and finally convoking a parliament along in the summer to draw up plans for constitutional reforms under the good offices of the monarch.

And Santiago Alba, the exiled left wing Liberal in Paris, decided to stay there. This was bad from Alfonso's point of view because the clever Alba seemed to be his only hope in the event the other combination, which would make the constituent assembly only a distant, shadowy menace, failed to reach a compromise with his enemies.

Declines King's Request.

Alba last night declined to come to Madrid at the king's request, telegraphing him instead that a constitutional assembly must be called without delay under a strong government with Melquiades Alvarez and Sanchez Guerra, two of the king's bitterest enemies, as a nucleus.

"I advise the king to call Alvarez," his message declared.

Alba, it would thus seem, must have been informed that the king is still dead set against the constitutional assembly.

This is still so tonight and many of the monarch's sympathizers claim that he will abdicate before accepting such a solution as the Guerra group envisages; namely, a vacation for the crown, while a new constitution is drafted.

Doesn't Want to Save King.

Alba's refusal to again play the rôle of savior to Alfonso is taken to indicate that he is not interested in saving the monarch.

So things have come to pass that tomorrow morning, according to forecast, Alfonso will be forced to call Señor Alvarez into consultation to discuss the further distasteful business of his being "put on trial" by his sovereign people.

Gen. Damaso Berenguer, ousted as dictator but still in authority pending the formation of a new ministry, said at midnight that he thought a new government would be named by tomorrow night. He added he was in a position to state that Alfonso is giving up none of his prerogatives, which is a condition set by those demanding a constitutional convention.

Asks Enemy to Take Reins.

Friends of the king were dismayed to learn that in his interview yesterday with Señor Sánchez Guerra, the old Conservative leader, who broke with him in 1926 over the dictatorship, and who has done more than any one else to further the idea of a constitutional assembly, King Alfonso coolly suggested that Sánchez Guerra head the government.

It is learned that the offer was made. The following approximate transcript of what passed between the graying statesman and the monarch whose babyhood he guarded, was revealed by a person close to Guerra.

The king came forward with a smile to greet him as he entered the royal apartments, their first meeting in four and one-half years, and embraced him as of old.

"How good of you to come, José,"

HOOVER'S FIRST SERIOUS DEFEAT NEARS ON BONUS

Passage Likely Over His Veto.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Veterans' legislation again is proving a bugaboo to President Hoover and threatens to furnish the medium for his most decisive defeat of the first half of his administration. More than enough votes are being claimed in both houses to insure, if necessary, passage of the world war veterans bonus loan bill over his veto.

JOHN Q. TILSON. [Acme-P. & A. Photo.]

The house will muster more than a two-thirds vote tomorrow to pass the bill increasing loans from 22½ to 50 per cent of the face value of the bonus certificates. The two-thirds vote will be necessary under the procedure involving a suspension of the rules, and the same total will be sufficient to pass it over the President's veto. No one doubts that a two-thirds vote can easily be obtained in the senate, where the bill is expected to come up for passage before the end of the week.

Tilson Expects It to Win.

Representative John Q. Tilson [Rep., Conn.], majority leader of the house, in a statement today, expressed opposition to the bill, but it was apparent that he believed that it would be passed tomorrow, in spite of the protest of the administration. Mr. Tilson voiced special objection to its consideration under a suspension of the rules without an adequate opportunity for debate or amendment.

Passage of this measure, to which administration disapproval was expressed in a letter from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, over the President's veto, will mean a major defeat in the closing days of a congress in which the President, for the most part, has had his way.

Despite a hostile senate, which has continually administered rebuffs to Mr. Hoover, the Seventy-first congress, which commenced on March 4, 1929, the date of his inauguration, and will end on March 4, next, two weeks and a half hence, has given him most of the legislation which he sought.

Hoover Gets His Way to Date.

The administration farm relief legislation was enacted almost exactly as recommended by the President. The tariff law reached the White House in a form substantially in accord with his views. The unemployment and drought relief program of the present session has finally been completed to the President's satisfaction. In the case of all three of these major subjects, the senate tore the administration measures to shreds, only to have the house save the day for the President.

Veterans' legislation has proved the big stumbling block for President Hoover just as it did for President Coolidge, over whose veto the original bonus bill was passed in May, 1924.

It was veterans' legislation which gave Mr. Hoover the most trouble in last winter's session of congress. The bill increasing pensions for Spanish war veterans was passed over his veto. The President's veto of the world war veterans' pension bill was sustained but only after he had promised his support to a substitute disability pension which was then enacted into law. The veterans' legislation, including hospitalization and other measures enacted in last winter's session increased annual expenditures of the government by upwards of 100 million dollars.

House Deserts on Vets' Measures.

The house, which has been the big factor in such success as the President has had in obtaining legislation, failed to stand by him last winter in the consideration of veterans' bills. There is every indication that the pressure of the veterans, who form an important political element in the districts of the house members, will be sufficient to swing them away from support of the President in the situation involving the bonus loan bill.

Strength of the movement for the veterans' loan bill is believed to be such as to make it probable that it will go through both houses this week.

DISCUSSING THE PRIMARY

"Heavens, just look at this! A newspaper picture of Mayor Thompson at his desk in the city council chamber with a cowboy standing up on his desk and two spotted horses down on the council floor! What a laugh Kate will get out of that!"

"Kate—is she your sister down in St. Louis?"

"Yes, she's always urging Henry and me to leave Chicago and move down there. Everything she sees in the papers making fun of Chicago she clips out and sends to me. I've had a flood of clippings from her and O, how she will love to send this picture! With 'Ha, Ha! Love from Kate' written across it."

"Well, you ought to be used to it by now, no matter where you go you get the same thing. As soon as they hear you are from Chicago, everybody starts making funny cracks. 'How did you get out alive?' And 'What's Big Bill doing now?' and so on. It's positively sickening! Why—the reputation Chicago has got throughout the country is something terrible! Will says it has hurt Chicago business terribly. Crime stories all the time, the city broke, school teachers and policemen uncertain about their pay, graft being uncovered everywhere and a mayor with a positive genius for doing circus stunts that make the city ridiculous!"

"Of course he does it to attract attention and make votes. But isn't it a terrible reflection on the intelligence of the voters that such cheap circus tricks will influence them? You'd think they'd wake up when their tax bills come in, but they don't seem to. They swarm to the meetings and yell their heads off. No wonder the rest of the country laughs! Donkeys and cowboys and elephants and such things parading through the streets advertising the mayor. And in a great city like this! Can you imagine it in any other great city?"

"Well, it's stunts like that that draw the crowds. Thompson is a master showman. He knows how to appeal to the emotions. You remember four years ago he was for smashing King George in the snoot—as if that had anything to do with the serious problems of Chicago, such as crime! But the crowds liked it. If he had really wanted to help Chicago he would have talked about smashing Al Capone in the snoot, but there was never a word about Al. They say Al was a big contributor to his campaign fund."

"It's things like that that have made Chicago a laughing stock. But Thompson is only active just before election. As soon as he gets in you hear nothing more about it. I remember that election four years ago. He promised to drive the criminals out of town—mentioning no names. In ninety days he swore he'd have the city cleaned up. Huh! You've seen how he's done it! Crime worse than ever, until Judge Lyle got busy. It makes you think there was some foundation for that campaign contribution story."

"Well, it's no laughing matter. Conditions have been so bad that I'm worried every time the children are late from school. And when Ellen is late from the office I dread to hear the telephone ring. There were two burglaries in our block in one week and you remember that bombing just two blocks west of our house. I tell you, it's no wonder decent people are desperate! If things don't improve in Chicago, I don't know what we'll do. Will says it is hurting business terribly. Some of his old customers are timid about coming here. 'Clean up your city' they write 'and we'll come.' And when we demand a cleanup, what do we get? A parade of donkeys and elephants and a lot of dirty attacks on Judge Lyle, who certainly can't be accused of being friendly with the crooks."

"O, how I loved the way Lyle went after them. And what a shock they got! For a long time they had been twiddling their thumbs at the courts and getting away with murder until Lyle began to go after them hammer and tongs. For the first time they got scared. And O! what a pleasure it gave me to send those newspaper clippings down to Kate! She had no comeback. For once I had her stopped! Lyle treated the gangsters rough—not just the little ones, but the big protected ones. He went after results regardless of stuffy old legal technicalities that are used to protect the criminals but are not used to protect the community. You could see a change at once. The crooks and their friends were squawking. He was getting under their skins. No wonder the people rose up and gave him such a tremendous vote!"

"And yet Thompson is now calling him everything he can think of—dreadful things. You don't hear him calling Capone such things. Not a word about Capone, but a flood of abuse about Lyle!"

"It was the same way four years ago. He attacked Dever scandalously. 'Crook' Dever he called him, and accused the Dever administration of collecting five dollars for every barrel of beer sold in the city. It was shameful! It made a person sick of municipal politics! Dever was decent and tried to clean things up. I remember one night Henry and I went to a big political meeting over in Arcadia hall. There were over 8,000 people crowded in the building and huge crowds outside. Senator James Hamilton Lewis spoke, and O, boy! what he didn't do to Thompson! He urged the voters to beat Thompson before he completely ruined the city, and everything he accused Thompson of has happened in the last four years."

"Yet Thompson was for Lewis last fall."

"Of course. He knew it would be a Democratic year and he wanted to get Democratic support in his race for mayor this spring."

4 Die as Auto Hits Trolley in Torn Up Street

Four persons were killed and two others critically injured last night when their automobile struck a torn stretch of pavement in Western avenue, between 75th and 76th streets, crashed into a surface car, and rolled over 20 feet to the curb.

The victims were Joseph Budek, 28 years old, 3603 West 56th place, a plumber; Frank Swiss, 29, of 3601 West 56th place, a chauffeur; Mrs. Julia Ahrens, 16, of 3817 West 59th place, and Mrs. Sophie Swiss, 28 years old, wife of Frank Swiss and a sister of Budek and Mrs. Ahrens. The injured are Mrs. Emilia Budek, 28 years old, Budek's wife, and Lawrence Ahrens, 21, husband of Mrs. Ahrens.

The Ahrens couple were married three days ago, on Friday, the 13th.

Budek was at the wheel driving south in Western avenue, and had crossed under the railroad viaduct at 75th street when his machine struck a jagged block of upturned asphalt. He lost control of the automobile, and it swerved almost head on into a north bound trolley car. Half a dozen passengers in the street car were jolted but unhurt.

The machine bounced from the street car on the impact, and overturned, rolling across the street to the west curb. Motorists and neighborhood residents went to the aid of the victims who were later taken by police to the Holy Cross hospital. Budek and the unidentified woman were pronounced dead. Swiss and Mrs. Ahrens died later.

These deaths and two others increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 172. The victims:

Jacob Topesharsky, 53 years old, 3248 West 12th place. Killed in front of 612 West Roosevelt road by the automobile of John Anderson, 1812 South Dearborn street, colored. Anderson was held.

Unidentified woman, believed from a check in her purse to be Mrs. M. Kaiup, 4559 South Washtenaw avenue. Killed early this morning by the automobile of Charles Abbott of 5534 Cortez street at 31st street and Western avenue. Abbott took her to St. Anthony's hospital, where she was pronounced dead. Abbott was technically held.

Unidentified man, about 65 years old. Fatally injured last night at 18th street and Western avenue when he was struck by the car of James B. Scully, 6332 South Paulina street. Scully was charged with assault with an automobile by Marquette police.

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Louis Mann, 65, the actor, died tonight at Mount Sinai hospital, where he had been a patient since December. He had suffered from an intestinal ailment. Two operations had failed. At his bedside was his wife, Clara Lipman, to whom he had been wed since he was 17.

Mann's stage success was as a German dialect comedian. He had been on the stage virtually all his life. He was born in New York April 20, 1865, and three years later made his first stage appearance—in a German pantomime, "Snow Flake," in the new Stadt theater in New York. One of his more recent successes on Broadway came with Sam Bernard in the war play "Friendly Enemies," after many along Broadway said he was done.

For more than a third of a century Mann appeared in numerous shows which became great triumphs.

He was associated with many of the leading acters of the nineteenth century. He appeared with Booth, Salvini, Marie Prescott, and Lewis Morrison in all their répertories.

Hearing Today in Fund Suit Against Mayor

Charges that Mayor Thompson has improperly used funds contributed in 1927 for the relief of victims of the Mississippi valley flood will be taken up today at a hearing before Master in Chancery Harry Smitz, 145 North Clark street. The suit was brought a week ago by Charles S. Smith, who was a contributor to the fund. Master in Chancery Smitz will report his findings to the Circuit court.

Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe has been subpoenaed to appear at the hearing to tell what he knows about the handling of the fund.

Hotel Officials Subpoenaed.

Also subpoenaed are officials of the Congress hotel company, who will be asked to furnish statements of the expenses of last January's flood congress called by Thompson. The suit charges that these expenses, amounting to thousands of dollars, were paid from the fund which was contributed by school children, city employés, and others.

Attorney Frederic O. Mason of the law firm of Miller, Gorham & Wales, who represents Smith, the complainant, declared that any request for a continuance of the hearing would be opposed.

Seeks Fund for Drought Relief.

The complainant asks that all money improperly paid out of the fund be repaid and that the resulting total be given to the Red Cross for the benefit of victims of the present drought.

One of the charges is that flood relief funds have been spent for the Thompson prosperity coupon scheme.

ELIHU ROOT, 86; SPENDS QUIET DAY AT HOME

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Today is the eighty-sixth birthday of Elihu Root, national and international advisor during the terms of seven Presidents, one who might himself have been President could he have been sufficiently reduced to popular terms. He celebrated the day quietly in his 5th avenue apartment with only members of his family and a few intimate friends present.

He received a steady stream of telegrams and cablegrams of congratulation from all parts of the world, and many boxes of flowers.

War Veteran Kills Armed Bandit in Store

A world war veteran, prepared against robbery as the result of a holdup in his store two weeks ago, shot and killed a juvenile bandit early last night when the gunman and a companion invaded his grocery at 2846 West Congress street. The shooting followed a record of 44 robberies in the 24 hour period ending at 6 o'clock.

The slain thief was identified by his parents as Tony La Pante, 16 years old, 900 South Irving avenue. The grocer is James Cerniglia, 40 years old, who saw active service in France as a private in the 42d division.

Cerniglia was alone in his store shortly after 6 o'clock when LaPante and another youth alighted from an automobile containing a third man. The two entered the store and asked for several articles of food. As the grocer turned about to fill their order, La Pante drew a revolver and ordered, "Hands up!" Two weeks before, Cerniglia's father, Salvatore, had been robbed of $15 in the store, and since then Cerniglia had armed himself.

Grocer Opens Fire.

With speed born of his war experience the grocer whipped out a revolver from under his apron. La Pante fired once and missed. Cerniglia fired twice and La Pante staggered out of the store with a bullet in his chest and one in his abdomen. The second thief, unarmed, dropped to his knees to the floor and begged for mercy, but Cerniglia, in the excitement, snapped the trigger at him twice. The gun jammed. Cerniglia struck the robber over the head with the gun butt, but the youth rose and fled.

La Pante collapsed in front of 2835 Congress street and was taken to the county hospital, where he was pronounced dead. Later his father and mother, Carlo and Rose La Pane, identified his body. According to the mother the boy was working, never had been troublesome, and had apparently fallen in with evil companions.

Rob 25 of $8,000.

Four armed men raided the cigar store at 2505 North Kedzie avenue last night, forced twenty-five customers to lie on the floor, and escaped with $8,000. As they drove away they were pursued by Motorcycle Policemen James Hermanek and John Peterson of the west park force, who fired several shots at them.

The holdup was reported by Lewis Koenigsberg, 3034 Logan boulevard, who lost $24. He told police he had been gambling in the store. Morris Weiss, the owner, made no complaint of the holdup, but admitted four men had robbed the place. He said they had taken $3 or $4 from his till. According to Koenigsberg, Weiss lost about $400, and another man known as "Johnson" lost $500. The remainder of the loot was taken from the customers.

Trio Kidnaped and Robbed.

Two armed men kidnaped Samuel De Koven, 3828 North Sawyer avenue; Joseph Goldberg, 4909 North St. Louis avenue, and Miss Ethel Cohn from in front of her home at 639 Grace street early this morning, drove them to an alley at Irving Park boulevard and Kenmore avenue, and robbed them of $35 and a $200 ring. The ring belonged to Miss Cohn.

De Koven is vice president of the Excel Auto Radiator works, 1825 South Michigan avenue. Goldberg is title manager for the E. and S. Lowenstein company, mortgage bankers, 39 South La Salle street.

A social gathering of eight men in Walter Pinder's music school at 845 North Damen avenue was interrupted by four bandits late last night. Pinder lost $9 and a watch and his seven friends gave up $80.

Kidnaps Girl and Escort.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE WANT AD SECTION

JUDGE ATTACKS CRIME ALLIANCE WITH CITY HALL

Throngs Attend His Sunday Speeches.

Judge Lyle in his speeches yesterday blasted the insinuations of his opponents that political expediency prompted his war on crime. He gave evidence that he has battled gangsters continuously since he became a judge six years ago. He said that the fate of gangdom rests with the voters.

Displaying a list of 227 cases of robbers, extortionists, pickpockets, and rapists whom he has held in bonds of $15,000 to $100,000, and 57 cases of lesser gangsters held in bonds of $25,000 to $75,000, Judge Lyle reviewed his entire record on the bench—a record made, he said, long before he thought of becoming mayor.

Always Fighter Against Crime.

"The fact is that I have been waging war on the Chicago underworld throughout my public life," he declared. "These eleventh hour attempts of my adversaries to belittle my success show how desperately they fear the consequences to them when I am elected."

Judge Lyle spoke last night to a massmeeting in the Epworth Methodist church at Berwyn and Kenmore avenues. During the afternoon he appeared before overflow audiences at the Knights of Columbus hall, 4719 West Madison street, and an auditorium at 1700 West 48th street.

To Expose Public Enemies.

Starting today in a noon address to loop crowds in the Garrick theater, Judge Lyle announced, he will expose from the platform the criminal records of Chicago's public enemies. Capone, who the judge charges has dominated the city hall under Thompson, will be the first on the list. He said he would describe in detail the lawless escapades of Capone as recorded in official documents.

Use of amplifiers at the Lyle noonday loop meetings may have to be discontinued because of the "persecution by the city hall electricity department or by Mike Boyle, heading the electrical workers' union," E. F. Mansure, chairman of the Lyle for Mayor citizens' committee, said yesterday. Several union employés will lose their jobs as a result of this interference by Thompson representatives, he said.

Lyle Points to His Record.

Discussing the record of his fight against crime, Judge Lyle read to his audiences yesterday extracts from a report of the Chicago crime commission last October commending him for his activity and urging his reelection as judge.

"In their frantic attempt to stop me, the henchmen of the Thompson-Capone gang are telling the people that my fight on gangsters started when I became a candidate for mayor," Judge Lyle said. "I will answer that charge once and for all by opening up my record for every one to see. It will speak for itself."

In his first day on the bench in the old South Chicago police court, Dec. 1, 1923, the judge said, he found judges and clerks fraternizing with professional bondsmen, crooked criminal lawyers, and fixers, and he saw how small bonds turned criminals back into the streets to ply their trades.

He related how he hoisted the bonds of gangsters with criminal records to as high as $100,000 and how he was from time to time "pushed around from one court to another" to check his activity.

Starts High Bond Policy.

"My first blow at organized crime," Judge Lyle said, "was against the pickpockets who infested the loop department stores and street cars, robbing women shoppers and working people. I smashed the ranks of these thieves so effectively that the State and Van Buren street merchants adopted resolutions thanking me.

"I held 197 highway robbers, gangsters, extortionists, racketeers and other major criminals during the first year and a half of my term in bonds all the way from $25,000 to $100,000.

Other Judges Reduce Bonds.

"Other courts at once began to reduce the bonds of these gangsters and turn them loose. Of the 197 robbers held by me at least two-thirds were released on writs of habeas corpus by other judges. Of those that were released 19 have since met death, either having been killed by policemen in the commission of other crimes, or by gangsters themselves.

"Dynamite Joey Brooks and Edward Harmoning, members of the Ralph Sheldon gang, since murdered, were two of my first customers. Brooks was carrying a black powder bomb, encased in a three inch pipe. I asked him what he was doing with it and he said it was a door weight. He asked him why he kept it locked up in a safe along with four loaded revolvers and two blackjacks found at the same time."

Names Some of His Cases.

Reading rapidly for ten or fifteen minutes, Judge Lyle called off the names of some of the gangsters, extortionists, and robbers brought before him and the bonds he set. The list included:

Louis Gray, robbery, $100,000; Percy Pue, robbery, $100,000; John Scudder, assault to kill, no bail; Stander Webbs, assault to kill and burglary, 6 counts, $25,000 each; Jack Wilson, alias Barry, robbery, $100,000; William J. McGrath, robbery, $100,000; Edward Ryan, robbery, $100,000; Joe Goldstein, robbery, $100,000; Morris Block, attempted robbery, $100,000; Louis Benardi, robbery, $100,000; George Brennan, robbery, four counts, $100,000 each; John Ryan, alias Thomas Holden, robbery, $100,000.

Other cases were those of Frank Cavilla, assault to kill, kidnaping, robbery with a gun, $100,000; Frank Perette, robbery, $125,000; Frank Vicci, attempted robbery, two counts, $25,000 each; John Daly, robbery, 10 counts, $100,000 each; Martin Solderland, rape and indecent liberty with child, $100,000; Charles Cohen, forgery, $25,000; Joseph McCake, robbery, 10 counts, $100,000 each; Thomas Henson, robbery, $100,000.

"Cases Destroyed by Others."

"I say that other judges have released gangsters such as these whose bonds I have fixed for large amounts," Lyle continued. "They destroyed the cases by granting continuance after continuance, by political influence, the use of money, and frequently through police corruption.

"They cite the instances where these hoodlums have been released in their attacks on me. To that I answer this: I could have a 100 per cent record on appeals to the upper courts if I had turned these gangsters loose."

Judge Lyle said he has consistently refused offers to speak in other cities or to write articles for magazines on the Chicago crime situation.

"This is a question for the people of Chicago to settle for themselves," he declared. "They will have the opportunity to settle it at the coming election. They can either vote for me and destroy this reign of lawlessness or join with Capone to keep me out of the mayor's chair and to keep Capone in the city hall under the administration of Thompson."

LEAPS IN CREEK AS CLOTHES TAKE FIRE; IS DROWNED

His clothing burned, the body of John Collins, 45 years old, a casual, was found yesterday in Pettibone creek, a shallow stream just south of North Chicago.

The police believe Collins had been sleeping near a bonfire in a hollow, known as a hobo camp, near the creek. Apparently he rolled upon the fire while asleep, igniting his clothes, and leaped into the shallow stream to extinguish the flames. He became unconscious from shock and drowned.

Collins was a veteran of the world war, having served overseas as a member of the 27th division. Because of his war record police believe the American Legion will give him a soldiers' burial.

ABLAZE, ROLLS INTO RIVER.

Rock Island, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—John F. Cahill, 37, wanderer, of Woburn, Mass., died at St. Anthony's hospital last night, five hours after being found badly burned in a tramps' rendezvous in the railroad yards here. There he had lain for fourteen hours unable to call help after rolling into a bonfire and extinguishing the flames by rolling in the Mississippi river.

ALBERT INVADES ENEMY DISTRICT IN MAYORAL RACE

Schmidt Sees Factions Destroying Party.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert took his campaign for the Republican mayoralty nomination into enemy areas yesterday, invading the "bloody 20th" ward and the south side Negro district, both sections having been favorable to Thompson in previous elections.

Ald. Albert said he went into the 20th ward to let Morris Eller and other city hall leaders know that he was not afraid of them. He spoke at a meeting at 1259 South Halsted street, at which State Representative Roland V. Libonati presided.

In his swing through the colored sections, Ald. Albert spoke at several churches where Judge John H. Lyle had appeared during the campaign.

Returns to Loop Today.

The alderman returns to the loop today for another noon meeting at the Adelphi theater, at which he, State's Attorney Swanson, and Prof. Charles E. Merriam will speak.

In his speeches yesterday Ald. Albert emphasized the "constructive issues" in his campaign, and referred to his ten year record in the city council which he claimed had been productive of much service in the interests of the taxpayers.

George K. Schmidt, former city controller, who is campaigning for the Republican mayoralty nomination as "the nonfactional candidate," in a series of speeches yesterday called on the Republicans of Chicago to "wake up and take matters in their own hands at the primary on Feb. 24, or else see their party wrecked beyond repair."

Visions Broken Party.

"I cannot believe," he said, "that intelligent voters are blind to the fact that victory for any of the three feudal factions now clawing at each others throats would ruin the party, perhaps forever, in this great stronghold where it formerly enjoyed high prestige."

Mr. Schmidt made known that he would start out today on a windup tour of the city's industrial districts on a handshaking campaign.

Anton J. Cermak, Democratic candidate for mayor, speaking over the radio tonight, will launch his campaign for election without waiting to learn who the Republicans will choose to oppose him.

Starts Night Radio Talks.

Up to now Mr. Cermak has been perfecting the Democratic organization, but tonight he is to open his fight for public support, and plans to make a nightly broadcast of his campaign speeches until after the primary.

On the air with him tonight will be his 11 year old granddaughter, Vivian Graham, who will repeat the speech she broadcast yesterday morning. In her speech little Vivian says that she knows her granddad is to be elected mayor "because the people know he has been true to every trust they have reposed in him."

THOMPSON IS GUEST WITH SERRITELLA AT ITALIANS' BANQUET

Thompson was the guest of the Italian-American Republican organization last night at the Hotel Sherman. Ex-Judge Bernard P. Barasa presided and among the Italians in attendance were Daniel Serritella, city sealer and Capone lieutenant; State Senator James Leonardo, Congressman-elect Peter Granata, Ald. William Pacelli, State Representative Michael Durso, and James Vignola, member of the board of local improvements.

THOMPSON.

Serritella originally had been slated to act as toastmaster. Photographers were excluded until a canvass was made to be certain no notorious hoodlums were present, but one was overlooked. He is Dominick Nuccio, known as Libby, one of the old Gloriana gang of burglars, who is now the liquor concessionaire of the lower north side.

Thompson told the Italians he was proud of having their support.

FORM NATIONAL BODY FOR FIGHT ON CHAIN STORE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Organization of the National Chamber of Associated Merchants to oppose the development of chain stores was announced today by John F. Nugent, former senator from Idaho.

Nugent, who is president, said the purpose of the organization is "to fight the battles at close range of 1,000,000 independent retailers and some 250,000 independent wholesalers, and jobbers against the ever increasing menace of the chain store system to their very existence."

L. V. L. PRAISES LYLE'S RECORD IN LEGISLATURE

Shelby M. Singleton, executive secretary of the Legislative Voters' league, issued a statement yesterday on the legislative record of Judge John H. Lyle, in which he said:

"Judge Lyle served in the legislature for two terms. At the end of his first term, the league report issued Oct. 18, 1916, said: 'John H. Lyle, 6303 Harvard avenue, lawyer; is closing his first term as a member of the assembly; is active and efficient in his legislative work and deserves reelection on his record.'

"In its report on outgoing members of the 51st general assembly in July, 1918, the league said of Representative Lyle: 'Ending his second term. Improved his initial term record. He did good work as chairman of the civil service committee. Made a good fight for the Chicago sanitary district bill for establishment of a new power plant to give Chicago cheaper lighting. Mr. Lyle is another who has retired from the legislature to take a place in the Chicago city council."

Campaign Notes

Invitations to Chicago women to meet Judge Lyle tomorrow afternoon at a tea in the Hotel La Salle, from 3:30 to 5:30, have been issued by the Women's division of the Lyle for Mayor Republican organization.

The Democratic Women's organization has announced that more than 1,000 reservations have been made for the women's luncheon at noon tomorrow at the Hotel Sherman.

Headquarters of the Democratic Cermak for Mayor organization will be moved this week from the City Hall Square building to the bank floor of the Ashland block.

A dozen girls, under the guidance of Mrs. Arthur F. Albert, wife of the mayoralty candidate, are to parade through the loop today in an old-fashioned tallyho, and later will distribute campaign cards at the candidate's noon theater meeting.

The Democratic organization has started sending out more than 200,000 letters to their voters, urging them to participate in the primary election by voting for Cermak for mayor and the other Democratic candidates.

PHYSICIANS KEEP DIXIE SCHOOL ON SUSPENDED LIST

Members of the council on medical education of the American Medical association, who are in Chicago to attend the association's 27th annual congress on medical education, licensure and hospitals, voted yesterday to continue the University of Mississippi medical school on its list of suspended institutions pending further developments.

Dr. N. P. Colwell of Chicago, secretary, said the council had been informed that Gov. T. G. Bilbo of Mississippi, who a few months ago ousted the faculty of the medical school, has now reinstated it and restored the school to its original status.

Educational affairs in Mississippi are in a ferment, however, because of the governor's ouster of faculty members in other departments of the university and other colleges for political reasons, according to Dr. Colwell. For this reason, he said, the council would withhold final action in returning the medical school to the accredited list. Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur is chairman of the council.

GIRL WOUNDED IN QUARREL AT NIGHT CLUB DOOR

Miss Vallene Urlick, 22 years old, night club entertainer, whose professional name is Vallene Erwin, was shot in the right foot in front of the recently opened Breakfast club, 70 West Erie street, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Her assailant, a tall, heavy set man wearing evening clothes, escaped.

The shooting occurred during an altercation between Harry L. Goodwin, 26 years old, of Morris, Ill., who had brought the girl to the night club, and the gunman, over who should take the girl home. The shot was fired after Goodwin took Miss Urlick from the taxicab in which the interloper had placed her. Goodwin, who is the son of Maj. H. L. Goodwin, 215 East Chestnut street, president of the Century of Progress Milling company at Morris, took the girl to St. Luke's hospital.

Relatives Give Clew.

Questioned by the police there, Miss Urlick refused to identify the man who shot her other than that he was an admirer named "Marty." Supplied with information from relatives of the girl that she formerly had gone with Marty Quirk, who, they said, was registered under the name of "G. Harrison" at the Harrison hotel, 601 South Wabash avenue, police sought him at the hotel. In the room occupied by "G. Harrison" they found a loaded pistol. The room clerk said Harrison had left the hotel during the day.

Quirk, a former cabaret owner and ex-saloonkeeper, according to police, was tried July 18, 1929, for the murder of Elmer Hill in a speakeasy at 1st street and Wentworth avenue, and acquitted in seven minutes. Hill, a cabaret singer, was singing a song Quirk did not care for, when Quirk, 6 feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, shot him. It was said at the time. Quirk admitted the shooting, but pleaded self-defense.

Goodwin Tells of Shooting.

Young Goodwin is assistant manager of one of his father's mills at Morris. He met Miss Erwin last August at Colisimo's, where she is a member of the chorus, and has seen her frequently since then, he said.

"I arrived in Chicago Saturday, put my father on a train for Kansas City shortly after 6, and had dinner with Val," he said. 'Then she went to work, and I stayed at Colisimo's until closing time, about 4, when she suggested we go to the Breakfast club. The shooting occurred when we left."

Seeks Return to Prison After Being Robbed Here

Frank Mueck was robbed of $230 on his first visit to Chicago, and as a result he was being held last night at the State street station at his own request, to be returned to a place where, he pointed out, such things aren't allowed—the state penitentiary at Huntsville, Tex. Mueck was robbed Saturday. In reporting the robbery to Detective Edward Burns he told of his prison break and said he was quite willing to be sent back. He will be.

CITY STREET USED AS JUNK YARD

Protest in Vain

W. A. Dudley, executive secretary of the Central District association, protested yesterday against the parking of wrecked automobiles and storage of junk on Dearborn street between 15th and 20th streets. Commissioner of Public Works Richard Wolfe promised the association that a cleanup would be made, but has failed to act, Dudley said. William J. Maresh, secretary of the South Central association, declared that his organization is also interested in removing the cars and junk. Manufacturers in the district have branded the auto skeletons as eyesores and a menace to traffic.

WALES INSPECTS ANDEAN VOLCANO FROM AIRPLANE

AREQUIPA, Peru, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The prince of Wales saw one of the grandest volcanoes of the Peruvian Andes today as he flew from Lima, where he had been entertained for several days, to this city of southern Peru.

The prince and his party, including Prince George, left Lima at 12:16 p. m. today and at 4:48 their trimotored American airplane alighted on Pronogoche field, at the foot of Mount Misti. Before landing the plane circled over the famous fuming mountain so the royal visitors might have a good view of it.

At the landing field the prince was welcomed by Peruvian officials and then he summoned the Peruvian army aviators who had escorted his flight from Lima and thanked them, doing likewise with Harold Harris, vice president of the Pan-American-Grace Airlines, which furnished the plane for the trip.

KEARNS, KAINDL LEAD RACE FOR CITY TREASURER

7 Republicans, 4 Democrats in Race.

Two candidates, James A. Kearns, Republican, and Ald. Edward J. Kaindl, Democrat, appeared yesterday to be out in front in the races for nomination for city treasurer on their respective tickets. The nominees are to be selected at the primary on Feb. 24.

Overshadowed by the battle of the candidates for mayor, the city treasurer race has attracted little attention despite the fact that there are seven candidates on the Republican ticket and four on the Democratic ticket. The Lyle organization has kept hands off the city clerk and city treasurer campaigns, as has the Albert group, although Kearns has the support of the Deneen faction.

List of the Candidates.

As they will appear on the Republican ballot the city treasurer candidates are: Andrew J. Shultz, Kearns, Vincent J. Conley, Henry Sugar, I. J. Brown, Oscar M. Johnson, and Joseph De Salvo. The Democratic candidates are Kaindl, William E. Strook, Peter J. Rosenblatt, and Emmett A. Moynihan.

Kearns for the last 12 years has been clerk of the Municipal court and previously was alderman in the old 31st ward for four elective terms. He is making economy in public expenditudes the issue in his campaign.

Backed by Ward Group.

Sugar, a builder, living at 2219 North Rockwell street, is backed by the 38th ward Republican organization. DeSalvo formerly was an Eller precinct captain in the 20th ward who recently left the Eller faction. None of the other candidates has figured prominently in politics heretofore.

Kaindl, the regular Democratic organization candidate, has served seven terms in the city council, representing the 34th ward. He has gained attention as chairman of the railway terminals committee in his fight for new south side railway facilities. His chief opponent is Moynihan, who is president of the Capital Bank Note company.

CHARGE DICE GAME SHOOTING.

Walter Twarog, 18 years old, 1460 West Chicago avenue, was shot in the right ankle last night by Florrie Bannack, 18 years old, 1507 Fry street, during a dispute over a dice game at Fry and Holt streets, according to the police.

BUSINESS BOARD APPROVES 5 OF 9 BOND ISSUES

Lincoln Park Extension Project Gets O. K.

Five of the nine bond issues to be put before the voters of Chicago at the Feb. 24 election received the approval yesterday of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The association indorsed improvements to cost $10,475,000 and rejected issues representing a total of $8,125,000.

The association approved the city's single bond proposal, involving $2,500,000, for the widening of North State street, and the $3,000,000 issue to be submitted by Lincoln park for further reclamation of land and park extension along the north shore.

O. K.'s Three South Park Projects.

It also approved three projects on the program of the south park board. These are $3,500,000 for the Randolph street viaduct, $1,000,000 for the improvement of Marquette boulevard, and $475,000 for Jackson park pier construction.

The association took no stand on the $36,000,000 bond issues to be presented to the voters of the sanitary district to build sewage disposal plants.

Four Bond Issues Opposed.

All of the four bond projects rejected by the association involve south park undertakings. These issues are: $2,610,000 for improving the shore line southward to Indiana; $1,915,000 for small park improvements; $2,000,000 for the improvement of Southeastern boulevard, and $1,600,000 for the improvement of Yates avenue.

In disapproving the park reclamation issue, the association took the position that the initial bond issue would represent only 10 per cent of the ultimate cost. The small park bond issue is so sweeping that the voters cannot distinguish between good and bad expenditures, said the association report. The street improvement issues are to pay for work which should be done by the city through special assessments, the association said.

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

East Hampton, L. I., Feb. 15.—Well, Mr. Hoover and congress have finally agreed to donate twenty million dollars to sufferers in the drought area and the Red Cross is coming through with ten million more, and now the only thing the prospective beneficiaries have to worry about is where the money is to be placed for safe keeping until they are ready to spend it. My suggestion would be to invest it with the bookmakers at some reputable race track or in the roulette tables at Palm Beach or even in the stock market—in fact, any place where there is a chance of not losing it all. RING LARDNER.

John West Admits He Didn't Know Wife Darkened Hair

Darkens Hair So Naturally No One Can Tell

When I see gray I see old age. Youth is every woman's right, so don't let hair get gray. Just use this improved formula made from that wonderful old recipe of common sage tea and sulphur. Nothing better. Gray disappears overnight. And after two or three applications your hair will be the exact shade you want. So evenly, so naturally darkened nobody'll ever know. GIRL WOUNDED IN QUARREL AT NIGHT CLUB DOOR

Miss Vallene Urlick, 22 years old, night club entertainer, whose professional name is Vallene Erwin, was shot in the right foot in front of the recently opened Breakfast club, 70 West Erie street, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Her assailant, a tall, heavy set man wearing evening clothes, escaped.

The shooting occurred during an altercation between Harry L. Goodwin, 26 years old, of Morris, Ill., who had brought the girl to the night club, and the gunman, over who should take the girl home. The shot was fired after Goodwin took Miss Urlick from the taxicab in which the interloper had placed her. Goodwin, who is the son of Maj. H. L. Goodwin, 215 East Chestnut street, president of the Century of Progress Milling company at Morris, took the girl to St. Luke's hospital.

Relatives Give Clew.

Questioned by the police there, Miss Urlick refused to identify the man who shot her other than that he was an admirer named "Marty." Supplied with information from relatives of the girl that she formerly had gone with Marty Quirk, who, they said, was registered under the name of "G. Harrison" at the Harrison hotel, 601 South Wabash avenue, police sought him at the hotel. In the room occupied by "G. Harrison" they found a loaded pistol. The room clerk said Harrison had left the hotel during the day.

Quirk, a former cabaret owner and ex-saloonkeeper, according to police, was tried July 18, 1929, for the murder of Elmer Hill in a speakeasy at 1st street and Wentworth avenue, and acquitted in seven minutes. Hill, a cabaret singer, was singing a song Quirk did not care for, when Quirk, 6 feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, shot him, it was said at the time. Quirk admitted the shooting, but pleaded self-defense.

Goodwin Tells of Shooting.

Young Goodwin is assistant manager of one of his father's mills at Morris. He met Miss Erwin last August at Colisimo's, where she is a member of the chorus, and has seen her frequently since then, he said.

"I arrived in Chicago Saturday, put my father on a train for Kansas City shortly after 6, and had dinner with Val," he said. 'Then she went to work, and I stayed at Colisimo's until closing time, about 4, when she suggested we go to the Breakfast club. The shooting occurred when we left."

Seeks Return to Prison After Being Robbed Here

Frank Mueck was robbed of $230 on his first visit to Chicago, and as a result he was being held last night at the State street station at his own request, to be returned to a place where, he pointed out, such things aren't allowed—the state penitentiary at Huntsville, Tex. Mueck was robbed Saturday. In reporting the robbery to Detective Edward Burns he told of his prison break and said he was quite willing to be sent back. He will be.

CITY STREET USED AS JUNK YARD

Protest in Vain

W. A. Dudley, executive secretary of the Central District association, protested yesterday against the parking of wrecked automobiles and storage of junk on Dearborn street between 15th and 20th streets. Commissioner of Public Works Richard Wolfe promised the association that a cleanup would be made, but has failed to act, Dudley said. William J. Maresh, secretary of the South Central association, declared that his organization is also interested in removing the cars and junk. Manufacturers in the district have branded the auto skeletons as eyesores and a menace to traffic.

WALES INSPECTS ANDEAN VOLCANO FROM AIRPLANE

AREQUIPA, Peru, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The prince of Wales saw one of the grandest volcanoes of the Peruvian Andes today as he flew from Lima, where he had been entertained for several days, to this city of southern Peru.

The prince and his party, including Prince George, left Lima at 12:16 p. m. today and at 4:48 their trimotored American airplane alighted on Pronogoche field, at the foot of Mount Misti. Before landing the plane circled over the famous fuming mountain so the royal visitors might have a good view of it.

At the landing field the prince was welcomed by Peruvian officials and then he summoned the Peruvian army aviators who had escorted his flight from Lima and thanked them, doing likewise with Harold Harris, vice president of the Pan-American-Grace Airlines, which furnished the plane for the trip.

KEARNS, KAINDL LEAD RACE FOR CITY TREASURER

7 Republicans, 4 Democrats in Race.

Two candidates, James A. Kearns, Republican, and Ald. Edward J. Kaindl, Democrat, appeared yesterday to be out in front in the races for nomination for city treasurer on their respective tickets. The nominees are to be selected at the primary on Feb. 24.

Overshadowed by the battle of the candidates for mayor, the city treasurer race has attracted little attention despite the fact that there are seven candidates on the Republican ticket and four on the Democratic ticket. The Lyle organization has kept hands off the city clerk and city treasurer campaigns, as has the Albert group, although Kearns has the support of the Deneen faction.

List of the Candidates.

As they will appear on the Republican ballot the city treasurer candidates are: Andrew J. Shultz, Kearns, Vincent J. Conley, Henry Sugar, I. J. Brown, Oscar M. Johnson, and Joseph De Salvo. The Democratic candidates are Kaindl, William E. Strook, Peter J. Rosenblatt, and Emmett A. Moynihan.

Kearns for the last 12 years has been clerk of the Municipal court and previously was alderman in the old 31st ward for four elective terms. He is making economy in public expenditudes the issue in his campaign.

Backed by Ward Group.

Sugar, a builder, living at 2219 North Rockwell street, is backed by the 38th ward Republican organization. De Salvo formerly was an Eller precinct captain in the 20th ward who recently left the Eller faction. None of the other candidates has figured prominently in politics heretofore.

Kaindl, the regular Democratic organization candidate, has served seven terms in the city council, representing the 34th ward. He has gained attention as chairman of the railway terminals committee in his fight for new south side railway facilities. His chief opponent is Moynihan, who is president of the Capital Bank Note company.

CHARGE DICE GAME SHOOTING.

BUSINESS BOARD APPROVES 5 OF 9 BOND ISSUES

Lincoln Park Extension Project Gets O. K.

Five of the nine bond issues to be put before the voters of Chicago at the Feb. 24 election received the approval yesterday of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The association indorsed improvements to cost $10,475,000 and rejected issues representing a total of $8,125,000.

The association approved the city's single bond proposal, involving $2,500,000, for the widening of North State street, and the $3,000,000 issue to be submitted by Lincoln park for further reclamation of land and park extension along the north shore.

O. K.'s Three South Park Projects.

It also approved three projects on the program of the south park board. These are $3,500,000 for the Randolph street viaduct, $1,000,000 for the improvement of Marquette boulevard, and $475,000 for Jackson park pier construction.

The association took no stand on the $36,000,000 bond issues to be presented to the voters of the sanitary district to build sewage disposal plants.

Four Bond Issues Opposed.

All of the four bond projects rejected by the association involve south park undertakings. These issues are: $2,610,000 for improving the shore line southward to Indiana; $1,915,000 for small park improvements; $2,000,000 for the improvement of Southeastern boulevard, and $1,600,000 for the improvement of Yates avenue.

In disapproving the park reclamation issue, the association took the position that the initial bond issue would represent only 10 per cent of the ultimate cost. The small park bond issue is so sweeping that the voters cannot distinguish between good and bad expenditures, said the association report. The street improvement issues are to pay for work which should be done by the city through special assessments, the association said.

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

East Hampton, L. I., Feb. 15.—Well, Mr. Hoover and congress have finally agreed to donate twenty million dollars to sufferers in the drought area and the Red Cross is coming through with ten million more, and now the only thing the prospective beneficiaries have to worry about is where the money is to be placed for safe keeping until they are ready to spend it. My suggestion would be to invest it with the bookmakers at some reputable race track or in the roulette tables at Palm Beach or even in the stock market—in fact, any place where there is a chance of not losing it all. RING LARDNER.

44 HOLDUPS IN DAY

Police records yesterday showed an increase in the number of robberies from 6 o'clock Saturday night to 6 o'clock Sunday night as compared with the same period a week ago. There were 44 robberies reported in the last twenty-four hour period, some of which were accompanied by violence and shots fired at the bandits. A week ago there were 35 robberies recorded on the Saturday-Sunday record.

Detectives declared that Chicagoans could thank the mild weather for the saving of life and property, as cold weather would undoubtedly have brought about a great increase in the number of street holdups and store robberies. The record this year, nevertheless, is considerably greater than that of a year ago in the number of robberies and burglaries. The crime record of a day is as follows:

M'KELVIE ALSO TO RESIGN POST ON FARM BOARD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Speculation as to the successor of Alexander Legge as chairman of the federal farm board was heightened here tonight following the announcement in Chicago earlier in the day of Samuel R. McKelvie that he will resign as wheat member of the board June 15.

McKelvie's declaration virtually eliminates him as a candidate for the chairmanship. His name, with others, had been mentioned for the post in discussions since Saturday when the unofficial statement emanated from Chicago that Legge would retire as chairman shortly after March 4. Most prominently mentioned for the job, however, has been James C. Stone of Kentucky, vice chairman.

Questioned as to whether he would be a candidate for the chairmanship of the board, the wheat member made known his intention of resigning next summer.

The successor to Legge will be named by President Hoover. With McKelvie out of the picture, Stone's chances are deemed extremely good in some circles.

Meanwhile it was reported that C. C. Teague of California, fruit member of the board, plans to resign in June.

LILLIAN LEITZEL, QUEEN OF CIRCUS WORLD, IS DEAD

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Lillian Leitzel, one of the daintiest and most popular of all circus stars, died today in a delirium as a result of a plunge to the floor in Valencia music hall Friday night when an iron trapeze ring broke.

The little star was a favorite with circus fans in many countries. She appeared in Chicago frequently. When she fell to the floor she received injuries to her head and spine. With the usual courage of circus performers, she made light of her injuries.

A rally in her condition yesterday gave hope she would recover, but her condition became worse today and the injuries to her brain led to her death.

Believed Not Seriously Hurt.

The large crowd at the circus gasped in horror as the daring little trapeze artist was hurled to the floor with only a rubber mat to break her fall. At the time, however, it was believed she was not seriously hurt and she protested against being taken to a hospital.

On learning of the accident her Mexican husband, Alfredo Cordona, hastened from Berlin in an airplane. He was appearing with another troupe in Berlin. After Miss Leitzel's improvement he left here to return to his company.

Shortly after his departure her condition took a turn for the worse and she died. Crowds of her admirers in Copenhagen, where she was a great favorite, were mourning her death today.

One Interest in Life—Circus.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Born of a European circus family and cradled in rocking show wagons, Lillian Leitzel had but one interest in life—the circus.

"From the time she was a little tot, mouth open as she watched our mother and other members of the family win applause with their acts," said Alfred G. Pelikan, art director of the Milwaukee public schools, and Lillian's brother, "she dreamed of thrilling the world with difficult gymnastics."

Millions of Americans who saw her act feared for her such an end as she met. Her famous "dislocation" stunt appeared simple. She climbed to the top of the tent and there, clutching a rope, she whirled her body around and around. Simple, but no one else had ever done it.

Lillian Leitzel Pelikan has a namesake in Milwaukee, the daughter of Fred. Already the niece is preparing to follow her aunt's footsteps. On a trapeze, a gift of Lillian Leitzel, the 7 year old girl practices daily. Lillian Leitzel yearly visited the brother and her namesake, mainly to give lessons in her difficult art to the child, the brother said.

Queen of Circus World.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The grief of the show world at the death in Copenhagen of Lillian Leitzel was expressed tonight by Dexter Fellowes, dean of circus exploitation men, who knew the dainty aerialist for more t n 20 years.

"Miss Leitzel was brought to the United States about twenty years ago by a showman named Leamy," Fellowes said. "She was then not more than 17 years old and was one of the most beautiful little creatures I ever set eyes on.

"Miss Leitzel was easily the queen of the circus world. In her veins flowed the blood of a line of circus performers. Her mother and her grandmother were performers."

INDEPENDENT OIL MEN SEEK LIMIT ON IMPORTATIONS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—A determined drive will be waged this week by independent oil operators for legislation to limit oil importations.

Guided by the short time remaining the independents will concentrate their major forces on the Capper-Garber bill to fix petroleum imports for the next three years at 16,000,000 barrels annually. This measure, already on the senate calendar, is in the last stages of hearings before the house ways and means committee.

In two other quarters the campaign will go forward. Before the rules committee an effort will be made to obtain action on the Hoch resolution for an investigation of the entire oil industry.

The house commerce committee will begin consideration on Tuesday of the Hoch bill to divorce pipe lines and interstate carriers from the major oil companies and define them as common carriers for regulation by the interstate commerce commission.

Representative Garber [Rep., Okla.], house sponsor of the oil restriction measure, said tonight advocates would close their case tomorrow morning so the opposition could begin testimony in the afternoon.

Warmer Today

Mild temperatures gave Chicago and most of the middle west another spring like day yesterday, and thousands of persons took to the outdoors. During the afternoon the mercury rose to 45 degrees.

The warmth was taken advantage of by an advance group of golfers, members of the Veterans Advertising club, who held a tournament at the Mid City Golf club, Western avenue and Grace street. Several of the players ended their rounds with midsummer scores.

Parks were filled with strollers, and the walks along the lake accommodated many pedestrians.

The weather will be unsettled and warmer today, with rain by afternoon or night, while tomorrow will be somewhat colder, with occasional rain, according to the forecast issued last night.

19 Planes Fly Detroit to Washington at Night

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Nineteen army planes arrived at Bolling field tonight after a two and one-half hour flight from Selfridge field, Mich., to test the practicability of moving an air squadron at night. It was the first cross-country night flight by an army air fleet. The return trip will be made tomorrow night. The planes arrived at 9 p. m. and officials said the trip was without incident.

AID IDLE OR CALL TROOPS, WARNING OF PHILA. MAYOR

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Mayor Harry A. Mackey declared tonight that "unless the city meets its obligation to the unemployed," it would be necessary to "call upon the state militia to preserve order."

Pleading for contributions to the Lloyd committee for the relief of needy unemployed men and women, he said there were at least 250,000 persons, 50,000 of them children, in this city, without the bare necessities of life.

"I am not an alarmist," he added, "and am not overemphasizing what I know to be the facts. Unless funds are immediately procured with which not only to carry on the great work started by the Lloyd committee, but to give employment to the thousands on the eligible list and to those who are daily seeking relief, there will be a condition in the city of Philadelphia whereby it will be necessary to call upon the state militia to preserve order."

METHODIST DRYS RAP MABEL AND HER WINE JUICES

Agree with Wets on Its Inconsistency.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, favorite of the drys she served as assistant attorney general in charge of dry law prosecutions, lost another of her former dry allies today when spokesmen for the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals broadcast a statement indirectly criticizing her association with the distribution of home wine materials.

MABEL WILLEBRANDT. [Associated Press Photo.]

Calling attention to Mrs. Willebrandt's connection as counsel for Fruit Industries, Ltd., the association which took the lead in a recent advertising campaign to popularize the making of wine in the home, the board's clip sheet charges that the effort to flood American homes with intoxicating wines is undoubtedly in violation of the purpose of the 18th amendment.

Assails Use for Wine.

"There is no reason," states the clip sheet, "why the grape growers of California cannot find a legitimate market for their product but if they build a trade upon the expectation that the American people will be content to see them in the enjoyment of a monopoly founded upon a violence to the United States constitution, they will inevitably come upon disaster."

The author of the clip sheet article calls attention to the fact that approximately $20,000,000 was loaned by the federal farm board to the organizations for which Mrs. Willebrandt is counsel. The charge is also made that the company advised by Mrs. Willebrandt has sought and obtained a reduction of the solid matter content required in "wine tonic."

Upset by Rapid Development.

"For two years," the clip sheet states, "the board of temperance has been gravely concerned at the prospect of the development of a nation-wide industry in supplying home wine materials, an industry directly fostered by loans of the United States government.

"Fruit Industries, Ltd., has now developed its promotion of this commodity to the point where 'wine grape juice' is now offered to the public under such names as 'Vine-Glo.' These people have been loaned approximately twenty million dollars by the federal farm board, and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, their attorney, has been very active in advocating that the government maintain a uniformly benevolent attitude toward the trade, in view of the fact that the United States practically holds a mortgage upon it.

"They have also urged upon the government reduction of the solid matter context required in 'wine tonic,' and a certain reduction has been granted, although this has not yet reached a point where we may expect the scandalous traffic in wine tonic, which formerly existed before the requirements as to solid content were raised.

Calls It Evasion of Law.

"Senator Tydings, very wet, discussed this matter in the senate of the United States on Feb. 4. 'If you want 20 per cent wine,' said Mr. Tydings, 'it is all right, but if you want 4 per cent beer, look out for prison bars.' The senator finds this an unjust discrimination between the beer industry and the wine industry. So it is. Worse than that, it is an evasion of prohibition and undoubtedly in violation of the purpose of the 18th amendment.

"We have addressed a letter to Senator Tydings, saying that if the wets of the United States senate are ready to challenge this inconsistency and hypocrisy, certainly we, at least, hope that they will be supported by the drys, provided that they intend to make the law consistent by making it conform to the constitution itself."

Assails Women Smoking.

The Methodist board also assailed "the tobacco companies" for creating an "impression that the use of cigarets by young women is socially necessary." It also condemned testimonials "bought" from physicians and others.

The 600 million increase in 1930 cigarets sales was laid by the board to increased use of tobacco by women.

PLANS HUNT FOR GRAFT IN POLICE BANK ACCOUNTS

Vice Quiz Chief Is Sure He'll Find It.

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—In a belief that graft is widespread in the police department and that much of the money collected eventually finds its way into the Magistrates' courts, Referee Samuel Seabury of the Appelate division inquiry into the lower courts is planning an extensive investigation of bank accounts of the police, it was learned today. Mr. Seabury, it was said, will proceed on the premise that police are collecting partly for themselves and partly for others "higher up."

The plan will require issuance of many hundreds of subpoenas and the examination of many hundred bank acounts. These will be limited to police in Manhattan and the Bronx, which is the scope of the investigation. The procedure will be a reverse of that followed heretofore, in which it has been the policy to trace guilt back to the police from evidence of collusion between members of the police and lawyers and bondsmen named in the "framing" of cases.

Will Tell of "Framing."

At a public hearing to begin tomorrow Harry Levey, former stool pigeon, will resume the witness stand to take up his story of "framed" and falsely convicted vice offenders together with further revelations of "fixing" in West Side court, concerning which Joseph Wolfman, the Sing Sing convict and former unlicensed law practitioner, has already testified.

Determination of Mr. Seabury to find out how much money is being banked by policemen, where it comes from and where it goes is a natural sequence, it was said, to the revelation that Police Lieutenant John W. Kenna and his mother, Mrs. Anna Kenna, made deposits of $237,000 in a number of bank accounts during the last six years.

A record of these deposits was obtained today, and it showed that large deposits of money began in 1925, shortly after Lieut. Kenna had been made a sergeant in the Third division, or "tenderloin" district, and increased materially after he was made a lieutenant, October of 1926.

Deposits Grow Rapidly.

On Jan. 1, 1925, Kenna had no bank account, and the total on deposit in all of the accounts in his mother's name was $4,900. During that year he deposited $9,000 and his mother $19,000. The next year, in which he was a lieutenant part of the time and a sergeant part, he deposited $3,600 and his mother $32,000. The following year, which was that of the police administration of Commissioner George V. McLaughlin, Kenna deposited $600 and his mother $23,000.

The following year, 1928, Kenna made deposits of $7,000 and his mother $28,000. In 1929 he deposited $16,000 and his mother $50,000. In 1930 his deposits were $6,000 and those of his mother $29,000.

Mr. Seabury has ordered that these "higher ups" who are getting money must be discovered. Out of the total deposits, bank records showed that Kenna and his mother withdrew $147,000 by check, payable to persons who cannot be traced.

BOSTON HEIRESS, RECENTLY DIVORCED, WEDS A PLUMBER

MRS. PILLSBURY-PHILLIPS-POOLE. [Associated Press Photo.]

Boston, Mass., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth D. Pillsbury Phillips, daughter of the late Albert E. Pillsbury of Boston, former attorney general of Massachusetts and an ardent anti-feminist, yesterday was married at Newton, Mass., to Ellsworth W. Poole, Newton plumbing inspector.

Mrs. Poole is 23 years old and her husband 38.

The $200,000 heiress was granted a divorce Feb. 2 at Reno, Nev., from Richard B. Phillips, a medical student at Edinburgh university. She also was granted custody of their 18 months old son.

BISHOP CANNON IS DEFENDED BY CHURCH ORGAN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—The Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals clip sheet says:

"A board of inquiry consisting of twelve traveling elders of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has investigated formal charges made against Bishop James Cannon Jr., of that denomination and has found that these charges were not sustained by the evidence and that formal trial is not required.

"Several days were consumed in the inquiry and the accusers of the bishop were afforded every opportunity to support their charges, which consisted of 48 specifications. These specifications were answered severally and in detail by the accused.

"It is to be hoped that the exoneration of Bishop Cannon will result in the cessation of the merciless and persistent attacks upon him. He has been subjected to the most serious proceedings under the strictest ecclesiastical law and he has been found not guilty.

"It is the firm conviction of many millions of people that Bishop Cannon has been the victim of persecution, relentless and unscrupulous. His enemies have at their disposal millions of dollars. They command great agencies of publicity. They have obviously been animated by political and class motives."

MYSTERY VEILS U. S. QUIZZING OF W. PERKINS BULL

Agents Admit No Evidence Was Uncovered.

The detention and questioning of W. Perkins Bull, wealthy British land owner, by government agents Friday night remained a mystery yesterday. Bull, Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, daughter of William H. Horlick, malted milk manufacturer, and J. J. Harrison, a private detective, were released after being questioned for several hours, presumably in connection with the investigation of an alleged narcotics smuggling ring. The federal agents admitted they had no evidence against any of the three.

What caused the agents to take Bull from the Drake hotel and examine his personal files remained a secret. Mrs. Sidley was visited by the agents at her Lake Shore Drive hotel apartments. The agents said the use of a code by Bull and Mrs. Sidley in communications with each other led them to think that the two knew something of a dope smuggling plot. They declared later that the code was "harmless."

Request from Washington.

U. S. District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson was asked several days ago to assign one of his assistants to the investigation and he appointed Daniel Anderson. The request was reported to have come from Washington. However, Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger of the narcotics bureau at Washington said yesterday that he knew nothing about the detention of Bull. No report had reached him, he declared. Justice department officials disclaimed any knowledge of the case.

Attorney John Kehoe, representing Bull, reiterated his statement that there was no basis for the seizure of Bull or the others.

"There is a mysterious and malicious enmity behind the arrest," he said. "The government men did not discover a particle of incriminating evidence against Mr. Bull and they were unable to confront him with any suspicious circumstances or acts of his."

Code in Divorce Suit.

The code used by Bull and Mrs. Sidley was devised, they said, in order that they might discuss divorce litigation she has pending against Dr. John S. Sidley of Racine. Bull is acting as her attorney, she said, and they believed themselves under surveillance by agents of Dr. Sidley. Dr. Sidley has a $250,000 suit pending against Bull and his wife on charges that they ruined his health by having him shadowed.

J. Frederick Reeve, attorney for Dr. Sidley, authorized this statement as coming from his client:

"In my opinion the thing is incredible so far as it concerns Mrs. Sidley. So far as Mr. Bull's connection with the affair is concerned, I am unable to express any opinion, having no knowledge of the facts."

Husband Unaware of Raid.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The narcotic squad raid by federal agents upon the Chicago apartment of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley was termed a "most unfortunate affair" tonight by T. H. Spence, Milwaukee attorney for Dr. John Streeter Sidley, Racine, involved in a divorce action with his estranged wife.

"Dr. Sidley was not cognizant of the raids until he read accounts of them in today's papers," Spence said. "Intimation from any source that information from Dr. Sidley might have inspired the federal officers to question his wife is absurd."

We REFUSE to COMPROMISE

No product has ever been manufactured which cannot be cheapened and sold for less. Price, after all, is but a measure of quality.

But the American woman, time and again, has vigorously asserted her refusal to compromise with quality. She insists upon economy, she demands superlative value in everything purchased, but she knows by experience that the cheapened product never gives an adequate return on her investment.

The tremendous growth of this institution is ample evidence of the discriminating purchasing habits of the American woman. During more than a quarter of a century, I. Miller has constantly striven to perfect its fine footwear, to improve every operation in manufacture, to embody in its beautiful shoes only the very finest materials which can be purchased. I. Miller Shoes have been manufactured according to a rigid standard of quality which we believe to be unequalled anywhere in this country.

There have been times (and very recently, too) when we maintained this policy in the face of grave obstacles. The cost of leather was high, fine materials difficult to produce. Everywhere substitutes were encouraged. But in those times the principles of the great founder of this institution—Mr. I. Miller—were both a guide and an encouragement. "Never compromise with quality. Strive for greater economies in manufacture, finer quality and better values."

These shall be our standards in the future as they have been in the past. Without doubt, they will be an important factor in making 1931 the most successful year in I. Miller history.

HOOVER'S FIRST SERIOUS DEFEAT LIKELY ON BONUS

Passage Is Probable Over His Veto.

thus forcing the President either to approve the bill or to veto it and depriving him of the opportunity to "pocket veto" it in the closing days of the session.

That President Hoover is prepared to risk possible adverse effects on his candidacy for reëlection next year by submitting a veto to congress, is the general belief. President Coolidge similarly braved the wrath of the world war veterans, when he vetoed the original bonus bill on May 15, 1924.

In spite of it, Mr. Coolidge was nominated a month later and reëlected triumphantly that fall. It was noted at the annual convention of the American Legion at Boston last fall, when President Hoover was a speaker and Mr. Coolidge also appeared on the platform, that the latter received an ovation eclipsing that accorded any one else, not even excepting President Hoover and Gen. Pershing.

No one would be surprised if the two houses passed the present bonus loan bill over President Hoover's veto by as large margins as they did the original bonus bill over President Coolidge's veto. The house passed that bill over the veto on May 17, 1924, by a vote of 313 to 78 and the senate followed two days later with a vote of 59 to 26.

President Coolidge, in his veto message, went so far as to assert that "we owe no bonus to able bodied veterans of the world war," and that "the gratitude of the nation to these veterans cannot be expressed in dollars and cents."

Tilson Explains Opposition.

"The apparent determination to pass, under suspension of the rules of the house, the so-called bonus certificate bill is, in my judgment, most regrettable, to say the least, and I fear that the well earned prestige of the house will suffer much as a result of it," said Representative Tilson.

"Every one will agree that where these certificates are held by veterans who are in actual need it should be made possible to use them by way of additional loans, and there should be no difficulty in preparing a bill that will accomplish this purpose without the necessity of straining our whole financial structure. I shall be glad to support such a bill, but cannot bring myself to support a measure thus recklessly rushed to a vote over the protest of the treasury and without any adequate explanation as to the extent of the obligation it imposes, how the funds to meet the obligation are to be secured, or what the effect will be upon the country at large, the veterans and their dependents themselves included."

LEGION OFFICIAL ASKS 600 MILLIONS AT ONCE FOR WAR VETERANS

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—John H. Stell, assistant state treasurer and chairman of the legislative committee on adjusted compensation for the Illinois department of the American Legion, today criticized the administration at Washington for its refusal to cash adjusted service certificates.

"Are we," said Stell, in speaking for the veterans, "asking for anything in this period of depression that is not our just due?

"Did not this same secretary of the treasury [Mellon] grant payments to railroads and war contractors of $3,500,000,000 as adjusted compensation after the war, for which was floated the Victory loan drive? Did not 50,000 government employés receive adjusted compensation? What did the 3,478,956 veterans receive?"

The government, Stell said, now has 748 million dollars to apply on the payment of the certificates and is "ahead" more than seven billion on the war debts. He suggests that the veterans be paid 600 million in cash immediately and that 2 per cent bonds be issued for the balance.

GINGER JAKE NOT A BEVERAGE, U. S. WARNS PUBLIC

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A warning to the public to avoid the use of Jamaica ginger extract as a beverage was issued today by the United States public health service.

Recalling its announcement several months ago that the cause of Jamaica ginger paralysis had been found the result of an adulterant in the manufacture of the ginger extract, the health service said:

"It is not yet determined whether recent cases of Jamaica ginger paralysis are the result of the use of some of the older preparation which caused the cases last spring and which is still on the shelves or whether it is a new product which is being marketed by unscrupulous manufacturers."

ARABS URGED TO RISE AGAINST PALESTINE JEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Feb. 15.—The departure for Indian today of Shaukat Ali, Indian Moslem leader and brother of the late Mohammed Ali, who died while attending the recent round table conference at London, was marked by a violent attack on the Jews, which he delivered at the Haifa mosque.

Stating that the adoption of European customs has deprived Palestine Arabs of their power and thus allowed the Jews, whom he termed "Allah's outcasts," to seize the Moslem holy land, he warned the Arabs that the Zionists are not satisfied with Palestine, but want the whole of Arabia.

"I don't wish to massacre our enemies, but I deplore your weakness in allowing them to subjugate you in this—our holy land," Shaukat Ali said. "The time has come for an active effort for Islam to remember that Moslems fear no weapons. Resolve that strangers will never capture your hearts and souls.

"When I visit you next I trust that you will have thrown off your foreign dress and are wearing your national dress instead."

He concluded with an announcement that he was returning in four months to commence preparation for the foundation of a Moslem university in Jerusalem.

"We will bring to Jerusalem thousands of young Moslems who will fight afterwards for Islam," the Moslem leader concluded.

Prime Minister MacDonald's letter to Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the world Zionist organization, clarifying the British government's policy regarding Palestine, has been received with mixed feelings. Moderate Jews regard it as the maximum attainable, and as an appreciable moral victory compared to the original "white paper."

Jewish extremists consider the statement entirely composed of verbiage. Most Jews, however, insist that little will be gained in practice as long as the present government officials are retained. Arab leaders regard the letter as indicating Great Britain's weakness before the outcry of world Zionists, terming it a "black paper." They threaten to go to the orient for support against the new changes which they say will ruin them.

Mother wants to reduce ... Bobby is underweight

Milk will help them both!

Successful reducing means more than cutting down on foods, high in calory value.

For when the weight goes down the scales tell only part of the loss—they don't reveal the lost energy, the lost resistance, the lost joy of living—if the reducing diet lacks the necessary sixteen food elements and six vitamins.

Milk supplies them all. Also it stays the hunger and helps to avoid that "All in" feeling. A quart of milk a day is the very backbone of successful reducing.

Bobby has an entirely different problem. He is growing a man . . . and at the same time burning up a terrific amount of food each day, in his ceaseless energy.

Extra milk for Bobby, in addition to three square meals a day, and a four o'clock lunch if he wants it, are what he needs to take care of the heavy demand for nourishment, and build up to normal weight.

And remember . . . drinking milk is only one way to get milk into the diet. There are cream soups and milk chowders, that are mostly milk . . . scalloped and creamed vegetables . . . casserole dishes . . . rice puddings, tapioca puddings, bread and cake puddings, all of which use a great deal of milk.

Also to vary milk for drinking, you can serve it in cocoa, milk shakes, malted milk, egg nogs, etc. A quart of milk a day for each member of the family should be the first food expenditure. Milk keeps family health up . . . . eating costs down.

NAVAL BUILDING BACKERS URGING 74 MILLION BILL

Hope to Get Funds from This Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Supporters of the $74,000,000 naval construction bill, representing the first installment of a fifteen year program designed to give this country a London treaty navy and tonnage parity with Great Britain, laid plans today for a final effort to obtain congressional approval for the measure at this session.

SENATOR FREDERICK HALE.
[Acme-P. & A. Photo.]

Simultaneously pacifist organizations and little navy forces in congress prepared to redouble their efforts to smother the London treaty building program. As a first move the International League for Peace and Freedom and the national council for prevention of war have inaugurated a move to bring pressure both on the White House and on members of congress in opposition to the naval construction bill.

Six Ships Proposed.

Failure of the construction bill, which involves six ships, one cruiser, one aircraft carrier and four submarines, would delay for at least a year, the navy's projected program for building up to London treaty levels. It would also throw the question of whether the United States intends to adopt a policy of building up to tonnage parity with Great Britain into the next congress. The aim of pacifist forces now is to postpone any action on the building program until the eve of the 1932 world disarmament conference.

The Navy league of the United States, through its president, William Howard Gardiner of New York, issued a long statement on the world naval situation today as the prelude to the fight that will be made this week by Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.], of the senate naval committee, to notch out a place on the senate's program for the naval construction bill. The league statement bristles with statistics indicating a progressive loss of naval strength by this country since the Washington arms conference in 1921. According to Mr. Gardiner the American fleet has been slipping backwards at the rate of $60,000,000 a year for the last nine years, due to failure of congress to appropriate the annual appropriations needed to maintain a modern fleet.

Replacement Figures Given.

Mr. Gardiner produced statistics to show that the annual replacement cost for new ships of the present naval establishment would amount to more than 100 millions. The replacement cost of a London treaty fleet, Mr. Gardiner estimated at least 125 millions annually. In this connection the navy league president published figures showing that the average annual amount spent during the last nine years on new ships and modernization was much less than $40,000,000. He set the total replacement value of an American London treaty fleet at two billion dollars.

Refuse to Play Game on Alfonso's Terms.

he said. "You look strong and well. Are you? You knew I wish you well. The situation makes it necessary for everybody to lend a hand to help find a solution. I have called on you to ask your counsel."

"Peoples Will Is My Will."

Guerra answered with great deliberation, saying:

"It is with great emotion that I return here where I saw you so often with your august mother—Maria Christina—the queen, who was always constitutional and parliamentary. I make no surrender, and in all loyalty tell you that this moment is most difficult. Revolution is a constant menace. The peseta is falling. I believe that a sovereign constitutional assembly is the only solution for deciding the responsibility for what has happened and the kind of régime Spain is to have.

"If the assembly says a monarchy, then it is a monarchy; but if it says republic, then men like myself, who believe that Spain is monarchistic at heart, will withdraw and accept the popular will. While such an assembly meets, the king must not interfere the slightest with its functioning."

Refuses King's Invitation.

"Then," said the king, looking at him narrowly, "you won't accept an invitation to form a government, establish an ordinary parliament after proper constitutional steps are taken, arrange for provincial and municipal elections, and insure complete honesty in elections all around?"

"No! I am a believer in parliaments, but I think the only solution now is a constitutional assembly," Guerra said. "I have spoken my mind and now suggest that your majesty would do well to call the assembly."

The king, it seemed, thanked Guerra cordially for this advice and walked him to the door of his apartments.

A high percentage of the monarch's people in Madrid today surrendered unconditionally to King Carnival. In the crowd that pressed against the sullen line of mounted policemen in front of the palace to watch the great Cambo come, was a brilliant assortment of harlequins, devils, bull fighters, and gypsies.

Mounted Police Charge Mob.

The same curious assortment gaped while the mounted police charged twice to disperse student sympathizers of incarcerated Republicans at the Madrid prison. They were again present in the heart of the capital when the flat sides of sabers were used to drive Republicans from in front of the theaters, where mass meetings to celebrate the anniversary of the republic of 1873 had been called off on government orders.

In the middle of the afternoon, King Alfonso, looking as carefree as usual, drove out from the palace through the carnival mobs, to enjoy a brilliant day in the country. But his advisers are worried that the king is rapidly becoming convinced that this is not a political crisis in the banal sense of several parties being in disarray, but that it is an actual peril to the crown itself.

Reports from Barcelona tonight stated that at a meeting of 4,000 syndicalists called by the national labor confederation a resolution demanding release of all political prisoners was adopted. They also demanded that the king open closed syndicalist centers within 24 hours or the workers would open them any way.

Ten thousand persons in Santander paraded the streets tonight also shouting for the released of political prisoners.

Partner Kills Slayer He Had Bailed Out of Jail

Kannapolis, N. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A man awaiting trial for murder was shot to death near here late today by his business partner, who had helped bail him out of jail. Bill Etheridge, 50, charged with slaying John Hinsley last October, died immediately when Henry Norris, 30, his partner in a grocery store, fired a pistol bullet through his chest. Norris surrendered to police a few minutes after the shooting, saying he had shot the older man in self-defense after they had engaged in an argument as to where they would play poker.

SOVIET RUSSIA AS SEEN BY ALEXIE, A 12 YEAR OLD RED

He Talks and Acts Like a Man and Is an Atheist.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TALLINN, Estonia, Feb. 15.—Alexie Smirnoff is 12 years old and was born in Moscow the year following the bolshevik revolution. His father occupies a high post in the soviet commissariat of education. Alexie and his mother came here to attend the funeral of Alexie's grandfather.

Alexie is a typical product of the new Russia. It met him at a "kaffeeklatsch," where I saw him sitting at the children's table leading the conversation. He was telling them about the trial of eight professors in Moscow. He is a bolshevik in miniature and with colossal self-asurance. He talked and acted like a man. He is in the fourth class of the soviet gymnasium, which corresponds to eighth grade in America's public schools. During a conversation with him, I asked about his studies.

Hold Mock Trial in School.

"During the recent trial of the eight processors, in our class we held a mock trial," he related. "From the newspapers we studied the evidence. A commission was appointed and as homework they had to draw up a resolution condemning the professors, which the class passed upon. There were a number of speeches and the next day the commission brought in their verdict. It sentenced the eight professors to ten years' imprisonment.

"Then the teacher scolded us and told us we were not correct in our bolshevik ideology. The commission had to draw up another report and they changed the sentence to death."

I asked Alexie if he had heard about the forty-eight men occupying high positions in the soviet food industry who had been shot a few months ago. He had, and said that while the sentence had seemed severe, to his class, that still when the collegium of the Gay Pay Ou (secret police) passed the death sentence, then it must be right.

Practice War Games.

Alexie said the two most important branches of study in school were a course in the theory, strategy and practice of war and social responsibility. Soldiers come to lecture and they bring guns, machine guns, hand grenades, and gas masks, which are aken apart and explained. During the summer the boys, who are all Pioneers [Soviet Boy Scouts], are taken to camps near Moscow, where, besides raising vegetables, they play war games, have gas attacks, learn how to attack and capture a machine gun position, and drill and exercise. They also play football, but the war game is more popular.

Social responsibility covers a wide variety of subjects, according to Alexie. All children must read the newspapers. The following day the teacher asks questions such as "What happened yesterday in America?" or "What is happening in Germany?" The news published in the soviet press is about labor disputes, strikes, uprisings and of the "horrible conditions under which the worker is living abroad."

Predicts New Wars.

I asked Alexie what he though about the prospect of the world revolution and of war.

"Do you know that last year England, Poland, and Rumania planned a war against the soviet union?" he asked. "But their plans fell through. Our Gay Pay Ou arrested the eight professors, who made everything clear to us, and now that plan has collapsed But we know they still plotting attacks against us and we are preparing. About the world revolution, well, our class does not expect that to develop in all countries at once. It is going to be a gradual process following new wars."

Alexie told me this with the aplomb of a professor. He was not showing off, but actually he impressed me that he had lost his boyhood, that he thought and reasoned like a man.

Expects to Live in Paradise.

I asked him what he thought of the five year plan to industrialize Russia.

"After the plan is finished, then we shall be living in a paradise, we shall have all our needs satisfied," he said.

Asked about conditions in Moscow, Alexie answered that everything was normal. But I told him I knew about the food shortage and asked him why his little suit was made of such poor material and why his shoes were clumsy and bad. His lip trembled, and he said:

"No, I'm not lying. We have everything, but maybe there is not enough to go around, but there will be soon. I do not need anything; I am satisfied."

I next asked him what his religion was and he promptly answered that he was a "Bezboshnik"—atheist.

"A few of the children in the class belong to families who believe in God and we pass out circulars to them and they pass them out to us, inviting us to church," he continued. "I am a bezboshnik because I think it is possible to be good and honest without believing in God."

Within the soviet union there are now eight million little Alexies going to the same sort of schools he attends.

FORMER WATCHMAN KILLS SELF.

Arthur T. Rankin, 60 years old, former watchman for the Hargrave Detective agency, shot and killed himself in his room at the Reed hotel, 102 West Lake street, yesterday. He left a note asking the police to notify relatives at Peru, Ind., and a son at the Hines Memorial hospital.

THREE VESSELS FAST AGROUND AFTER STORM

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The northwest storm that brought grief to half a dozen ships in the vicinity of Hampton Roads yesterday had blown itself out today. Three ships that were beached remained aground.

The Beauty St. Joseph, abandoned fishing smack, sank off Cape Henry and her crew was brought ashore by another fishing vessel.

The Fort Armstrong, Nelson line steamer, still was hard aground near Cape Lookout, with the coast guard cutter Carrabasett standing by.

The Oritani, Oriental Navigation company steamer, which was reported helpless 150 miles off Cape Fear, was reported making headway under her own power toward Hatteras.

Coast guard patrol boat No. 200, which went aground on Hog island, was floated last night and was en route to Norfolk only slightly damaged.

WE WILL DIGNIFY A NAME

» Cincinnati's greatest new hotel—the magnificence of which has become the talk of the country—has been re-christened Starrett's Netherland Plaza.

In making this change, we are keenly conscious of the feeling that, far more important than the name itself, is what we make of the name.

It is our pledge that we shall endeavor to make this name... Starrett's Netherland Plaza... live as a new interpretation of luxurious comfort, as the standard-bearer of new-day hospitality, and as the gathering place of those who would live and dine well.

All this so that strangers may visit Cincinnati and go away talking about a city and a hotel of the new order. (They will probably—as a matter of convenience—contract the name of the hotel to "Netherland Plaza").

And so that visitors to Cincinnati may make the "Netherland Plaza" a part of their lives... a place to go with pride, and a standard by which hotel luxury the world over may be compared.

By our works, we shall dignify a name.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

"Pardon me · haven't we met before" ?

"MAYBE you don't recognize me in my present guise. I am Trickery. I live by making big promises for whatever I happen to be selling. Oftentimes I even look and sound sincere—sometimes I have to, to make people believe my wild claims and superlatives I use for my product. I flourish during economy waves; it is then that folks fall most easily for my 'something for nothing' bait. Born of the Weakness of Human Nature and fathered by Deception, I boast a long line of antecedents dating back from the fakers of long ago and down through charlatans of all periods.

"Sometimes I am in the guise of a salesman, sometimes I am a manufacturer, sometimes a store, sometimes an advertisement. My racket is to make you think I am a genius; I trick you into believing I have something better for the same money or something just as good for less money. Smile if you wish, but I have fooled every one of you at some time or other. And when I fool you, I fool you where it hurts most, right in your pocketbook.

"You may not recognize me if you see me tomorrow. I never stay in the same place very long or make the same appearance, but I'm sure we'll meet again. We'll meet as long as there are enough of you still around who believe that I can perform greater miracles for your money than the man who sells an honest product, honestly presented and honestly priced."

One Hundred and Seventy Years Ago

Dr. Samuel Johnson, in The Idler, Jan. 20, 1759, wrote:

"Advertisements are now so numerous that they are very negligently perused, and it therefore becomes necessary to gain attention by magnificence of promises, and by eloquence sometimes sublime and sometimes pathetic . . .

"There are some, however, that know the prejudice of mankind in favor of modest sincerity.

"The trade of advertising is now so near to perfection that it is not easy to propose any improvement. But as every art ought to be exercised in due subordination to the public good, I cannot but propose it as a moral question to these masters of the public ear, whether they do not sometimes play too wantonly with our passions . . ."

WHERE are the miracle stores which promised you so much? Recall to yourself how many are gone . . . and then consider how the goods they sold you are standing up.

Out of Chicago's 3,500,000 population a few people will be fooled all of the time, and a number of people will be fooled some of the time, but not by a store that wants to stay in business all of the time.

For 55 years Revell's has been selling good home furnishings. In all that time it has never resorted to bombastic, high-pressure salesmanship or advertising. It has never claimed to offer the world's greatest values . . . and yet it could not have been far from them and remained in business.

In the name of fair dealing to the public, we urge you to be cautious about where you buy. There is much on the market today that is distinctly not as attractive as it is represented. Do a little investigating first. Go below the surface and find out whether a so-called bargain is real or mythical. Don't buy without comparison. Check the price, and, above all, the quality, with that being offered by any reputable and well-established store. If you will do this before you buy, you cannot go wrong. Any home furnishing store of character will gladly help you. Revell's extends a cordial invitation to the public to use its merchandise and its furniture for comparison purposes.

CHICAGO—A CITY CRUSHED BY TAXES.

In the calendar year 1931 the taxpayers of Cook county will be called upon to pay two years' taxes. The total payment will be close to $550,000,000. It is a staggering sum, exceeding Germany's annual bill for reparations by something like $60,000,000.

The whole world is agitated by the size of the bill Germany must pay. International congresses have been called about it. Many economists have staked their reputations on the judgment that the burden is too heavy to be borne by a nation of 60,000,000 people.

The amazing and unbelievable fact remains that the voters of Chicago are so docile that many of them do not regard the tax issue as uppermost in the forthcoming primary. Thompson is relying on the fact that the tax bills will not be out until several months after the primary is history. He seems to think that citizens will be unmindful of their taxes until the bills are actually in the mails, though there can be no doubt about the size of the levy because the money has already been borrowed and spent. If his judgment is correct Chicago had better abandon the notion that it is capable of self-government and request the President to turn over the job to the marines.

High taxes have driven some industries long established in Chicago outside the city. Other industries which might have been established here have gone elsewhere, where taxes were more moderate even though other conditions were less favorable. Chicago's growth in population and wealth has unquestionably been hampered by the high cost of government.

Thompson cannot escape direct responsibility for that. He is responsible for the conduct of the city and school governments. More than 60 per cent of the taxes collected in Chicago are devoted to maintaining the city government and the schools. There can be no economy in government as long as there is incompetence, waste, and graft in the departments over which the mayor has official control.

Thompson offers neither excuses nor apologies to the taxpayers. He has shown no sense of stewardship, no sense of obligation. If further proof were needed, his handling of the flood relief fund provided it. During his administration Chicago has gone through the most serious financial crisis in its history. Chicago has been laughed at the world over as a wastrel and bankrupt among cities. Today it faces a financial crisis more acute even than that of last year, but Thompson today, as always, has nothing except bigger bills to contribute toward a solution of the difficulties. Mr. Strawn led the rescue movement a year ago because the mayor was plainly helpless. As official spokesman for Chicago in financial matters, Thompson is a heavy liability, both moral and intellectual. If he could think intelligently about government finance it would do no good because legislators and bankers with whom he must deal know him for what he is.

Hard thinking, rigid economy and old fashioned honesty and rectitude are needed today in the mayor's chair as never before. The community is being crushed under its tax burdens which Thompson created, whose complications he does not understand, and which he cannot conceivably relieve. Only a period of unexampled prosperity made Thompson's taxes bearable in the past. In the midst of a period of depression the continuance of his régime would be devastating in its consequences. No change in the machinery of tax collection would help because the fundamental cause of all our tax burden—the mayor—would remain.

Judge Lyle offers the alternative. He has a reputation for aggressive righteousness which can be a priceless asset to the city in the emergency. His nomination will mean the end of a régime of financial mismanagement, waste, and incompetence without precedent in Chicago's history.

TO STOP THE ENTRY OF ALIEN LABOR.

The experiences of this winter would lead naturally to a reconsideration of immigration laws. The lack of work for the labor already in the country rebukes as a national folly the continued admission of more labor. Bills for tighter restrictions have been joined in a house joint resolution along lines recommended by Secretary of State Stimson. The resolution would reduce the quotas to 10 per cent of the normal for two years beginning July 1. Visas granted from North and South American countries would be reduced to 10 per cent of the visas granted in the year ended June 30, 1930. Immigration from the Philippines would be limited to 500 a year.

These regulations would reduce immigration from the quota countries and from Central and South America to about one-tenth of what it was in the year ended last June, and it would be the beginning of quota restriction applied to Latin America.

There always has been objection in congress to immigration measures proposed for the benefit of the United States. It is both sentimental and selfish, inconsiderate of national welfare, and concerned with some racial, alien, or economic advantage opposed to the general good. The country is struggling to restore to idle wage earners the opportunity to make their living again. It seems incredible that it should permit the entry of labor from outside to complicate and hinder the recovery it is trying to make.

SPAIN GOING REPUBLICAN.

Alfonso, after the manner of kings about to lose their crowns and shirts, is shifty, endeavoring to make the rind pass for the meat of the orange, but the republicans of Spain follow him closely and it seems unlikely that he will be able to make a pretense of constitutional assembly pass for representative government based on honest elections.

The blight of ignorance, intolerance and despotism which Charles V. and Philip II. fastened upon the vitality of Spain in its most energetic moment ruined the nation and might have ruined the people. Intolerance defeated itself. In doing so it cleared the way for the freer institutions of England to be carried abroad and to be maintained against what had been the greatest military power of Europe. There was that good in it, but the evil accrued to Spain.

The Spanish, whose character has survived centuries of disaster in government, have been the most inert of western Europeans and their country consequently the most backward, but they have at least preserved the place which they may occupy among modern nations. Their republican leaders must be convinced that the progress toward rehabilitation cannot stand the drag of monarchy. Experience shows them that kingship means constant intrigue, with undependable compromises and unreliable concessions. The king seems to welcome reform, but only that he may find opportunity to destroy it. It is not in Hapsburg and Bourbon blood to accept the conditions of constitutional monarchy and it is not in the destiny of the republican system to tolerate them.

GOOD OLD DRY KANSAS.

Kansas probably will remain until the end of the noble experiment the most interesting state under it. That may be a biased and partial opinion. There may be others more interesting—California, for instance, or Georgia—but preference always comes back to Kansas. Michigan and Indiana drys have a gleeful savageness which carts victims away for life or carries its rigors into the sickroom. California performs modern miracles with the grape and with federal appropriations. The farm board gives the state more money for the making of wine than the enforcement unit puts in it for the glory of Volstead. Good old dry Georgia drinks its moon out of tomato cans to get a competent free arm technique. Florida, of course, flits in and out of the Union at will. Part of the time it is in a liquorbund with the Bahamas, and should then fly the British flag at its ports to indicate the prevailing jurisdiction.

Kansas, however, is the favorite Volstead state. It began bleeding in old abolition days. In addition to John Brown and Carrie Nation, was it not in Kansas that the roosters laid eggs and had whiskers on their legs? Was there not something as to the size of the eggs? "As big as beer kegs." Now the roosters have jake paralysis, but the beer kegs are just the same.

In consequence of certain disclosures and in view of the fact that a stern legislature is in session, the fraternities of the University of Kansas have voted to go dry. That is the spirit which will win. Kansas may go ginger jaking through the experiment, but it will never say die. Its one oversight in this particular was that it did not also vote the fraternities of the University of Michigan, the great sister dry state, dry at the same time. From the news it appears that the truly good have been asleep in Ann Arbor.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN SEARCH OF ITSELF.

Mr. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has called a meeting of the committeemen for March 5 in Washington to discuss "plans and policies to govern our activities during the next fifteen months." These activities, of course, relate to the presidential campaign and the discussion is to discover what the Democratic party is and where it is.

Its opportunity is to go Jeffersonian, but the south has lost the doctrine of state rights at the very moment when it might be asserted with full regard for the Union and with full respect for the constitution. When state rights meant the destruction of the Union the southern Democrats held to the doctrine as to the breath of life. Now that it can be made the means of return to the first principles of American government the south does not want it.

Jefferson is not eloquent any longer for southern Democratic ears. Very likely he never was. The Jones five and ten law has the same spiritual background as the fugitive slave act, and the denial of the right of petition against slavery would be employed now, if possible, against modification of federal liquor control.

The opportunity for a party stand for the restoration of constitutional government and for a union of competent states is apparently closed to the Democratic party by the intolerance and autocracy of its dry elements.

Editorial of the Day

[The Des Moines Tribune.]

Two factors made possible the tremendous speed made by Capt. Malcolm Campbell, Englishman, in an automobile at Daytona Beach the other day.

The first factor was engine power, far in excess of the power available for racing autos a few years ago.

The second factor was the lessening of air resistance. This was achieved by direct application of the lessons learned in aviation.

Get an automobile up to a certain speed, not greatly above 100 miles an hour, and the air resistance it encounters becomes more important than ground friction, inertia of the heavy mass, or anything else.

Campbell's speed machine was so designed that, while it hugged the ground, it slid through the resisting air as smoothly as the stream-lined fuselage of an efficient airplane.

Hence the amazing speed of over 245 miles an hour.

Of course safe travel on the ground at anything like that speed is impossible. For practically all sets of circumstances, as soon as one gets above about 80 miles an hour he would better do his traveling in the air if he wants to be reasonably safe. High speed in the air is a safety factor; on the ground it is a danger factor.

FOOD FOR YOUNG BABIES.

EVEN young babies are able to digest and assimilate a considerable number of foods, provided the foods are clean and pure, and are properly prepared. Of course, mother's milk is the best food for a young baby. When this source of supply is not available, clean, fresh cow's milk suffices very well. Milk powder, the canned milks, and the baby foods are good when properly used. These conclusions are based on a study of several hundred or thousand well babies cared for at the Berkeley Infant Welfare center.

These records showed that, as a rule, babies began getting cereal in their sixth month. However, one healthy baby began eating a properly prepared cereal at three weeks of age. He thrived on it. Another began in the second month, and many were getting it in the fourth month.

Vegetables were given pureed. They were begun in the sixth month, as a rule. The first vegetables given were pureed spinach and carrots. Baked potato was not given earlier than the seventh month and the rule was not to give it until the eleventh month.

The breads given were mostly hard crackers. These were not given usually until the tenth month, though some babies were chewing crackers during the fourth month and others at the fifth.

The first meat given was bacon. The rule was to give bacon at thirteen months. However, some babies had fat meat as early as the fifth month. Liver was given at eleven months. Eggs were given in the eighth month, as a rule, though some babies had eggs as early as the fourth month. There are physicians who start babies on crackers, meats, and eggs earlier than is the practice in this center.

Apple sauce and baked apple, free from peel and coarse fiber, are given at seven months. One baby had apple at five months; scraped raw, ripe apple was given at twelve months. Apricots at six months, custard at six months, and gelatin at ten. One baby six weeks old was given ice cream. Cod liver oil and orange juice were started very soon after birth. A few babies were compelled to discontinue one or the other. The sugars added to milk were used in the order named: Malt sugar, corn sugar, and milk sugar. In recent years corn sugar is used much more frequently than the others.

Daily sun baths, begun at somewhere near one month, and kept up at all seasons, were a prominent feature in keeping these babies well. The climate made this possible.

The babies doubled weight by the fifth month and trebled it by the twelfth. The gains, by quarters of the year, were first, 5 pounds; second, 3.25; third, 2.15; fourth, 3.25. In the first six months the gain in height was 5.4 inches; in weight, 8.7 pounds. In the second six months, gain in height was 3.3 inches, and in weight, 5.7 pounds.

CANKER SORES IN MOUTH.

F. R. writes: 1. What is the remedy for canker sores in the mouth?

2. What cure is there for acidity of the stomach?

REPLY.

1. Touch the canker with some caustic. To prevent recurrences the diet and eating habits need to be changed.

2. Find the cause and cure it, whereupon the acidity will disappear. Among the causes are: Infected gall bladder, gall stones, adhesions, ulcers of the stomach and duodenum, worry, anxiety, fear, constipation, wrong eating habits, and diet.

GRAY HAIR IN YOUTH.

Miss N. writes: What is the cause of the hair of a girl of 14 turning gray? What remedy would you suggest to prevent further turning?

REPLY.

This is inherited. Nothing you do will stop the hair from turning. If you inherit a gray streak you will develop grayness according to your pattern regardless of what you do.

Regard the gray hair as a mark of beauty, for so it is. Also, regard it as a mark of distinction. Few people can prove their pedigree.

Save your money. Increase your pride.

MALE FERN FOR TAPEWORM.

M. B. writes: How can I get rid of tapeworm?

REPLY.

The best tapeworm remedy is male fern. Pomegranate is good. So much depends on proper preparation for the treatment and proper follow up, and the margin of safety is so narrow, that you had better have a physician direct your treatment.

REPEATED WARNINGS IGNORED.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—Repeated complaints made in regard to the people east of the public alleyway between Jackson boulevard and Adams street west of Ashland avenue have not been heeded. These people have been served with notices several times not to use this property as a dumping ground, but still persist in dumping ashes, cans, etc., making a very unsightly appearance. When warm weather comes this place becomes a breeding place for flies and other pests. Please give us your assistance again.

A. B.

Writer has been complaining about conditions in her immediate vicinity over a considerable period of time. Every effort has been made by this bureau to remedy conditions and as a final step legal proceedings have been started against abutting property owners to compel them to stop using alley for storage of garbage receptacles and for violations of the ordinance relative to dumping. Service is given on refuse collections in this district semi-weekly.

DEPENDS ON POLICY.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—To settle an argument, is life insurance paid to the beneficiary in case the insured commits suicide? For instance, on one of the dollar a month policies? J. A. H.

Depends on the wording of the policy. Some insurance policies expressly except suicide. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Etaoin Shrdlu and the New Aristocracy.

Etaoin Shrdlu, the Line's candidate in the hot mayoralty campaign which is now raging in Chicago, emphatically stated yesterday that he stood for equal rights to all men.

"I refuse to bow to the new aristocracy," declared our peerless leader yesterday, "no matter though they wear fur lined overcoats of priceless value, though they blaze with diamonds and pearls the size of hen's eggs, though their suits be made by the most expensive tailors in London; a bootlegger or a rum runner is no more to me than a simple, plain business man down to his last million."

"But," said your reporter, "these men who have worked their way up in the great booze business which has now become one of our basic industries form the new aristocracy of the country, and as such demand and receive great social attention."

"They may occupy all the best seats in the theater," said Mr. Shrdlu, "they may build their marble palaces, they may dash down the streets in their great imported limousines with gorgeously uniformed chauffeurs and footmen about them, but to me 'the rank is but the guinea's stamp, a man's a man for a' that.'"

"But," said your reporter, "this new aristocracy——"

"Boozeocracy, I call it," interrupted Mr. Shrdlu. "Yes, I know you are going to point to its colossal wealth and the proud social position to which it has risen. The boozeocracy is wealthy—so wealthy it can buy anything it wants, from a diamond studded toothpick to a policeman. It is haughty in the proud eminence it has won. But let me remind you that 'kind hearts are more than coronets and simple faith than Norman blood.' No, to me a haughty hi-jacker or bootlegger, in spite of all of his money and his power, is not a bit better than a man who has made his money in the steel, the iron, or the bond business, or in the butter and egg trade. Compared to the new boozeocracy, such men seem somber and simple, but let me tell you that even 'rags are noble garments when worn for virtue's sake.'"

"Then you would not accord recognition or special privileges to the new aristocracy?"

"I did not say that," declared Mr. Shrdlu, "I said I believed in equality for all, the simple citizen as well as the haughty bootlegger."

"But, Mr. Shrdlu," butted your reporter, "our new liquor aristocracy having won its way to the high place it now occupies, does it not necessarily demand awe and admiration from us who still remain the common people?"

"Not from me," declared Mr. Shrdlu, emphatically. "I still hold that 'tis only noble to be good.' I would today treat the king of England with as much politeness and respect as I would show to Alfonse Capone himself. In spite of the great social upheaval in our country and the meteoric rise of this new liquor aristocracy, a mere king would be just as welcome in my house as a bootlegger, or hi-jacker, or alky runner. Ah, yes, beneath the moth eaten ermine of a king there may beat a heart of gold."

"But doesn't the rapid rise of our new aristocracy show a genius that we must all recognize?"

"Pish tush!" snapped Mr. Shrdlu, "I think every bit as much of a genius like Paderewski, who finds expression through the piano; or Fritz Kreisler, who touches our hearts through the vibrant notes of his violin; or Michelangelo, who lifts us to the clouds with his paintings; or Keats or Shelley or Shakespeare, who exalt us with their poetry, as I do of any bootlegger or rum runner or alky cooker, no matter how much gold he has stored up, how many marble palaces he has built, or how much influence he wields."

"So be it," said Mr. Shrdlu, solemnly, "but it is the way I feel. I refuse to be swept away by popular clamor. Ah, 'the kindest thing is to do and say the kindest thing in the kindest way.' No, I care not how high these bootleggers and rum runners have climbed, 'act well your part, there all the honor lies.' And also, 'let us then be up and doing with a heart for any fate, still achieving, still pursuing, learn to labor and to wait.' And now I must ask you to go. I see two bootleggers down in the street who are probably coming to see me, and, of course, I couldn't even think of making them wait a half minute. You understand!"

But as your reporter took too much time in going, Mr. Shrdlu kicked him out through the window. It was all right; the new aristocracy must not be kept waiting.

THIS TIRESOME GROWING-UP.

Let me become that little boy once more
Who once with me did love to leap and play,
And hunt and fish, and joyously explore
The great green world adventure held in sway:

Let me return to him and launch once more
Upon the waves of swiftly flowing streams
Great ships like argosies of pirate lore,
Each gayly overflowing with bright dreams.

For all the ships that I sent out before,
With such high hopes, must have been lost at sea,
For though I've waited long upon the shore
Not one has ever come back home to me. . . .

And that is why, if I could have my way,
With book by cozy fireside I'd be curled,
Or I'd be out adventuring all day,
Once more wide-eyed, enraptured with the world!

So please, while still his glad heart beats in me,
Let me become the boy I was once more,
For truly, neither he nor I can see
What all this tiresome growing-up is for!

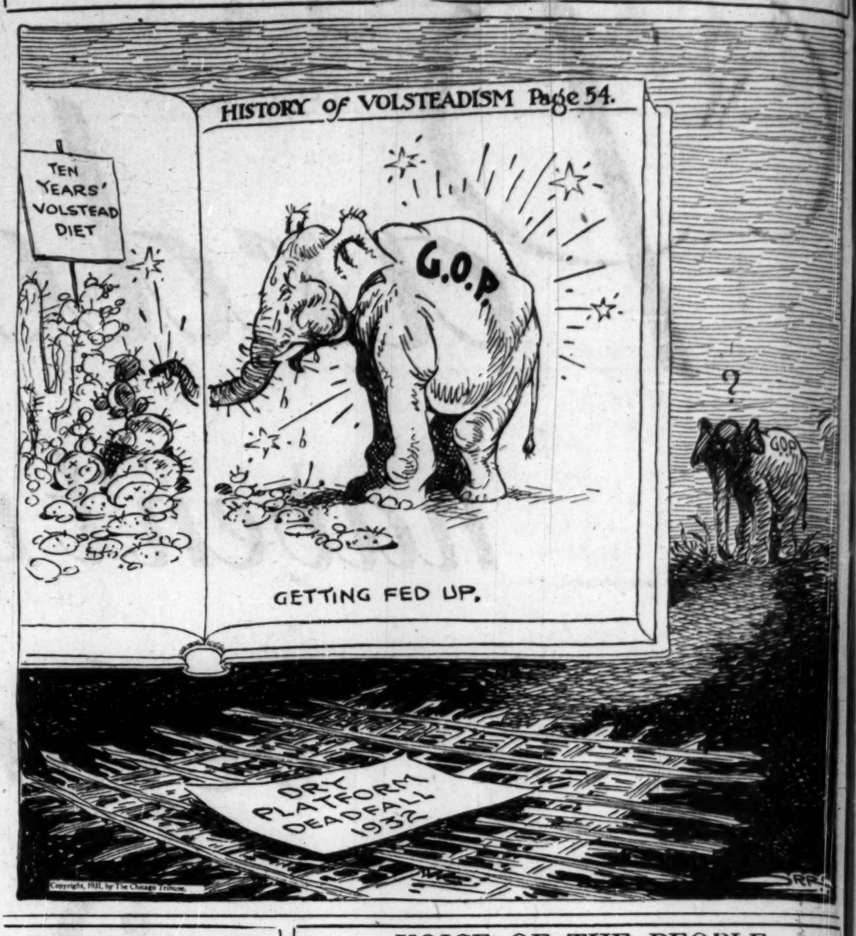
PROHIBITION



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 16, 1915.

AMSTERDAM.—The British coasts are to be mined by Germany, according to Berlin advices. This will be an additional peril to the shipping of neutral nations.

WASHINGTON.—The protest of the United States will not cause Germany to change its plan of warfare against British merchant shipping unless Great Britain changes its plan of attempting to starve the German nation. This was made clear in a note from the German government delivered at the state department by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador. The note said: "Germany will be obliged to adhere to the announced principles till England submits to the recognized rules of warfare established by the declaration of Paris and London or until she is compelled to do so by the neutral powers." It is learned here that Britain is now ready to apply full pressure to a food blockade of the German coast in an attempt to starve out the foe.

BERLIN.—Retreating before the German forces north of Tilsit, the Russians have been driven out of Piktupoenen, in the direction of Tauroggen, several miles within the Russian frontier. Field Marshal von Hindenburg's armies east of the Mazurian lakes have broken up every attempt of the Russians to make a stand and are pursuing the enemy over a long battle front. Fighting is in progress on both sides of the frontier. A dispatch to a news agency from Bagdad says that in an engagement between the advance guard of the Turkish left wing and British infantry and cavalry the British withdrew, leaving seventeen men dead.

FEBRUARY 16, 1901.

HILLSBORO, Ill.—Justice Jesse J. Phillips died here at the age of 64. He was prominent as a jurist, politician and diplomat.

CHICAGO. — Seven fires of incendiary origin were discovered in the Majestic hotel, an uncompleted structure, which adjoins the Great Northern hotel on Quincy street. While lacking the motive of robbery, which was apparent in the fires of the preceding day in the Palmer house, Sherman house, and Great Northern, the fires in the Majestic are attributed by the police to the same man or men. Little damage was done at the Majestic.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The following dispatch has been received at the war department from Gen. MacArthur at Manila: "One hundred and twelve rifles and 1,500 rounds of ammunition surrendered at Hageney on Feb. 13, mostly from supplies secreted in swamps. On Feb. 10, 130 prominent natives of Camalig, Albay, renounced the Filipino cause and publicly took the oath of allegiance to the United States government."

BOSTON, Mass.—As Miss Edith Talbot of Bowdoin Square theater was leaving the stage entrance she was shot by a man whose identity has not been learned, the ball striking her right arm and causing a serious wound.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind.—Maurice Thompson, a novelist, died early this morning. He was born on Sept. 9, 1844, at Fairfield, Ia. "Alice of Old Vincennes" brought Mr. Thompson into notice as a novelist. As a young author he attracted the attention of such men as Horace Greeley, Lowell, Longfellow, Bryant and Emerson.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 16, 1881.

LONDON.—Large bodies of Boers are reported moving south of New Castle, apparently to attack the reinforcements. One hundred seamen are ordered to Transvaal from Sheerness to form a naval brigade.

LONDON.—It is stated that Gen. Colley telegraphs that the Boers have made overtures of peace; that the proposals have been considered in cabinet council, and that a reply has been dispatched by telegraph to Colley.

LONDON.—The Golos of St. Petersburg, received in London by mail, states that a plot has been discovered to blow up the arsenal at Kieff, and there have been numerous arrests.

DETROIT, Mich.—A company was organized here this morning, with a capital stock of $500,000, for the purpose of manufacturing electricity for lighting, heating, and driving machinery. It is called the Edison Electric Company of Detroit.

FINDING JOBS FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—There appeared in the Voice of the People on Feb. 12 a communication entitled "Relief," signed by B. E. Wing.

The experience recited by Mr. Wing deserves comment from those responsible for the operation of the governor's commission on unemployment and relief. It would appear that application was made for work at the special work division through which men, heads of families, residents of Chicago and in need of relief because of unemployment, are provided employment on special public work which has been created through the efforts of the commission. The employment is given only upon the recommendation of one of the established family relief agencies and no man is permitted to earn more than a total of $50 per month, in order that these work opportunities may be spread among the greatest possible number of men. At the present time 7,000 men are so employed and 7,000 more have been certified by the family relief agencies and are awaiting placement. The funds allocated for these wages will be exhausted by April 1.

Thousands of men apply each day. Some do not understand the conditions upon which work is given. It is a physical impossibility for the limited force of interviewers to talk with every man on the day he applies. It is necessary to advise men to return later. It is the intention that this advice be given courteously.

The commission would respectfully request patience on the part of those who apply for this work.

WILFRED S. REYNOLDS,
Secretary, Governor's Commission on Unemployment.

TAXICABS IN THE WAY.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—There is a station for taxicabs on the south side of Randolph street at Michigan avenue, directly in front of the north entrance to the public library. It ought to be done away with. I venture to say that for every person who gets in a taxicab there, twenty-five board the buses. Because the taxicabs monopolize the curb, the bus patrons have to dash into the middle of the street when a bus comes, with much inconvenience and some risk of accident. If the taxicabs must have their station on that corner it would be much more sensible to line up the cabs in the middle of the street and leave the curb open for buses. Of course, if the public library were a privately run institution the cab stand would never be permitted there for a moment.

BUS RIDER.

THE MOST DECEITFUL ELEMENT.

Mattoon, Ill., Feb. 12.—Since when has THE TRIBUNE concluded that editorial writers in the metropolitan press were not an "element in our public life today"? In today's issue you charge that "the professional prohibitionists are the most deceitful element in our public life today." I can't quite get whether this reads the newspaper editorial writer out of being an element in our public life or claims that all editorial writers are prohibitionists.

It was said in the state legislature the other day that there were three kinds of liars, common liars, damn liars, and statistical liars. But when you combine the three varieties it gives a pretty good description of the paid wet newspaper deceiver. WILLIS W. VOSE.

WHEN THE MAYOR WORKS.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 13.—Now that election is coming around we see Thompson rushing to his office in an open automobile at 9 a. m. and throughout the day you can see him dash around town with great bustle. Where has he been since the last election? When the city is overrun with crime, financially bankrupt, when thieves and hijackers walk the streets, Big Bill cannot be found. If he would devote half the energy to chasing crime that he does to chasing the election, we might have a city that is not everywhere disgraced by its crime and graft. R. P. NORMAN.

BY THE LOUDER BRAY.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 11.—As a matter of information will you tell me how the Chicago people are able to tell which is the jackass and which Bill Thompson when both appear on the same platform? LOWELL WARNER.

PERHAPS.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—If the high school students of Chicago were allowed to vote for mayor, would they vote more intelligently than the qualified voters of the city? This question was recently raised and discussed in a class at the University High school, and it aroused considerable interest. The point was brought up that, after all, when the United States constitution was made, the average person of twenty-one did not have as good an education as the high school student of today and that, therefore, he was probably no better qualified to vote.

It would be possible for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to carry on a city-wide straw vote in the high schools on the day the election for mayor is held. Perhaps the results would prove that it is time for the qualifications for voting to be changed. MILTON B. ENGEL.

ABOUT A NICKEL.

Park Ridge, Ill., Feb. 12.—For the information of one of your readers who has a peculiar nickel, dated 1913: When the first buffalo nickel came out some engravers used to change the head of the Indian into different designs. Your reader evidently has one of them.

J. P. PETTIBONE.

WORTH $50.

Galena, Ill., Feb. 13.—It seems more than likely this is the liberty head nickel of 1913, and if so, is quoted by some numismatists as worth $50.

OLIVA M'HUGH.

FOR AN INCOME TAX.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—If all taxes on real estate and personal property were abolished and an income tax only substituted it would not only be equitable but would be a great saving of expense to the taxpayer. It would would abolish the assessors. It would would abolish the board of review. It would abolish the board of equalization, leaving nothing of our present taxing machinery but the collection end of it.

DAVID ROSENHEAD.

CANCELLATION AND THE BONUS.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—I wonder if you have noticed that the people conducting the opposition to the cashing of the veterans' bonus certificates are the same ones carrying on the whispering campaign for the cancellation of the European war debts to us. I'll get our bonus, in cash, in the next week in the ship yards. ANDREW GRIMMINGER.

AIRCRAFT VALUE TO BE TESTED IN CANAL 'ATTACK'

Rival Fleets Seeking Each Other in War Game.

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The scouting fleet of the United States navy drew anchor tonight and, with ports closed, decks darkened and radios silenced, slipped silently out of Balboa harbor to meet a pseudo invader somewhere in the blackness of the Pacific ocean.

It was the active beginning—although the annual naval maneuvers were on officially at midnight—of a war problem that will test especially the effectiveness of aircraft in defending the Panama canal.

David S. Ingalls, secretary for aeronautics of the United States navy, said on arrival last week that past methods of defense had proved inadequate, hence the defending fleet this year is leaning largely on aircraft, and the attacking battle fleet is superior in surface ships.

Los Angeles Unhooks.

The giant dirigible Los Angeles, participating for the first time in a military problem, unhooked from its mastship, the Patoka, shortly before 7 p. m. and cruised at low altitude over Panama City and Balboa, its lights blinking in the growing dusk, before turning its nose westward and heading out over the Pacific, presumably searching for the oncoming battle fleet.

All day long the scouting fleet lay in the outer harbor of Balboa and prepared for active service, having arranged itself there in fighting formation during the night. Spread out just beyond the fortified islands, it presented an impressive military picture.

In the midst of it all was the Los Angeles, its sleek sides gleaming in the sun, and nearby were the aircraft carriers Saratoga and Lexington, their long landing decks a-swarm with fighting naval planes.

Radio to Be Silent.

Tonight the Balboa docks appeared deserted after the departure of the scouting fleet, for only the U. S. S. Texas, flagship of Admiral Jehu V. Chase, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, remained tied there. The Texas will act as umpire ship in the war games.

There will be no word from the fleet during the coming week, because the present radio equipment is a giveaway to the radio finders of the opposing armada. The present problem will last a week.

EARL CARROLL'S SHOW PLAYS ON TO FULL HOUSE

The cast of Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" skipped through the revue last night without police interference under the armistice imposed by Municipal Judge Justin F. McCarthy. On Thursday the judge is to give his decision on the morality of the show. Last Friday the police raided the show on charges of obscenity and took members of the cast into court.

The raid brought a full house to the theater last night. Chicagoans, knowing that Judge McCarthy had viewed the musical comedy Saturday afternoon to pass on its merits or demerits, bought seats to judge for themselves. The show continued to run intact, including comic skits depicting Chicago's crime, to which, it is rumored, certain politicians objected because of the mayoralty campaign.

Among the police there was gossip that the next place to be raided will be the State-Congress theater, owned by the Yankee Amusement company, of which M. Froelich is president. Mr. Froelich is a friend of Judge John H. Lyle, although he is not politically active.

Six years ago bandits robbed C. D. Peet, manager of the theater, of $400. Judge Lyle held a suspect in high bonds. Froelich had known the judge for nine years before the robbery. The theater manager was robbed of $4,000 in 1929, but no arrests were made.

Lake County Officers Miss Marovich at Prison Gates

Leavenworth, Kas., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Nick Marovich was released at six o'clock tonight from the federal penitentiary here after completing a two year sentence for an East Chicago liquor conspiracy, but did not get the official reception expected. Warden Thomas B. White had been informed Lake county officers were to meet Marovich and arrest him on an old liquor warrant, but they were not at the gates. The warden held Marovich until six o'clock and then released him.

Dangerous Gassy Stomach Torture Ends Quick

"I am pleased and glad to say and tell you that a package of ACIDINE helped me quicker than anything else I ever tried," says William Ronts of Windgap, Pa. "I will tell you there are a good many people killed with this gas in the stomach. If you have a weak heart, it is dangerous. I tell others about this—to get ACIDINE and try it."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomache and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

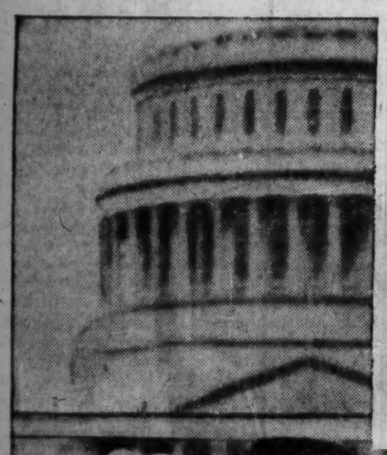
RIPLEY GETS LOW-DOWN ON CAPITAL'S CIGARETTE PREFERENCES



By ROBERT RIPLEY, Creator of "Believe It or Not"

It is easy to start an argument in Washington.

I stopped off there the other day to take a poll of the city's cigarette taste. As usual, I masked the four leading cigarettes with black bands . . . and then asked 874 smokers to pick out the cigarette that tasted best.

Did those famous statesmen give OLD GOLD the same rousing majority it has won in other cities? No, folks, they did not.

It was a close squeak. But in spite of filibusters, insurgents and stand-patters, OLD GOLD nosed out its rivals in the final count.

The score was: OLD GOLD, 259; Brand X, 202; Brand Y, 224; Brand Z, 189.

Which goes to show . . . that not even Congressional blocs can block the nation's verdict that O. G. is the most appealing cigarette . . . easier on the throat.

Already Fast~ Now Faster Still

"Long Distance" will now complete your calls to distant points while you "hold the line."

New equipment put in operation Saturday in the down-town business district completes a program designed to make this faster service available throughout the city.

Calls from Chicago to almost any point in the United States or Canada may now be made with the same ease as local calls.

The new practice will be a time-saver for busy Chicagoans. It clips off a few more seconds and makes an already fast service faster still.

Its introduction is in accord with our objective of increasing wherever possible the usefulness, value and convenience of the telephone.

The last few years have seen marked improvements in the speed of out-of-town service and the clearness of conversations over long distances. Moreover, reductions in long distance rates have resulted in annual savings in excess of $1,200,000 to patrons of our company.

EDUCATOR HITS HOOVER IDEA TO OBEY ALL LAWS

Too Many Unenforceable, He Declares.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—"A realistic study of the efficiency of the laws we now have before any more laws are made" was suggested today by Raymond Moley, professor of public law at Barnard college, Columbia university. At the same time Prof. Moley expressed the opinion that President Hoover had shown a "childish notion of law and order" when he intended that any and all laws of the statutes must be enforced and obeyed by the people.

"A lot of our laws—particularly those concerning the regulation of personal habits and morals," said Professor Moley, "cause the growth of the very thing at which they are aimed. The trouble is that we have far too many laws, many of which are neither desirable nor enforceable."

Studies Effect of Laws.

Prof. Moley, who is research director of the New York state crime commission, and who has made crime surveys in Chicago and other large cities, explained that his job was to study the effect of laws and not to make or alter them. His reference to President Hoover's attitude on the enforcement of all laws on the books was made at an address before the forum of the Junior Society of congregation Emanu-El, and he later discussed other phases of law making and enforcement with this reporter.

"There probably is not a single individual in this country who is not a violator of some law," Prof. Moley said. "The President's argument that all citizens must respect all laws is a fallacy, which is common among many people. It is impossible in practice and undesirable in either practice or theory. The world would be an intolerable place to live in if all laws were enforced and observed.

Public Attitude Decides.

Prof. Moley declared that public attitude and not laws is the fundamental governing power and then explained that public opinion varied in different communities. It was for that reason, he said, that there are daily infractions of the laws and even the commission of crimes—sometimes in the administration of order—simply because the people of a certain community see no violation of the individual moral code where the crime is committed.

In the church in response to a question from the audience, Prof. Moley contended that what constitutes intoxicating liquor under the prohibition laws should be decided by the public. The question of intoxication, he said, was a relative consideration.

Hits at Morality Laws.

The morality laws governing personal conduct, the legislation aimed at occasional offenders, and other statutes written into our penal codes by legislatures which have a way of always seeking to accommodate every articulate section of the public are doing more harm than good, said the educator.

"Our vice laws which require stool pigeons and 'unknown men' to make them operative are tools of the reformers which have made the very conditions the reformers are supposed to be combatting a lot worse than they were before," Prof. Moley told the reporter.

"It is nonsense to talk about disrespect for law when the statute books are so glutted with useless, contradictory and antiquated laws that it is impossible to observe some laws without violating others."

TWO HELD IN SLAYING.

Indiana Harbor police are holding two foreign workers for investigation as suspects in the slaying of Maria Torres, who was found beaten to death beneath the steps of a building next door to her home at 3420 Pennsylvania avenue on Saturday. The men held are Miguel Hernandez, and Alberto Grados.

QUEEN MARIE OF JUGO-SLAVIA.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Queen Helene, divorced wife of King Carol, apparently had conquered a threatened attack of pneumonia today, but a new name was added to the royal sick list, for Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia, sister of King Carol and sister-in-law of Queen Helene, was down with the measles.

Last night Queen's Marie's temperature stood at 100.2 degrees and her mother, the Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, telegraphed King Alexander in Jugo-Slavia that his wife's condition was worse. Tonight her physicians said the Jugo-Slavian queen had developed an inflammation of the trachea, accompanied by bronchitis and a rose rash with temperature. A little later it was pronounced measles.

Smallpox Report Stirs Belgrade.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Dispatches to the Telegraafen Union say Belgrade was thrown into consternation tonight by a report that Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia had been stricken with smallpox in Bucharest.

POWER TRUST IS CHIEF ISSUE FOR RADICAL ATTACK

Say Public Should Hold Monopoly.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—The pet issue of the radicals at this time is the curbing of the power trust. By the left wing Republicans and Democrats it is pictured as an octupus that is reaching out for all the available water power development sites and getting a stranglehold of consumers of electric energy.

America, they say, is passing into an era of universal use of electric power in industry, on the farm and in the home. If the country does not curb the power trust, according to the radicals, the power trust is going to own the country. Hence, they regard the power trust as the paramount issue of the presidential election of 1932.

For Public Ownership.

The majority of the radicals advocate public ownership either of all power plants or of a sufficient number of them to bring about low rates by competition between publicly and privately owned plants.

Muscle Shoals constitutes a touchstone for this program of the radicals. If they succeed in their plans to make the federal government the producer and distributor of hydro-electric power at the Muscle Shoals, Ala., plants, they are confident their public ownership program will be tremendously forwarded. If, however, congress should decree the leasing of the government owned plants at Muscle Shoals for power development and distribution to a privately owned power concern the public ownership plans of the radicals would be given a serious setback.

Fight for Norris Bill.

For this reason the radicals who succeeded in getting through the senate the Norris resolution providing for government operation of the Muscle Shoals plants are steadfastly refusing to accept anything short of that in conference with the house which passed a private leasing bill. If they should fail to get government operation at Muscle Shoals at this session of congress they will renew the fight in the next congress, in which the opposition to their project will be weaker, and will endeavor to force an extraordinary session in order to expedite their program.

The radicals hope to see the country in time dotted with great public power producing and distributing plants like Muscle Shoals and Boulder dam, though they didn't get all they wanted in the Boulder dam act, which allows leasing of the plant to private concerns as an alternative to government operation. On Boulder dam the radicals compromised with conviction in deference to the fears of Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] that otherwise the legislation would be indefinitely blocked.

Views by Norris.

When I asked Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], leader of the radicals, why he advocates public ownership of all electric light and power utilities he said:

"Scientific ingenuity has demonstrated that in the electrical world, where electricity must be distributed and must be used at the time it is generated, and on account of the peculiar and various uses to which it is put, it naturally follows that to get the most economical results we must have monopoly.

"But my contention has always been that if that monopoly were turned over to private parties for private gain, the people would not get the benefit of reduced rates. In other words when electricity becomes common in every home, as it will, and as necessary as water to drink, if we are subjected to the will and wish of a giant monopoly that reaches from the Canadian boundary to the Gulf of Mexico, and from ocean to ocean, we will in reality, in a great degree, be slaves. We will be subject to the will and the wish, the whim and the caprice of a monopoly, the magnitude of which stretches the imagination to comprehend."

For a Public Monopoly.

Hence the senator holds that the monopoly should be a public one. This is also the position of Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho].

"Power," he said, "is monopolistic in its nature and therefore lends itself to artificial monopoly. Even if there were no power monopoly at the present time there would inevitably come to be one from the very nature of the subject matter with which we deal. In the very nature of things we are to have either a monopoly owned and controlled by the government or other public authority or owned and controlled by private interests tempered by supposed regulation. I am for public ownership and control. I have come to this conclusion after years of study rather slowly.

"It would seem that that which is peculiarly and fundamentally for the common use, which not only by nature itself but by the laws of use seems singularly dedicated to the common service, ought to be discharged so far as possible from the burden of private gain and ought not to be so operated as to be of special benefit to any one."

La Follette Less Extreme.

On the other hand, Senator Robert M. LaFollette [Rep., Wis.], advocates not a public monopoly but public ownership and operation of power plants only to the extent necessary to effect regulation by competition.

"One of the most alarming economic developments of this decade is the concentration of control of electric power in the hands of a few men," said Young Bob. "In building up control of the power industry of America the power monopoly has created a mystic maze of holding corporations, super-holding corporations, real estate development companies, engineering service companies, and technical development organizations, each with a staff of officers and each with a separate profit to be earned.

"This organization is today engaging in the same ruthless methods in its attempt to control government, state and national, that characterized the activities of the railroad corporations a generation ago. The sworn testimony taken before the federal trade commission has shown conclusively that the power monopoly has been using tremendous sums of money extracted from the consuming public through extortionate charges for electricity to boodle state and senatorial campaigns; to carry its propaganda into the public schools and institutions of higher learning; to purchase newspapers and to seize control of all avenues for the molding of public opinion.

Electricity Era at Hand.

"We are fast moving from the age of steam into the era of electricity. More than half the homes in the United States are lighted electrically and more than two-thirds of the machines in American factories are run by power generated at central points. Within a few years industry, transportation, comfort, and convenience in the home and the use of labor saving devices on the farm will all be dependent upon the electric power industry.

"Progressives made effective the regulation of public service corporations under the leadership of Robert M. La Follette. Regulation protected the public and secured for it adequate service at reasonable cost for a number of years. The power monopoly and other public service corporations, however, were not satisfied. They sought and secured through the federal courts the emasculation of the power of the regulatory commissions. Realizing this situation, Progressives have proposed that municipalities, power districts, state and federal governments be given authority to compete against the private monopoly system, thus forcing the power trust to give to farmers, home owners, and manufacturers electric power and light at reasonable rates.

"This program of public competition with the private corporations has proved effective in Canada and in many cities in the United States, including Wisconsin."

Senator La Follette said that the establisment of municipal plants in competition with privately operated plants had forced down rates to a fraction of their former level in Seattle, Tacoma, Los Angeles, Cleveland, and several other cities.

NOTES FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

In a year in which all classes of business have encountered many difficulties, the Company has made gratifying progress. New policies paid for show an increase of $51,227,652.32, both the ordinary and group departments making substantial gains.

Total assurances in force show an increase of $462,464,542.58. This gain represents a very high rate of persistency, indicating the high value placed by our policyholders on their contracts with the Company in a period of extreme financial pressure.

The total payments to policyholders and beneficiaries since organization : : : equal the total assurances in force in the Company's fiftieth year (ten years ago).

The mortality among our policyholders has been highly favourable.

The rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets was 6.44 per cent.

In a year of almost unprecedented business depression the outstanding quality of the investments has been strikingly shown. The actual cash dividends received on the total common stocks held by the Company were $969,103.84 in excess of the dividends payable on those identical shares in 1929. : : : Even on the basis of the low prices at the close of the year our common stock holdings show a substantial excess of market value over cost.

Profits to policyholders entitled to participate during the ensuing year will be again allotted on the scale at present in operation.

BECK DECLARES WAR ON FEDERAL MATERNITY BILL

Does It Impose Burden of One State on Another.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Is it good governmental business to take tax money from a bachelor in Eureka, Minn., put it in the federal treasury here at Washington and then pour it back into a baby's cradle in, say, Jefferson City, Mo.?

JAMES M. BECK.

Representative James M. Beck, Pa., one of the country's constitutional law authorities, thinks that such a procedure is against "all the fundamental implications of the constitution" and turned in a minority report against the Cooper-Jones bill, which proposed state aid for infancy and maternity hygiene.

This report, together with the minority report of another member of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, Representative Schuyler Merritt [Rep., Conn.], promises to impede the progress of the bill when it is expected to come up for consideration under a "suspension of the rules" program, possibly tomorrow.

Releases Responsibility.

Representatives Beck and Merritt take the position that it is wrong and unconstitutional to impose upon a few of the domestic burdens of the other states, and they point out that "nothing can be more domestic and personal than the care of mothers and babies."

The bill, which is not unlike the ill-lapsed Sheppard-Towner bill, provides for permanent annual grants to states for the care and welfare of mothers and infants, under the supervision of the public health service and the children's bureau, both federal agencies.

Representative Beck is opposed to any flexible power of appropriation and calls it in the report "the vulnerable heel of our Achilles-like constitution."

"It would be easy to mention," he asserts, "more than one department of the government, many of whose activities have no perceptible sanction in the constitution. The departments have grown to Brobdingnagian dimensions through the unlimited power of appropriations for nonfederal purposes.

Makes Permanent Condition.

"We are now asked to make a permanent provision which will authorize the government to tell the people of the states how their children should come into the world. If the birth of children is the concern of the federal government, and not of the states, then it is possible that such a bureau will soon have subordinate bureaus in respect to eugenics and birth control and later it will include the education of children.

"And I shall not be surprised if, within a decade, we may not have, in this new governmental activity, 'a mortician bureau,' which shall instruct the states as to the proper method of cremating or burying their dead."

The senate has already passed the bill, virtually a continuance of the Sheppard-Towner act, over the opposition of Senators Bingham and King. It keeps the jurisdiction of the funds under Miss Grace Abbott, head of the children's bureau, where it reposed during the life of the Sheppard-Towner act.

Automobile Is Discovered in Lake Off 9th Street

An automobile submerged in the lake off 9th street was recovered yesterday morning by firemen and a coast guard crew. The car was seen by Edward Matthew, 1901 South Springfield avenue, as he was walking along the lake front. The top protruded above the water 10 feet from a pleasure pier. The police traced the car to Nathan Rodheim, a painter at 3613 Bloomshaw street. Rodheim said his car was taken from his garage during the night. The police said the garage door had not been forced.

Here's Quick Way To Break Up a Cold

Makes You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to fuss with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

These results come because Hill's goes back to first principles by going to the root of the trouble. It's not a new-fangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

MIGHTY PACIFIC LURES AIRMEN TO NONSTOP TESTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 15.—The unconquered Pacific will figure this spring and summer as the arena of an international contest in which the airmen of the United States, France, Canada, Japan, and Australia will compete for the honor of being the first successfully to span the vast expanse of water which separates America and Asia on a nonstop flight.

Seiji Yoshiwara, 26 year old Japanese flyer, known as "The Sea Gull," is to make a solo flight in April, starting at Tokio, with San Francisco the goal. The young aviator proposes to follow the route of the American army round the world flyers, going by way of the Kurile and Aleutian islands. He plans to make 19 stops. Yoshiwara's flight is sponsored by the newspaper Hochi.

Bromley to Try Again.

In the meantime the list of flyers proposing to attempt nonstop flights is growing, and officials here expect a half dozen planes will attempt the hazardous transocean crossing during the next few months. Applications for permits to fly over Japan have been filed by an American and a Canadian airman, swelling the list to six men, representing five different nationalities.

Heading the entrants is Harold Bromley, who last year was balked in his attempt after covering more than 1,000 miles when the conductor ring of the City of Tacoma sprang a leak. Bromley, the only one to attempt the crossing last year, will find himself competing against several of the world's greatest pilots this year. Among those who are rushing preparations for the venture are Charles Kingsford-Smith of Australia, Paul Codos, the Frenchman; Col. Arthur C. Goebel, and Zensaku Azuma, the Japanese flyer who last year traveled by plane from Los Angeles to Tokio via Europe.

The communications ministry, which is in charge of all matters concerning civil aviation, and the army and navy are doing their best to furnish information regarding landing fields, weather conditions and other technical matters to the airmen who have already applied for landing permits, and to extend every aid to facilitate the flights.

Officials of the various departments, however, state they are not being asked for much information, probably because the various airmen are not aware such information is available, and partly because of the language barrier.

Start in North Japan.

In all likelihood all attempts to span the Pacific from Japan will be made from the beach at Sabishiro, in northern Japan, officials of the communications ministry said today. This is the field from which Lieut. Bromley hopped off last year, carrying the heaviest load lifted by any plane in the Orient.

Extension of the Kasumigaura field, the only other ground from which a heavily burdened craft can take off with any degree of safety, was to have been made last year but was not undertaken. This, it was said by military officials, was because of the discovery that Sabishiro beach would fill all requirements.

Information regarding the proposed transocean flights received by aviation officials today includes an announcement by Col. Arthur Goebel who visited Japan shortly after his successful flight from California to Hawaii three years ago.

Goebel to Fly in August.

Col. Goebel has communicated his intention to officials here of hopping off from Seattle in August. It is understood he has obtained backers for his flight and the plane which he expects to use is being constructed in Oakland, Cal. It will be capable of 48 hours' sustained flight and will have a flying radius of 7,000 miles, with fuel capacity of 1,850 gallons.

Although officials here have not received details of Col. Goebel's plane, it is assumed by them that the craft will be engined by two or three motors, judging by the tremendous quantity of fuel it will carry. The fact that Col. Goebel's craft will have a cruising radius of 7,000 miles, flying 48 hours, indicates that it will be capable of the phenomenal speed of 146 miles an hour, officials here declare. Flying at this speed, the Pacific ocean could be crossed in 35 hours.

ASKS RADIO INDUSTRY TO PAY NEWSPAPERS $10,000,000 FOR ADS

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Arthur T. Haugh, Chicago, former president of the Radio Manufacturers' association and general sales manager of the Zenith Radio corporation, today urged immediate raising of a $10,000,000 advertising fund by the radio industry.

His plan was presented at a preconvention session of the National Federation of Radio Associations and the Radio Wholesalers' association here and was approved by J. Newcomb Blackman, president of the federation, and by H. G. Erstrom, Chicago, vice president of the association.

Haugh said the money would be spent in newspaper advertising to acquaint readers with full details of outstanding broadcasts, and would be supplementary to advertising appropriations by radio manufacturers and broadcasting companies.

EIGHTY-SIXTH ANNUAL STATEMENT

To the Policy-holders:

Most of us have labored together for a considerable period.

My service in Nylic has covered forty-two years. I have been President of New York Life Insurance Company for nearly twenty-four years.

In twenty-four years you have numerically been multiplied by three; and your collective property in this Company has been multiplied by three and a half.

You have made a great demonstration within a generation of the power that lies in co-operation between "humans." You have become increasingly convinced of two great truths.

First—that "no man liveth to himself," and the less he tries to do that the more truly and fully he lives.

Second—that men are naturally honest and that those in positions of responsibility and trust in business are more honest and much more capable than men are as a whole.

Emerging from the frightful financial disasters of 1930, people are wondering if it were all or in large part necessary. They are asking why such heart-breaking experiences should not naturally cease in countries organized to preserve the strength and the inspiration that lie in individual efforts and in the ownership of private property.

American life insurance reaches its present greatness just in time to answer that question. It is true that we have had in this the freest and most individualistic section of the world (United States and Canada) a disturbing experience. Could it have been avoided substantially? I answer it could and some day such happenings will be largely avoided.

As we emerge from this setback in our economic system we discover that one thing remains unchanged and substantially unaffected.

It is almost literally true that every man who owns property is poorer today than he was a year ago; but to the extent that his possessions are represented by Life Insurance he is as rich today as he was a year ago.

They (his Life and Endowment policies) have not shrunk in value—except as he may have used them as collateral to relieve his needs in other directions.

Suppose the total outstanding insurance a year ago had been 220 billions instead of half that—suppose the assets of the Companies had been 38 billions instead of half that. How much less would the speculation and loss have been in 1930?

Life Insurance Companies will ultimately achieve those totals and greater ones and they will yearly represent an increasing and conservative factor in the whole property problem.

Life Insurance assets are not used speculatively. With relation to our total national wealth those assets represent a steadily increasing factor. They increase the factor of stability and decrease the factor of chance. That gain has been steady for almost a quarter century. Outstanding insurance will double and assets will double long before the wealth of these countries doubles. The lesson of it all is that economic changes of profound significance and of fundamental importance are taking place as the result of the amazing growth of Life Insurance. Life Insurance does all that its devotees have claimed and now it emerges from this world catastrophe substantially untouched and rendering a public service that few people ever realize.

IT WAS ORGANIZED TO MITIGATE THE TERRORS OF DEATH. IT HAS BECOME A VALIANT AND AN INCREASING DEFENSE AGAINST THE ECONOMIC DISASTERS THAT PERIODICALLY DEVASTATE THE BUSINESS WORLD.

In other words, we are, through Life Insurance, in these great, free countries, preserving individual enterprise and the rights of individual wealth and at the same time we are utilizing the almost immeasurable power of united and common action.

We are gaining on economic disaster and we shall go on gaining because Life Insurance will go on gaining.

In free countries there is no way to stop speculation; to do that arbitrarily would not be consistent with the principles of freedom. But! Yes, a great big But! When Life Insurance has become the great reservoir into which the people put their savings increasingly, speculation will become relatively less and we shall finally have adopted, almost imperceptibly, a new economic program.

This will be founded on co-operation, brains and fidelity. That's a pretty good description of the elements that have made our Life Companies great—co-operation, brains, fidelity and, I add, hard work.

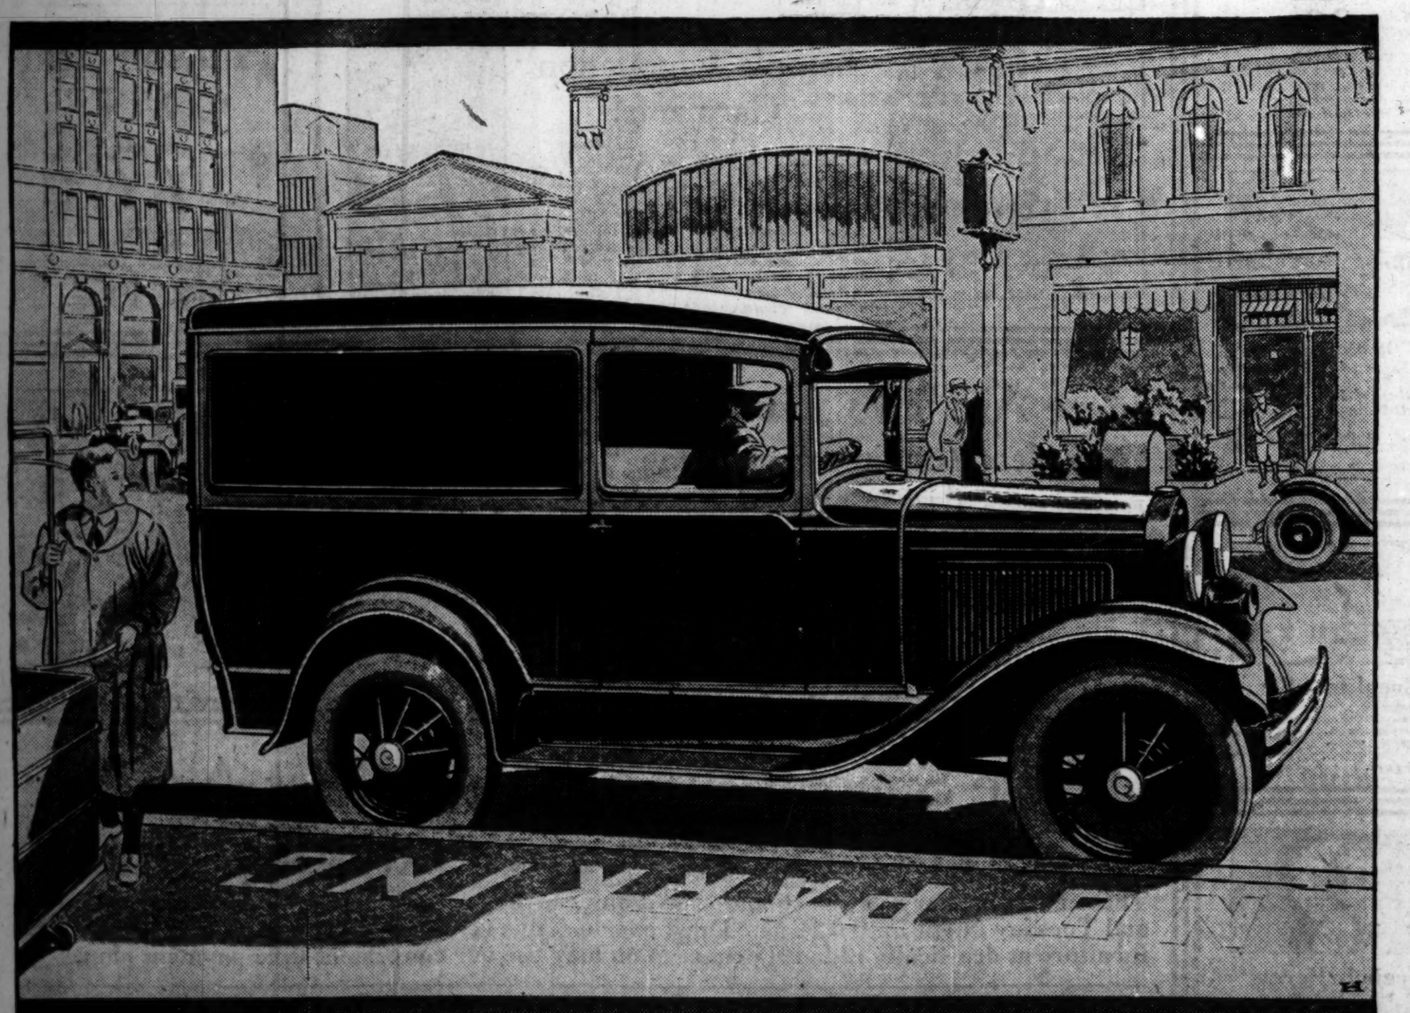
A drop-floor panel body now brings Ford economy to new commercial fields



DAILY, throughout the country, Ford commercial units are doing new jobs. A steadily increasing range of body-types, a choice of two different chassis, and a variety of especially designed equipment, all help to adapt the Ford for service in many businesses.

It is possible to select a Ford truck, or a Ford delivery car, which is exactly suited to almost any work required. Thus, the reliability, excellent performance, and definite economy of Ford units become directly available to a larger number of industries.

For example, a new body is offered on the light-delivery chassis. It is of the drop-floor panel type, a body of special convenience to cleaners and dyers, florists, radio dealers and others whose deliveries require unusual height from floor to roof. It is also used by specialty salesmen, as it permits easy loading and removal of bulky samples.

In addition to a wide selection of commercial bodies on the Model A chassis, there is a range of types on the 1½-ton truck chassis, with either 131½- or 157-inch wheelbase. There is a choice of open or closed cabs, of single or dual rear wheels, and of high or low rear-axle gear-ratios.

See your Ford dealer for details of commercial units, and equipment, suited to the requirements of your particular business.

★ FEATURES ★

CUBA REMEMBERS MAINE; 10,000 PRESENT AT RITES

Observes 33d Year of Sinking of Battleship.

HAVANA, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Maine was "remembered" today as 10,000 persons thronged around the double shafted monument erected in memory of the disaster to mark the 33d anniversary of the sinking of the battleship.

A mile long procession paraded past the shaft as bands played American and Cuban patriotic music. Cuban army planes soared overhead during the ceremony, in which President Machado and American Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim participated. The principal speaker was Dr. Francisco Maria Fernandez, secretary of state.

Ambassador Speaks in Spanish.

Mr. Guggenheim made a short address in Spanish in answer to Dr. Fernandez, who pledged the loyalty of the people of Cuba to the cause of liberty. Special precautions had been taken to avert any disorders and the celebration passed off peacefully.

The Maine monument was banked with flowers sent from the President, the American ambassador, city officials, and various patriotic organizations, including the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, United Spanish War Veterans, and the American Legion.

"Cuba trembles when it recalls those valiant, gallant men of the Maine," Dr. Fernandez said in his address. "It canot forget the American army and navy, nor Roosevelt, bringing to these shores a brilliant contingent of youth of his country to fight for our independence and to combat, by force of arms, for those same principles and for the same cause that the Cuban army for three years had been shedding its blood.

"Fighters of the north, that your great sacrifice may live always in the hearts of a thankful people, our respective nations should pledge themselves to an alliance of heartfelt cordiality."

Capital Observes Day.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The thirty-third anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine, which preceded the Spanish-American war, was observed with simple ceremonies today in Arlington cemetery.

Ambassador Ferrera of Cuba, Judge Edward S. Mathis, commander in chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, and Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa were the principal speakers.

The ambassador said that, while a monument of stone and granite had been erected to the memory of the 266 men who lost their lives in the disaster, "the eternal monument of those who died thirty-three years ago today is Cuba."

CHICAGO OBSERVES DAY.

Commemorative services on the thirty-third anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor were held throughout the city yesterday by veterans of the Spanish-American war. More than 10,000 veterans participated.

At the Parkview Lutheran church, 3921 Monticello avenue, the Rev. Fred E. Fretheim and Charke F. Raupp, past national vice commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, spoke. Victory post of the American Legion and Schley camp of the Spanish War Veterans joined in the exercises.

Attorney Barrett O'Hara, former lieutenant governor and a veteran of the war, delivered an address at the Calvary Methodist church, 78th and Morgan streets. The Rev. Francis J. Thomas, pastor of the church, who served as a sailor during the war, also spoke.

N. Y. JEWELER AND DIAMONDS VALUED AT $20,000 VANISH

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Abraham H. Levy, diamond merchant, left his office in the downtown jewelry district late Saturday morning to call on "the trade" with $25,000 worth of loose diamonds in his pocket. He made a sale on one of his calls nearby about noon, went on with more than $20,000 of his stock and disappeared.

His wife and his brother told the police they feared he had been robbed and murdered, for there could be no other explanation of his long absence. He owned the stones outright and they were not insured. He owed no money, his friends said.

Levy was a conservative merchant of established reputation in the diamond trade, his affairs were in excellent condition and he had a happy home life with his wife and four year old son, Norman.

BILLS SEEK TO DEPORT MANY UNDESIRABLES

Number of Measures Are Pending in Congress.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Undesirable aliens will be deported and a few immigrants will be admitted for two years if pending legislation is enacted at this session.

The administration drive to rid the country of undesirable aliens advanced a step today. President Hoover received a bill to deport aliens convicted of smuggling narcotics which passed congress last week. His approval is expected.

Favorable action on the chief executive's request for $500,000 to employ 245 patrolmen to accelerate deportation of undesirables has been indicated by the house appropriations committee.

Comes Up Today.

The Johnson-Hayden bill, in line with Hoover's recommendation, is to be considered by the house immigration committee tomorrow. It would authorize the secretary of labor to institute deportation proceedings, particularly against aliens convicted of charges involving a penalty of one year imprisonment or more.

Proceedings also could be instituted in districts where the aliens made unlawful entry instead of through the labor department. The burden of proof of legal entry would be placed on the alien, and any person having knowledge of illegal entry also could be prosecuted.

A vote is scheduled for tomorrow by the house immigration committee on the Jenkins bill to restrict immigration for two years as an employment aid.

Filipinos Cause Strife.

The group previously approved the Free bill, which also contained a provision to limit Filipino immigration to 500 a year. However, opposition to the Filipino proposal blocked, temporarily at least, legislative right of way in the house for this measure.

Both would cut quota immigration ninety per cent and reduce entrants from western hemisphere countries to ten per cent of the number in 1929.

Immigration Commissioner Hull today said that the campaign to eliminate undesirable aliens had been more successful in recent months. The outcome of certain test cases in courts, he said, would go far in determining further success. He said 16,631 aliens had been deported in the fiscal year 1930, compared with 12,908 in 1929 and 11,625 in 1928.

SEIZE 102 IN VICE RAID.

Raiding an alleged disorderly house at 158th street and Burnham avenue, Calumet City, early yesterday, Willow Springs county highway police arrested 90 men and 12 women. Louis Johnson of East Chicago was charged with being keeper.

To curb COLDS eat Grapefruit

You are subject to acidosis this time of year—a major reason for catching colds. For too much acid in the system means your resistance is lowered.

Grapefruit, because its action is alkaline, corrects acidosis; supplies, in generous measure, needed mineral salts and essential vitamins.

Don't regard grapefruit as a luxury but as a health necessity; eat it twice or thrice a day; or drink the refreshing juice.

60 LAME DUCKS WILL VOTE ON LAME DUCK BILL

Defeated Congressmen May Decide Its Fate.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Nearly 60 house members who were defeated last November will have an opportunity this week to abolish the "lame duck" sessions of congress.

This is the session which convenes in December after the November elections and continues until March 4. Defeated congressmen retain their seats under present law.

The opportunity will come when the house takes up the Gifford resolution proposing a change by constitutional amendment.

The votes of those reelected and voluntarily retiring will figure largely as the determining factor in the controversy that has raged for years. However, the votes of defeated members will not be negligible.

Would Fix Adjournment Date.

The senate has adopted the Norris resolution to eliminate the short sessions several times, but similar proposals have failed in the house because they provided two indefinite sessions that many members believe might result in prolonged assemblies.

Most of the present house, including Speaker Longworth, favor fixing a date of adjournment for the second session which meets after the congressional elections.

While the Gifford resolution provides two indeterminate sessions, Speaker Longworth said he would not oppose it if an amendment was adopted cutting the second session to about four months.

Ask Inauguration Date Change.

The resolution proposes a constitutional amendment to permit a newly elected congressman to take office Jan. 4, two months after the November election, instead of 13 months as provided now. It also would authorize inauguration of a President and a Vice President Jan. 24, instead of March 4.

Sentiment for abolition for short sessions has grown in the house recently because of the results of the November elections in which the Republican majority was cut from 105 in this congress to two in the next.

Many members feel that persons elected on new policies should assume the responsibility of legislating as quickly as possible to meet the demands of the voters.

Cite Democrats' Gain.

They cite also that the voters in the last election increased Democratic seats in the senate to 47 and cut the Republicans to 48. The other seat is held by a Farmer-Labor.

Chairman Snell of the house rules committee today made public a letter from Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury under Roosevelt, saying the resumption act of January, 1875, was passed by a lame duck congress containing 184 retiring members.

Lawyer's Illness to Delay Ralph Capone Tax Appeal

A delay in the hearing of the income tax case against Ralph Capone, public enemy, now before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, is expected because of the illness of Attorney George N. Murdock, representing Capone. His physician, Dr. Albert J. Montgomery, announced yesterday that influenza and threatened pneumonia are likely to keep Murdock in the Presbyterian hospital for a week. The attorney has until Feb. 20 to reply to the brief of the federal prosecutors.

FIFTY WITH GANG ARSENAL SEIZED OUTSIDE DETROIT

Thought to Be N. Y. Mob Muscling In.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Fifty men were arrested and weapons seized, including a machine gun, pistols, and sawed-off shotguns, in a raid at Monroe, Mich., led by state police under Donald Leonard early today.

Officers said the raids were occasioned by the receipt of information that a New York "mob" had moved into Monroe and planned to "muscle in" on Detroit rackets while local gangs were quiet because of activities of the 22 man Wayne county grand jury.

Capt. Leonard said he had been informed also that Joseph "Red" O'Riordan, last member of the Joseph (Legs) Laman gang of kidnapers at liberty, had joined the New York gang and would be present at a meeting in Monroe.

Of those arrested in the raids eleven men who could not give satisfactory accounts of themselves were held and fingerprinted. The records will be sent to New York for possible identification. Then all but four were released.

Those held gave their names as Sam Costal, Albert Chickero, Joseph Lito, and Dominick Domaschi. Red O'Riordan was not found.

Officers explained that since the slaying of Radio Announcer Gerald E. (Jerry) Buckley last July 23 Detroit has been considered an "unhealthy" place for hoodlums known to police here. Many of the gangsters have been arrested and driven from the city.

Five in Ski Party Buried by Avalanche; Rescue 4

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 15.—(AP)—One man lost his life and four others were rescued alive today after they were buried by an avalanche while skiing. A rescue party of ten persons hurried to the scene of the accident and uncovered four men. Hans Becker was dead when he was taken from the snow.

RADIO ENGINEER DIES AS PLANE FALLS IN RIVER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Donald Stevens, 26, commerce department radio engineer, was drowned today when a seaplane he was testing fell into the Potomac river near the Anacostia naval air training station. His wife, Mrs. Ruth Stevens, was watching from the shore.

Officers of the air station said the craft went into a "slow spin" from an altitude of about 200 feet. Stevens, the lone occupant, was strapped in and, apparently stunned when the ship struck the water, was unable to extricate himself.

The plane was said to have been brought here yesterday by friends of Stevens who asked him to test it before they started a flight south from the capital.

Stevens was a graduate of the University of Minnesota and came to Washington from Monticello, Minn.

Georgia Pilot Killed.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Johnny Kytle, 25 year old pilot for the Eastern Air Transport company, plunged to his death in a stunting exhibition at Candler field today. His small sport monoplane was just coming out of a barrel at low altitude when it went into a nose dive and crashed.

Tribune Want Ad Helps Herr Louie Find Lost Niece

Herr Louie, W-G-N's famous German bandmaster, is willing to tell the world any time of the effectiveness of Tribune Want Ads, since they helped him find his missing niece, at least according to the story they told in one of their recent broadcasts.

Herr Louie's niece, Katy Schnauser, and her doggy companion, Schneider Schnauser, were on their way to Chicago to pay Herr Louie a visit. She failed to show up on the day scheduled for her arrival, so Herr Louie, at the suggestion of the Weasel, put an ad in the Tribune Want Ad Section.

A few days later Katy phoned from Pittsburgh, where she had missed train connections, to say she had seen Herr Louie's ad, and would he please send her some money for railroad fare!

Edward Moore Writes of Music and the Musicians

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1931.  23

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Hiram Tarrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frameup by Owen Gray, neighboring rancher and banker. Dix, an orphan, keeps from his employer and his young brother, Chuck, the true state of affairs. Gram has her heart set on seeing Chuck a doctor. His indulgent older brother has a hard task paying for his college tuition and material demands.

Mart McGuire shows Dix how to change the O T brand of Gray's cattle to his own Bobtailed brand.

Tom, an Indian helper, discovers a lost valley with a geyser on the Coffeepot ranch, with a passage to it, through what is seemingly a blank cliff wall. It is an ideal hideout for cattle.

With varus misgivings Dix begins rustling from Gray's herd, hiding the stolen cattle in Lost valley. Dix's profits mounted steadily after every shipping.

Chuck and a flyer friend named Frosty arrive at the ranch. Chuck confesses to Dix that he has given up a medical career for aviation. He and Frosty plan to build privately a competitive plane for a prize. A shed built against the crevice, hiding the entrance to Lost valley, seems to them just the place for their work.

Owen Gray's aunt and cousin, Helen, visit the O T ranch. Helen knew Chuck in Spokane. From what Owen tells her, Helen guesses the true situation involving Dix. Helen and her friend, Josephine Parker, call on Larry—their nickname for Chuck. When she meets Dix it's a case of love at first sight, but Dix believes she is Chuck's girl and avoids her. The girls become frequent visitors at the ranch. Helen probes through Dix's talk and learns a lot about his private business.

Chuck and Frosty buy a plane, which they use for commercial flying to earn money. Chuck complains about cattle being in the shed and trampling on the new airplane's wing.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

THE HAUNTED SHED.

One day, a week or so later, Chuck and Frosty came home big-eyed from their work at the shed, and Chuck had a tale to tell at the supper table, where Helen and Jo sat, glowing and eager from their speedy dash across the prairie in Owen Gray's blue car.

"Say, Dix, that weaning shed's haunted," he began solemnly while he buttered one of Minny's hot biscuits.

"Haunted? What you mean, haunted?"

"Ghost of cows that lost their calves, if you get my meaning." While Chuck took a generous bite, Frosty elaborated the statement.

"Lost their beller, Larry means. It's sure haunted, though. We were at work all so fine and sayin' nothin' to nobody and all at once something began to breathe."

"Yeah?" Dix let a careful glance stray down the table to where Mart had bumped over his plate. Mart's neck and ears were turning a deep magenta color. "What did you do, Frosty?"

"Who, me? Well, I taxied outa that hangar and took off. Children, I sure climbed for the ceiling. I hit the top rail of the corral at maximum speed. Larry zoomed off toward the pool and cracked up in the ditch." And Frosty crinkled the skin around his sunny blue eyes and laughed, looking at Jo.

"And what did the wild animals do?" Helen demanded when the laughter had subsided. But her eyes were studying Dix.

"Well, it didn't quit and it didn't continue. It said 'Mmbaww-awa-aw!'"

"Not really?"

"Well, no, I suppose not. Not really. We just thought at the time it was real. Technically it wasn't."

"It's the best part of the whole day, don't you think?"

"I'll say it wasn't real," Chuck put in eagerly. "It had a hollow sound, like a rain barrel or a tomb."

"Cows don't have tombs," said Jo solemnly.

"Why bring that up? Can't I be allegorical if I want to?"

"Not with cows," Jo stoutly maintained. "Let Frosty tell it. He was doing strong."

"Well, we did go back and look in to see the shed was empty and so was the corral, and then there came the snuff and the hollow beller once more, as we took off. We didn't want to be late for supper. We had a hunch you girls would be here, and we were so eager to meet you and greet you. But we're going back. Make no mistake about that, children."

"We'll all go with you," Helen declared, her gaze still on Dix. "It will be a riot. Shall we drive, ride or walk to the fatal spot?"

Dix met her stare, held it while he set down his cup with a steady hand. His eyes looked old and tired, but his mouth was smiling.

"There's only one way to hunt ghosts," he drawled with humorous gravity, "You walk. You carry lanterns and clubs and go huddled in a bunch, and you time it so as to get there on the stroke of midnight."

"But this is a day or sundown ghost," Helen pointed out, a strange vibrant earnestness in her voice, though her lips, too, were smiling.

"That was a fluke. Any girl that's been to college oughta know ghosts are laid at midnight." Dix met her eyes unflinchingly, but his heart was beating in his throat.

"Say, I've got a ripping idea," Chuck shouted above the clamor that broke. "We'll take along something and have a midnight supper at the shed. What say, folks?"

"That's a thought," said Jo. "How far do we have to hike?"

"About three miles." Dix pushed his chair as Gram made a motion to rise. "If you start about ten, that'll give you time enough." He did not look at Mart, nor did Mart by so much as the flicker of an eyelash betray the fact that he heard and understood Dix's meaning, yet an electric flash of perfect understanding passed between them.

Dix was standing on the top step of the porch, rolling a cigaret, before he went farther, when he became conscious of Helen standing behind him.

"One thing I love about this northern country is the twilight," she said softly. "It's the best part of the whole day, don't you think?"

"Sure fine," Dix agreed, hunting for a match.

"Be a lamb and walk over to the landing field with me. We'll be facing that marvelous glow in the west."

Dix gave her a startled look bordering on panic, but before he could think of a neat and clever way to refuse, she had him by the arm and was pulling her toes alongside his going down the steps.

"Chuck's liable to get sore," Dix said with a feeble impulse toward politeness.

"O, no, he won't." Helen gave a little skip and caught step with him before she added softly, "Now, imagine my embarrassment if a boy friend wouldn't walk with me but left me flat."

"I'm no boy friend," said Dix shortly. "I'm darn near forty years old."

"How precious!" chirped Helen, "just twice as old as I am; when I'm fifty, you'll be a hundred, won't you?"

"I'll be a hundred long before that, the way I'm going," Dix retorted, refusing to soften.

"Yes, I've noticed you're a devil for punishment," Helen sweetly assented. Dix wondered if Helen could feel the quiver of his arm where her fingers rested, or whether that unaccountable tremor was just his imagination.

"They put it over pretty well."

"But of course they framed it."

"Yeah, they must have."

"And yet," Helen went on, her eyes fixed upon the darkening glow in the sky," I felt they were both telling the truth, except, of course, their being scared."

Dix had nothing to offer to that, and after a lengthy pause she slowed and looked up into his moody face.

"What do you think? Were they just kidding, or did they really hear something in that shed?"

"I wasn't there, so I can't say. I can't read a fellow's mind, you know."

"I noticed that," said Helen demurely.

"Sure wish I could," Dix said with a queer thrill in his voice. "I'd like to know what's in your mind, to make you say that."

"O, if you have to be told——"

"I told you I'm no mind reader. I'm just a country jake, y'see. I'm not very bright, like college boys."

"No, it isn't very bright to go on stalling when you know perfectly well it isn't getting over. It's plain silly."

"I'm dumb. I'm mentally about on par with old Minny. I'm just a plow hick that's all right in his place, but his place ain't——"

"O, be yourself! I didn't say that or mean it. What I do mean—what I do have in mind about you——"

"Well, what?" Dix had to swallow before he could get even those poor words out. "What you got in your mind about me?"

"You'd be surprised!" snapped Helen, and made a queer sound afterwards as if she had choked back a sob.

Good morning!

Mr. Phillips Holmes, I would say, is its fault de résistance. He's not the type to sin impulsively, love madly, or live dangerously—and all of this is required of him in his present rôle—which he plays in dear-dear-this-is-all-very-silly-you-know fashion. There are, of course, exceptions to all rules, but I still hold that Mr. Holmes, though an actor of ability is one stick in "Stolen Heaven," and that his work is not one, two, three with that of Louis Calhern. The latter gives a mighty keen performance as Steve, a man of the world, who learns about women from Mary (Nancy Carroll) and about people in general from Mary and Joe (Mr. Holmes).

The story concerns two young folks, starved for happiness, who take a grand splurge on money stolen by the men. Their intention is to live as they have always yearned to live while their funds hold out. After that—pouf! Lights out! They'll commit suicide.

To Palm Beach they go, and there much occurs. In their mad quest for what they believe to be happiness the two make other important discoveries. Are they, themselves discovered? I'll let the picture answer that one.

"Stolen Heaven" is interesting to watch, but never very convincing. It is technically commendable. Nancy Carroll is charming, though her work is a bit forced at times. I can understand that. It must have been hard to make such a continual fuss over the pallid Mr. Holmes.

See you tomorrow.

Lloyd George Leads Back to the Farm Move for Britons

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—John Bull is a big boy with a two billion dollar appetite, but he has never learned to feed himself. And now the Labor government, with the support of the Liberals, plans to teach him to do so in order that he will not spend more than half of his time at table being fed with the spoon of other nations.

David Lloyd George has long blamed Britain's failure to "go back to the farm" for a large part of the country's unemployment. So when the agricultural marketing bill came up for its second reading last week the Liberals, welcoming its potential aid to unemployment, gave it their support.

The bill is definitely socialistic despite its marked similarities to the American system of cooperative societies. The Conservatives shuddered at its element of compulsion, but with both the Laborites and Liberals against them, they shuddered in vain and the bill passed to the committee stage.

The principal difference between the American group marketing plan and the proposed British scheme is that in America memberships are entirely voluntary. Any farmer there who wants to can sell on the open market, whereas under the new British system there would be no holdouts.

The bill would compel all producers in the regulated areas to turn over their products to boards established and supervised by the ministry of agriculture for distribution and sale. Any farmer who objected to having the government for a commission agent could simply stop producing since there is no suggestion of forced labor in the bill.

By this modified nationalization of food the government hopes gradually to obviate the middleman and to improve marketing conditions to such an extent that British agriculture will develop, steadily giving employment to more men, until production approximates consumption. At present Great Britain produces only $1,000,000,000 worth of food products, but its consumption is twice that amount.

The new law would operate as follows: On application of any producers deemed by the ministry of agriculture to be representative of a given product in a given area, the board would be constituted of persons nominated by the minister on recommendation of producers and by them elected. The board would have full power over the product in question in the area named, all producers being compelled to deliver the produce to the board for grading, marking, packing, storing and adapting for sales, transporting, advertising and marketing.

Women's Overseas League.

Frau Einstein Is Interested in Yankee World

Talks of Labor Saving in American Homes.

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Frau Elsa Einstein is a bit wearied by the insatiable interest in her distinguished husband, and his theories of the universe. She has come from the old world to see the new and she confesses a keen interest in its people and the way they live.

"Do you know," she said with a solicitious glance at Dr. Albert Einstein, who sat out of doors, a pencil at his lips, gazing into the blue sky overhead, "do you know this is the housewife's paradise?"

In a few minutes she added she thought the American women were notable for their leadership in civic work and that prohibition is defeating its own purpose among the people. Another of her remarks was about the persistence of the newspapers.

"It was not so in Germany," she said. "There they are used to us and we can live in peace and quiet."

"Here housework is so simple; you press a button or pull a lever and almost before you know it the tasks are done. Women can do more work themselves and are not so dependent upon servants as we are at home."

Mrs. Einstein said the thing she had noticed particularly about American women is their willingness and earnestness in accepting responsibility in general civic and welfare work. "I believe it is a fine thing," she said, "and I should like to see the women of my country doing more of it."

She commented that she had come in contact with comparatively few young people in this country, but that she could not help observing their use of liquor.

"Young people in Germany drink very little alcohol," she said, "but here that seems to be the main thought with many of them. I believe that is because it is 'verboten.'

"Personally, I am 'dry,' and so is Mr. Einstein, but still I think it is not good to forbid the use of alcohol, for that makes the young ones, particularly, long to have it."

Mrs. Einstein said she used to be something of a musician and did much reading, but she has only time, even at home in Germany, for her home and garden and her husband.

"To be the wife of so famous a man, that is my fate," she said, "and therefore not to discuss, except to say it is a rare privilege.

CARPENTER ASKS FOR ANY JOB TO OBTAIN FOOD FOR CHILDREN

A father of two children whose wife died two years ago after a long illness which consumed their savings, wrote to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE. "I am a carpenter," he wrote, "and can lay out, supervise, list labor and materials and was a general foreman for a well known contractor for nine years, until his death."

His initials are A. B. R. He said he had obtained only an occasional day's or two days' work, not sufficient to pay for clothes and the support of his two daughters. They are with relatives, who have indicated they can not care for the children longer without the father's contributing.

"Can furnish excellent references. I am a Christian, sober and industrious, and understand quite a bit about lawns and gardens and can drive a car," he wrote.

Miss Brown also received a letter from a registered nurse who has been out of work some time. She was in an automobile accident, and when she recovered was unable to find work of any kind, she said.

"I am alone in the world, owe several months' rent, a grocery bill [small], and am without coal," she wrote.

"Now please," wrote Mrs. E. B., the nurse, "if you have anything in the line of practical nursing, clerking, a job as second cook, or even day work, I will be happy to hear from you, or if I can get temporary help I will take any kind of work, as I am desperately in need of the real necessities of life."

Mrs. E. G. wrote that her husband had been out of work four months. They have two children, 2 years old and 1 year old, and she wishes to find some home work she can do, such as addressing envelopes.

H. H., a sheet metal worker and all around mechanic as well as an experienced shipping clerk, writes that he is destitute. "I will accept any kind of job and am not particular. Am a sober workman and can give the very highest references as to my reliability and honesty," he wrote.

F. M. T. writes in part: "I am a university student and have two years yet to complete. I am in the midst of a term and have looked for work to keep me going, but to no avail. I have at last come to the place where I must have work or leave school. I can type, run a switchboard, and do small hotel work. I am a soda dispenser or anything you might think of. Can't some one give me a hand to pull me through until spring?"

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE Great Nicola, who has been mystifying Europe, Asia, Africa, and the East Indies for twenty-five years or more, came to the Studebaker theater last night with his magical cabinets, his rabbits, ducks and goldfish, his beautiful blonde assistants, and all the other paraphernalia of a first class wizard. Now we saw it—the egg, the billiard ball, the ace of spades or what-not—and now we didn't. The hand was always faster than the eye; and the Great Nicola kept us cheerfully and vainly guessing for a couple of hours.

Well, Nicola, you may be able to fool all the people all the time with your mastery of the supernatural forces of the occult Orient; but some of us plain people of the middle west can testify that you aren't really the seventh son of a seventh son, nor a reincarnation of Hermes Trismegistus. You are, or used to be, Billy Nicol of Monmouth, Ill., and some of us knew you when.

For instance, there is Mrs. Parke Brown, 200 East Chestnut street, an ex-Monmouth girl. She recognized you in spite of the dinner jacket, the Chinese kimono, the Egyptian whiskers of Prince Ramases Abus, and all your other disguises. So when you went down into the audience to collect a few rings, to be pounded up and shot out of a gun, Mrs. Brown [who is not on your pay roll] said in neighborly fashion: "Here, Billy, take mine.

She knew you were on the level, so she passed over her diamond wedding ring and calmly watched you hit it with a hammer and ram it into your blunderbuss. But Mr. Parke Brown, 200 East Chestnut street, groaned with despair and muttered to himself: "Good-by to the family jewels."

The blunderbuss was fired; the ring flew across the stage, and when a nest of Chinese boxes was opened there it was again, in its proper shape, dangling on a bit of pink ribbon. Mrs. Brown, once of Monmouth, Ill., got her wedding ring back again, and Mr. Brown, formerly a skeptic in such matters, is now a devout believer in the black art.

Nicola is not as worldly a thaumaturgist as Thurston, and he was never born to be a comedian, but in plain and fancy magic, illusion, disappearing acts and legerdemain he certainly knows his stuff. He gives a good entertainment in a friendly, unpretentious way. He is not much of a wag, but he is a true wizard. Where other magicians merely saw a woman in half, he serves three portions. Some of his handcuff escapes equal the technique of the late Harry Houdini.

Mrs. Fiske will revive "Becky Sharp" at the Blackstone theater tonight for a week's performance, with an extra matinée on Thursday . . . The Goodman theater will give Luigi Pirandello's drama, "Lazzaro," its first American acting tomorrow night.

Secretary Doak's Mother Ill; Hoovers Send Flowers

Bristol, Va., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Doak, 86, ill for a week with pneumonia, was in an extremely low condition tonight and doctors said they did not expect her to live much longer.

Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, her son, is expected here tomorrow morning. President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover today sent Mrs. Doak cut roses and carnations.

Mails Carrying Plea for Cash to Aid Jobless

1,250,000 Letters Are Sent Out Free.

The home campaign to raise funds for the relief of the city's destitute opens today. The drive is aimed to carry the personal solicitation attempt to raise the $5,000,000 fund to aid the needy through the winter over the top.

A direct mail campaign is to be made to all Chicago homes by means of franked envelopes, with an inclosed franked envelope for return. The franking privilege was obtained through the department of commerce. The letters—1,250,000—were placed in the mail yesterday afternoon at the Quincy station.

A the close of the personal solicitation drive through twenty-eight trade division teams under the supervision of Philip R. Clarke, director of the governor's commission on unemployment and relief, $4,847,575 was raised. The balance is to be raised through the home appeal.

"The home appeal, in conjunction with the individual gifts and women's division committees, must raise $152,000 if the minimum is to be reached," Mr. Clarke said. "I am confident that the people of Chicago will respond to the appeal. We hope to exceed the quota and thus be enabled to provide more than the minimum of relief."

The appeal is directed, "To You—Fellow Chicagoans." It reads in part:

"You have been hearing for months about human suffering in Chicago caused by unemployment. We hope it has not touched you or yours. If it had not been for the emergency relief fund, many of the 250,000 unemployed and their families would have starved. If you saw a man or woman starving, if you heard a child cry for food, wouldn't you help? Of course you would.

"The emergency relief fund must have $250,000 more in order to respond to the increasing demands from worthy people for food, clothing, and shelter. Without this money appeals for help must go unanswered.

"We need your help. Possibly you are among the thousands who have not been solicited. This appeal, which goes to every man and woman in Chicago, gives you your chance to aid the victims of unemployment. If you have given you have been very helpful and we are grateful for your assistance. Can you spare a bit more? Remember every cent you give will be used for relief."

MACHINES DISPLACE YOUNGER MEN, SAYS NEW COLLEGE SURVEY

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—When industry adopts new machinery or labor saving devices it is the young men who lose their jobs instead of old, President Arthur E. Morgan of Antioch college at Yellow Springs, O., concludes.

He has completed a survey to determine the effects of machines which eliminate jobs. His report is included in a symposium called "unemployment and adult education," made public today by the American Association for Adult Education.

"We have been talking about saving the old man in industry," Mr. Morgan says. "In Antioch we have been making a survey as to who is eliminated by technological unemployment and we find that, contrary to general belief, it is 'not the old man, but the young man.' The census returns show that in the last twenty years there is a constantly increasing proportion of older men in industry and a decreasing proportion of younger men."

Newton D. Baker, president of the association, who also contributes to the symposium, places on industry some responsibility for reeducating men made jobless by machines.

"I have a notion," the former secretary of war says, "that the advantage and gains which come from machinery have no right to be all velvet to the industry, unless they are all velvet to society; that, as a fundamental proposition, industry has no right to take all the gains that come from this rapid substitution of machine processes for human labor without bearing, as far as can be wisely assessed to it, a substantial part of the loss."

Orderliness Is Habit Children Should Cultivate

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We know that one of the ways in which we want to make our children self-reliant is in taking care of their belongings and putting them away. Most of us expect this of our children, but we don't always get it. The hanging up of clothes, the putting away of toys, the reasonable care of other possessions are often only accomplished by nagging, scolding, or reminding a dozen times.

Have you ever stopped to wonder what may be the cause of this? Perhaps you think it's because your child is particularly disorderly, or impatient, or dependent, or inconsiderate.

Perhaps you realize it's because you're a poor manager. Or perhaps you recognize the fact that for days you let things slide and then for days you jump on the least sign of carelessness.

But have you ever stopped and looked around to see whether the house is equipped to make it easy for the children to hang up their clothes and put away their toys and clean out the bath tub, etc. Our material world is scaled to an adult's height. About the only thing is is ready for children when they come is the surface of old mother earth herself—the beach, the water, the ground and all that on it grows. Indoors the floor is the only bit of equipment already scaled down to a child!

So at least some of the furniture and other conveniences needs to be especially planned to help them to be orderly.

Suggestions will be made tomorrow.

Lenten Quiet to Be Modified by Social Plans

BY THALIA ——.

THE Lenten lull — or whatever else you want to call it—is about to settle over the social scene. Nevertheless, the prospects don't seem to be too sackcloth-and-ashy. The mailman still manages to produce from his pack cards and announcements of interesting things to happen in the near future.

The woman's hospital board of the Fourth Presbyterian church is, according to Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, to give a tea in the chapel at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, at which Mrs. David W. Graham will read a paper on "The History of the Presbyterian Hospital in Its Relations to the Fourth Presbyterian Church."

The Arts club's nice things go on. There will be a tea on Friday afternoon to open a triple exhibition—antique Chinese wallpaper and painted linen by Raoul Dufy [the knowing ones always say about Mr. Dufy's things, "Aren't they amusing?"], paintings by Henri Rousseau, and paintings by Jean Victor Hugo.

Arts, Charity, and Affairs of China to Be Discussed.

Then the Arts club is having another Sunday evening party on Washington's birthday—a dance recital by Leonide Massine and supper. The little round room between the entrance and the lounge of the club's smart quarters is being paneled with firwood because the walls, as they now are, won't stand having things hung on them.

Others of this week's doings are the annual Arden Shore association meeting at the Medinah Athletic club at 12:30 this morning; the Junior Friends of Arts' meeting tomorrow at the Belden-Stratford with all the "groups"—dramatic, music, foreign language, tap dancing, current topics, literary round table, and art—performing for the first time since they've been organized; the Mardi Gras ball and minstrel show being given by the woman's guild and auxiliary of Christ church in Winnetka tomorrow night at the Mirlago ballroom [the Ralph Sargents, the Ernest Ballards, the Arthur Coxes, Mr. and Mrs. William B. McIlvaine, and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Elliott are giving parties beforehand]; and the American Friends of China tea that Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland are to give at their residence at 2450 Lake View avenue next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 for the Chinese students in Chicago. [Dr. Peng-Chun-Chang is to address the students].

Some Interesting Things to Know About Chicagoans.

Interesting, isn't it, to know—that Princess Clarissa Cantacuzene is now associated with Isabelle Barclay, Inc., at 130 East Delaware place . . . that her husband has returned from a visit in Sarasota with his mother . . . that Mrs. Hayden B. Harris and Mrs. Townsend McKeever sailed for their West Indies cruise on the Caledonia on Saturday [the cruise is for 18 days] . . . that the Saddle and Cycle had something extra in the way of music for their regular Dutch treat party on Saturday night because it was Valentine's day . . . that the Winter club's and Exmoor's winter carnivals, postponed for several Saturdays, finally took place day before yesterday, the temperature having gotten obligingly chill . . . that the Duncan Hodges, larging around in the south, were in Miami last week . . . and that loads of fashionables went to the bike races.

And besides—Mr. Arthur B. Sawyer is just out of Passavant hospital, having been laid up there with a broken ankle . . . Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr. was elected president of the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Frost of Lake Forest and Miss Virginia Frost have gone to Boring, Fla., for about 2 months—Virginia has been ill for several weeks . . . the Russell Kelleys' children, Russell Jr. and Pamela, and the Edward Shumways' Grace and Edward Jr. had their pastel portraits in a recent Spur . . . Miss Marie Rozet has been having an unpleasant time with an attack of flu.

It's Reported She's Bought One of Rome's Seven Hills.

The Sidney S. Gorhams Jr. had a big "at home" at their apartment at 222 East Pearson street yesterday. The party was supposed to be for Mrs. Gorham's sister, Mrs. McVoy Holden, who just recently got back from abroad, but Mrs. Holden is suffering from the after effects of a fall she had in Cairo and couldn't put in an appearance. It seems to me that I heard somewhere that Mrs. Gorham's, and Mrs. Holden's mother, Mrs. Eugene McVoy, has bought a half of one of the "Seven Hills of Rome" and is building a handsome Italian edifice there—making the plans all herself, too.

Miscellaneous bits—Miss Cornelia Gray Lunt, who is never going to be really an "old lady," even if she is going to have her 88th birthday come March 19, has been down to New York for the last week or so and is coming back on Friday . . . Miss Clara Lake, Mrs. W. G. Maguire, and Miss Jessie Maguire departed yesterday for southerly places—they go first to the Mardi Gras carnival in New Orleans, and then to Havana and from there Miss Lake and Miss Maguire proceed to Jamaica to stay for the rest of the winter . . . the guests at Miss Anna Morgan's Valentine party were requested to write original valentines . . . Miss Frieda Foltz had a Valentine day tea, too, at her residence in 37 East Division street . . . the James G. Alexanders of Lake Forest are at the Everglades club at Palm Beach for the season.

Palm Beach Society

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Mr. Vincent Bendix and his house guest, Mr. Caleb S. Bragg of New York, will be hosts at a party next Saturday evening. A card of excellent boxing bouts is being arranged as the evening's chief entertainment. Mr. Howard F. Gillette, Mr. I. Newton Perry, and Dr. E. F. White have joined the Bendix house party.

Mrs. Joseph B. Long gave a large tea this afternoon at Villa Filipponi in honor of her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Durbin and Mr. Stuart Biard. Mr. and Mrs. Durbin have just arrived from Chicago.

Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick was hostess at a small luncheon at the Everglades club yesterday in honor of Mrs. W. Scott Linn of Chicago, who is spending the season at Miami. The other guests included Mrs. George Rasmussen, Mrs. Orville Thompson, Mrs. Clare More, who drive up from Miami with Mr. Linn, and Mrs. James R. Offield.

Several of Chicago's youngest generation who are in Palm Beach attended the valentine costume party given at Whitehall yesterday afternoon by little Joan Sweeny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sweeny. Warren Wright Jr. attended as a chef in tall white cap and spotless apron. Betty Ordway was a small cupid in a gauze frock trimmed with hearts and arrows.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Snyder, who are spending the season at the Breakers, gave a valentine dinner at the hotel last night.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

One of the observations that come out of the era we're just turning the corner on [or so let's pray] is that friendships are a blessed thing, good times and a fowing purse failing.

So much loneliness has been registered in this corner of mine that one is forced to admit it has been a trying time for friendships. A good many friendships obviously didn't stand the gaff at all. They evaporated once the sign of plenty was taken off the door. But not all the loneliness reported may be blamed on the kind of friendships that do evaporate into thin air with the coming of adversity. People, themselves, become shy of meeting old friends. They hide away from them. They brood—in silence.

You can recognize many of this type, too, in the mail received. And then there is that large body always present in good times and times not so good whose loneliness is something their nature invites. They shut people out of their lives—not intentionally, not willingly—nevertheless, they do their own door slamming in people's faces.

For the latter, a good many suggestions have been volunteered. They have been told to make themselves more decorative, if women; more presentable, if men. They've been told to develop a personality. They've been told to be interesting, to be sympathetic, and so on, and so on, all of which is all right, but not quite enough. Not quite quick enough in action.

"Marline" comes along today with a suggestion that has value because what she suggests is bound to bring the quickest results of all. It's not original with Marline, nor is it a new idea. It's just one people forget the value of, so immersed in their own affairs do they become. It's nothing more than "a smile" that "Marline" offers as a cureall. Not a stage smile. Not a company smile—but a regular honest-to-goodness expression that warms as the sun warms and cheers.

Try that on people you meet, "Marline" suggests, and then try and keep them away! Incidentally, she thinks there's no time like the present for practice, what with the gloomy self-centered, self-pitying expressions seen about so much!

John McCormack, at Civic Opera House, Delights Audience

BY EDWARD MOORE.

John McCormack's recital program at the Civic Opera house yesterday afternoon was in many of its items a recapitulation of the high spots touched by him in seasons gone by, which means that there were a number of the finest as well as the most popular songs of the world sung with an enchantment such as hardly any one else in the world ever attains.

No one ever comes within miles of the way he sings Handel's "O Sleep, Why Doest Thou Leave Me," and those who can measure up to the aristocratic poise of the way he does the aria from Vinci's "Artaserse" can be counted in small numbers. He also included one of the loveliest of all modern songs, Rachmaninoff's "When Night Descends," and that, too, was an example of high, fine art.

Encores were numerous, there was his customary Irish group, and the popular group was "repeated by request." The house was full, so was the stage. So far this season two artists have drawn such audiences, McCormack and Paderewski. Draw your own moral from the fact.

Another large and enthusiastic audience was at Orchestra hall to hear the Gordon String quartet, and this was reached in time to hear part of a quartet in manuscript by the Chicago composer, Felix Borowski. That part was of high merit, founded upon first class themes which were developed in a mood of warm intimacy and interest. At the conclusion the Gordons from the stage saluted Mr. Borowski in one of the boxes, and he came to the front and returned the salutation after which the quartet played an encore, the scherzo from the Ravel quartet.

Other numbers on the program were by Brahms and Mozart. The Gordons are well on the way to become famous even in this, their first season. Their playing is a delight to the ear and a stimulant to the intelligence.

Josef Hofmann was announced for a piano recital at the Studebaker, but owing to a serious illness in his family, the event was canceled. There is no word as yet whether he will be able to fill the engagement later.

Late in the afternoon the Beethoven trio, M. Jennette Loudon, piano, Leon Marx, violin, and Willem Hofmeester, cello, played the first of three programs at the Cordon club. The first number was interesting, since it was the first published composition, opus 1, No. 1, by Beethoven. Fairly mature in construction, it was played with good pace and spirit. The rest of the program consisted of smaller individual numbers in great part by contemporary composers.

Not falling into the musical category, but at the same time under the management of Miss Bertha Ott, were a program of character sketches by Viola Roth at the Civic theater, and two performances by the Puchinello Puppets at the Playhouse.

The Civic theater was open again in the evening for a concert by the People's Symphony orchestra. Here P. Marinus Paulsen conducted Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Caprice Espagnol," Dvorak's "New World" symphony, and some lesser works. Jerome Siegan, pianist, played the first movement of the Rubinstein Concerto in D minor, and Augusta Durchanek-Siroky, soprano, sang an aria from "The Bartered Bride" and some songs.

Girl Who's Restful to the Eyes Ought to Get a Big Hand

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I read somewhere, the other day, a line to this effect: "For some reason, an over-talkative or restless woman fails to captivate a man's heart."

How about his eye, as well as his ear—but his eye, particularly, since it is with the eye this beauty center is concerned?

The restful woman appeals to the heart of man because she soothes his tired nerves, we're told. His tired eye must be in need of a balm every now and then, too, don't you think? With so many girls about striving to be brilliant birds of plumage, some of them accomplishing the almost bizarre, it must be nice, too, to find a restful one dotting the crowd, here and there—a girl whose dress is restful in tone, whose makeup is ditto and whose manner and gestures are all in the picture of a quiet scene. We might add, too, from the beauty point of view—a girl whose opinions and voice are tuned to soft harmony. A soft moonlight type of girl, in other words.

If you've the makings of her in you, don't overlook her power in the scuttle to be outstandingly individual, or outstandingly smart, or outstandingly something or other. She often makes a bigger hit than the striking beauty "life of the party."

I'm thinking of one lovely creature just like that. Soft voiced, soft manners, soft tread, soft blue gray misty eyes, and soft, neutral toned hair. She might have been misadvised to strive to be more striking, startling, more impressive at first sight. But she hews to her own individual distinction and wears colors that are misty, silvery, a bit hazy, as it were; that is, they are not outstanding. They never submerge the quiet, warm, lovely feminine appeal of the creature inside. Restful to the eye she is, like a blue cloud in spring; like a pussywillow branch.

Now, that idea of restfulness is something current beauty exhibitionists could impart more of. One does get bored, if not irritated, with all the intensity written into female faces; with the strident voices and gestures of a luncheon place scene, let's say. We might just do something awfully nice for ourselves, giving this eye rest idea a bit more thought, wot say?

Paris Gives a Feminine Twist to Pirate's Hat

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Hats are coming down a little in the world—no longer exposing everything but a spot about as big as a tonsure on your crown, but their brims, on the contrary, show lofty aspirations toward chic.

Reboux's pirate hat has influenced a lot of the new hats being worn in Paris now, but the modistes are adapting that dashing headpiece to less extreme types, making it more feminine and a whole heap easier to wear.

Two new versions of the upturned brim are sketched here. The irregular bicorne at the top of the column, from Florence Walton, is a black felt. Its saucy brim is cut into a dog ear over the left eyebrow and there trimmed with an original tailored bow made of a white feather. The crown is fitted to the head like a bonnet at the back by means of three sunray plaits. The brim is cut and molded under at the nape, just covering the hair.

Sketched below is another felt hat from Marcelle that gives the pirate brim a new slant. This is in dark Bordeaux red, with a pale, rose coral pin catching back the soft round brim. At the back this hat is draped into a bonnet shape, where it is finished by a wide bow of the felt, whose two loops can be seen from the front continuing the line of the brim.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Cook county is noted more for its populous condition than for its "wide open spaces," yet it is credited with having the largest alfalfa field in Illinois if not in all states east of the Mississippi. It is given that rating by O. G. Barrett, county farm advisor for the Cook County Farm bureau.

The 1930 crop put in and harvested by John Eenigenburg was worth $20,000 and was purchased by a jobber at $20 per ton for the entire 470 acre yield of hay. The field is an airport owned by the Ford Motor company and located at Lansing, Ill.

Not having an alfalfa drill for putting in the seed, the operator used a novel method for sowing the large acreage. He used two implements known as cultipackers. One attached just behind a tractor made the necessary uneven furrows. A man with a hand seeder rode back of this and scattered the seed. The second cultipacker, attached behind the tractor and the first cultipacker, covered over the seeding.

Most of the field had been planted two years when the crop was mowed last year. Two and three cuttings were obtained. As soon as the farmer had finished one round he found it was time to start mowing again. The first hay was cut early in June.

In addition to the rather unusual system of sowing his alfalfa, Mr. Eenigenburg employed a novel method of curing in the windrow rather than the swath. Right behind the mower he had attached a side delivery rake which caught up the swaths before they had begun to wilt. He claimed that this permitted the stems to dry as fast as did the leaves, thus saving much of the most valuable part of the hay—the leaves—and permitting faster harvest. Some of the hay was baled from the windrows, instead of requiring further curing after being taken up from the swath.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover had a small company at dinner last evening in the White House.

Tonight the Vice President was the guest for whom the Spanish ambassador and Señora de Padilla gave a dinner.

Miss Paulina Longworth, daughter of the speaker and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, was hostess at luncheon yesterday in celebration of the sixth anniversary of her birth.

Some of the guests were younger, many older, but she presided with the poise which would be expected of her as a daughter of Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Nicholas Longworth. She cut her own birthday cake and wished it had had more candles on it. This was the first birthday party Paulina has had. February is the most important month in the year in the speaker's family. Not only was Paulina born in it on St. Valentine's, but Mrs. Longworth's birthday falls on Feb. 12; their wedding anniversary is on the 17th. They will give a dinner to celebrate their silver wedding. Their guests have been asked to wear costumes of 1906.

Food Talk.

Miss M. B. wants us to give some advice on the baking of cake in paper cups—the fluted kind that are especially designed and prepared for baking cup cakes. She is unable to get the cakes out of the cups when they are baked and she wants to know if they should be removed from the cups while warm or after they have cooled.

I've never had any difficulty with paper cups except one time when I was trying a new recipe which proved a failure. There was too much sugar in proportion to the other ingredients. The cakes fell during the baking, the texture was poor, and the crust was sugary. It was impossible to remove these cups unless the paper was picked off in tiny bits. I have baked all kinds of cakes, using, of course, recipes with which I was familiar, and in each instance the cake baked in the cups perfectly and the cups always came out nicely from either hot or cold cakes. I prefer, however, to wait until cakes are cold. The shape is much better.

Some precautions should be taken when baking in paper cups. Do not fill the cups more than 2-3 full of batter. In fuller cups the cake is liable to rise enough to spill over the sides. It is also important that the cups be placed at least two inches apart on a baking tin. Use a baking sheet that is used for cookies or biscuit to set cups on. This much space around each cup allows the heat to circulate freely and brown the sides. If the cups are placed on the sheets touching each other the cakes are sure to be out of shape. The cups may also be dropped into muffin tins, which keep the shape and brown the sides and bottom of the cake equally well.

GINGERBREAD CUP CAKES.

2 eggs
1 cup sour milk
1 cup molasses
1 cup brown sugar
1½ tsp. ginger
1½ tsp. grd. cinnamon
½ tsp. ground cloves
½ cup melted butter
½ cup melted lard
3 cups pastry flour
¾ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking soda

Beat the eggs well in a large basin. Add the sour milk, molasses, and sugar. Mix well with a wooden spoon. Add the spices and beat well. Then put in the melted butter and lard and, last of all, the flour, with which the salt and soda have been sifted. Beat quickly for a few minutes and pour into paper baking cups, filling about 2-3 full. Bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes.

Yield: 20 servings or 40 small cakes.

Now Whiten Teeth
3 shades in 3 days
Nobody likes to look at a Bacterial-Mouth

TO HAVE dazzling white teeth—free from stain, tartar and decay—you must guard against a condition that is embarrassing to its victim and offensive to others—Bacterial-Mouth. It is caused by germs that sweep into the mouth with every breath. You have it. We all have it. And no ordinary preparation can cope with it.

But Kolynos quickly removes Bacterial-Mouth by killing the germs that cause it. In 15 seconds this antiseptic dental cream kills 190 million bacterial

Use the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique for 3 days—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, morning and night. Then look at your teeth—fully 3 shades whiter!

In 15 days the improvement will be so marked you will never again say that sparkling teeth are a gift received only by a fortunate few.

Dentists have long advocated the Dry-Brush Technique as the one way to use a dental cream full strength and keep brush bristles stiff enough to clean every tooth surface and massage gums properly. Only Kolynos permits this approved technique.

This highly concentrated, double-strength dental cream is unique in action. A half-inch is equal in effectiveness to 12 inches of the ordinary toothpaste for it multiplies 25 times when it enters the mouth. It becomes a surging, antiseptic FOAM that eliminates wetting the brush. You can feel Kolynos work. It foams into every pit, fissure and crevice.

Germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth and lead to stain, decay and gum diseases are instantly killed. They vanish completely and the entire mouth is purified.

This amazing Kolynos FOAM removes food particles that ferment and cause decay—neutralizes acids—washes away ugly, yellow tartar and the unsightly mucoid coating that clouds teeth.

Easily and quickly, it cleans and polishes teeth down to the naked white enamel—without injury. And for 3 hours after each brushing this cleansing, purifying process continues.

So long as you use the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique teeth will remain gleaming white and sound, and gums will be healthy.

Look for Results in 3 Days

If you want whiter, sounder teeth and firm, pink gums, start using Kolynos—a half-inch on a dry brush, morning and night. Within 3 days teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades. Gums will look and feel better. Your mouth will tingle with a clean, sweet taste. Buy a tube of Kolynos.

FIGHTS FOR GOLDEN GLOVES TO OPEN TONIGHT

CHICAGOANS TIE SCORE; OFFICIAL RULES NO GOAL

Bill Cook Drives In Winning Tally.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

After an hour of dizzy skating New York's Rangers defeated the Black Hawks, 2 to 1, in a National Hockey league battle before 13,000 noisy spectators at the Stadium last night. Not a little of the tumult from the side lines was due to the energy put into their work by the principals, whose 14 penalties testify that the show wasn't all in fun.

Further activity on the part of the crowd was occasioned by a sensational last minute of play in which the Hawks scored a tying goal, only to have it canceled by Referee Mickey Ion, who, after donning street attire, accompanied the assistant referee through a side door to avoid possible complications with a waiting mob of Hawk rooters who figured their favorite had been unjustly treated.

Ion Rules No Goal.

The real climax came when the Hawks, one point behind, swarmed to attack on the Rangers' end of the ice. The five men shot the puck back and forth with short lightning jabs until Tommy Cook finally flipped it into the webbing. Referee Ion immediately ruled it out on the claim of interference by the Chicagoans. The final barrage of apple cores, wadded paper, hats, and other missiles was turned loose in the direction of the officials.

The first point of the evening was a Hawk contribution in the second period, but the Rangers lost no time evening themselves to even terms. Then Bill Cook came through in the third period with the score that did the business. With that advantage once in their possession, the Rangers concentrated on safety first play, a method which always draws an emphatic raze from the hockey fan—regarded the visiting team is the offender.

The first period was hardly an infant old before it became evident that the Rangers were in a desperate mood. They tore around the ice in fiendish fashion, taking long shots at the Hawk goal and continually swarming in front of their own net to keep the Chicagoans from getting the puck into the period.

Bun Cook Penalized Twice.

In the first half minute of play Bun Cook, New York wingman, took two trifle long distance drives at the Chicago goal. An instant later a promising chance loomed unexpectedly for the Hawks. A drive rebounded from the boards and settled directly in front of the Ranger's net. Desjardins gave it a poke, but wasn't quick enough to circle Roach, the Gotham goal guardian.

The period brought two sessions in the penalty box for Bun Cook. His first banishment was for charging Ingram into the board barrier. Five minutes later he was sent off for tripping Eddie Hawk. Then Ingram tried to retaliate by nudging one of the Rangers into the wall and he went to the penalty box to keep Cook company.

One of Gardiner's most troublesome moments of the first session came near its close. Keeling got close up to the Hawk net and fired a short, hard one that bounced off Gardiner's leg. Then Keeling gave it another hasty poke, but Gardiner caught the rubber button in his hand and to get out of the trouble gave it a healthy throw to the side of the rink.

March Scores for Hawks.

The second period, in which both teams scored, started out as a rough and ready affair and continued that way. At the start Regan, Ranger defense man, was sentenced for tripping. He was still doing time when the Hawks opened up with their scoring achievement.

The Chicago point began to materialize when Tommy Cook, just before Johnson bowled him over, passed to Adams against the left boards. Adams whacked the disc back to a point in front of the net and March was there to deliver a blow that lined the missile past Charlie Roach at 2:30.

Chicago's lead seemed to irritate the Rangers. They followed with some rushing charges at the Hawk net and then waged a regular hand to hand battle that kept the puck bouncing around in front of the home coop for nearly a minute.

This activity aroused the players to such a fever that a few minutes later several of them were chased from the ice for various offenses. Jenkins, Ingram, and March enjoyed vacations in the order named. Cook still was sitting in the penalty box when the Rangers produced their tying tally.

Dillon Ties It Up.

The Ranger point really started about a minute before it actually blossomed. Dillon had an open shot at the net, but Gardiner deflected the puck. The Hawks promptly slapped the counter out of danger, but in the flash of an eye the Rangers were back in front of the net and in a scramble Dillon whacked the disc into the net for an assist from Thompson at 18:18. Dillon lifted the puck over

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15.—This is an unusual day in sport in that there is really nothing to get sore about unless you happen to be one of those who are able to lose their tempers over William T. Tilden's little spats with the United States Lawn Tennis association. On my part, it has never taken any self-control to remain calm about these things.

Mr. Tilden retires from the tournaments hung over with more medals than a halfwit crown prince of a minor league kingdom at a state dinner, and to sympathize with him because the tennis association refused to hang anothers one on him this year is like sorrowing for Jack Sharkey because Schmeling won't fight him. So many other people are so much worse off.

Will Bring Those Letters.

The association decided not to rank Mr. Tilden because he had turned professional, and I suppose this action will bring the usual run of letters to the editor signed "Sports Lover" and "Fair Play," pointing out all that Mr. Tilden has done for tennis and scolding the association for ingratitude. The decision strikes me as strange, however, only because it was so long deferred. I don't think he is any more professional now than he has been for some time past.

As to the association's debt of gratiture to Tilden, it is my impression that they are all even. He gave a lot to the game, but the game treated him very well, too, and if the association hadn't maintained the most liberal policy regard to amateurism, at some cost to itself in ridicule and even contempt, his career would have been less full and pleasant.

How About the Gallery?

Mr. Tilden is about to start his career as an avowed professional, and it will be interesting to observe the relations between him and the boys in the gallery. In the more or less amateur tournaments he had the status of a guest of the management, and there was a polite understanding that when Mr. Tilden played he was conferring a favor on the customers, because he wasn't drawing any direct remuneration.

The pros in sport, however, assume an obligation to please the patrons, and the patrons on their part consider the ticket of admission a license to pass critical remarks. Tilden is a very good showman, and I suggest that it would be a good thing for his gate if he should do something temperamental to annoy the crowd. Some athletes win crowds, but he happens not to be one of those. Ruth and Dempsey are of that type, but Tilden and Tunney are of the other. Since he is not likely to draw customers because they love him, an equally effective way would be to arouse their hostility and exploit it for his own profit.

Anyway, Tilden has class, and I have always suspected that in his old rows with the association he had his tongue in his cheek.

Those new specifications for the two major league baseballs have stimulated discussion, but inasmuch as the game is not public treasure, as some people think, but the private property of the magnates, I guess the boys are within their rights. Home runs made money for them but in time they began to cost money in general increase in wages to the players. I never was aware of any popular resentment against the popfly homer. True, it was a cheap home run, but the homer in baseball, like the dollar in American finance, remained the standard. When the dollar was cheap the people still held it in the same respect.

I remember now that eight or nine years ago the National league made a quiet admission that their ball had been altered.

Guests Get Souvenirs.

At one of those annual mid-winter dinners here, the souvenirs to the guests were gilt bon-bon caskets, each containing two National league baseballs and it was explained that these were surplus stock of the old model with the raised stitches and the heavy skin.

The magnates make the rules, and if they should ever decide to adopt an exaggerated golf ball as their official standard, that would be their privilege. It would be the customers' privilege to stay away if they didn't like it, but the customers sometimes forget their rights.

Least of all am I stirred by the harsh treatment of Lou Gehrig, the Yankees' first baseman, by his employer, Col. Ruppert. Gehrig wanted a certain sum and the capitalistic management planted its iron heel on his sturdy neck and made him sign for $25,000. Considering that if the management had wished to be firm about it, he could have been reduced to $3,500 a year or less and made to like it or leave it, Gehrig did pretty well.

It'll Be Too Bad.

It will be too bad for the ball players if the magnates ever get to whispering among themselves about a general reduction in wages. Here is one line of work in which there is no rival shop across the street to which a workman may apply for a job. Wages are much higher than they really need be under the conditions.

Some players have the bad luck to belong to stingy employers. One of the meanest of them had a row with a player a couple of years ago and, though the player had a cash value of perhaps $25,000 as ivory, the boss said he would have to take what he was offered or get out of baseball. I could easily get sore about this matter, but I got very sore about it a couple of years ago and it didn't do a bit of good.

BANDS BLARE AS CUBS PAUSE ON WESTWARD TRIP

Get Musical Welcome in Kansas, Texas.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Amarillo, Tex., Feb. 15.—Early baseball enthusiasm seems to be taking a musical turn. The dulcet melody of the Harper, Kas., trumpeting serenaders started the day right for the Chicago Cubs party at 9 o'clock this morning, and when the boys alighted in Amarillo for dinner this evening they were met by the Panhandle silver cornet band, which tendered them a gorgeous concert while they were consuming their victuals.

The Harper concert was something of a disappointment to the band fellows and the chamber of commerce, to say nothing of some two or three townspeople assembled. They had understood that Manager Hornsby and his entire ensemble would be on the train and were disappointed to learn that only 11 assorted pitchers and catchers were aboard.

Bush Saves Function.

They were further dismayed when some of the athletes were too lazy to get off the train for the reception. The function was saved by Guy Bush, however, for Guy played the bass drum while the town photographer did his stuff.

Except for the concert it was a dull day scenically, unless you want to count the stop in Kiowa, Kas. Kiowa is important historically, for it was there that Carrie Nation smashed her first saloon. Some of the younger pitchers never heard of Carrie Nation and had only a hazy recollection of the institutions that Carrie hated so beautifully.

Jess Petty, though, knew Mrs. Nation when she was a little girl and told the younger fellows the story of her life. Mr. Petty said that he approved of Mrs. Nation's violence and that he believed she had done a lot of good.

Speculate on New Ball.

Conversationally, the day was largely taken up with speculation on the effect of the change in the new baseballs which will raise the seam. The elimination of the sacrifice fly as a help to batting averages also came in for a lot of comment.

Guy Bush says that he believes that the raising of the seams will restore the effectiveness he enjoyed in 1929, and that he is confident that the change will be a great help to all the Cub pitchers, but especially Sheriff Blake and Bud Teachout, who, he says, had trouble holding their curve balls last year when the gloss was taken off the balls by the umpires instead of at the factory as in 1929.

"I've already had the opportunity to handle one of the new balls," said Guy, "and I think the seams will mean a lot to curve ball pitchers, particularly fellows with long, bony fingers like mine. The effective pitchers last year were the ones with fleshy fingers, who could get a lot of hand surface on the ball.

Will Aid Root, Malone.

"Bony handed fellows frequently lost control for no other reason than that they couldn't properly hold the ball as treated by the umpires last year. While the change will mean more to Blake, Teachout and me than other last year Cub regulars, I think the high seam also will please Malone and Root."

As for the rule changes regarding sacrifice flies, the pitchers expressed the belief that the new plan will mean an increase in bunting. Under scoring rules of 1931 a base runner still may advance after a fly has been caught, but the batsman is given a time at bat.

It is believed that this will cause the fast boys who are shooting for high batting averages to go in for bunts rather than long flies, the bunt sacrifice still to be marked as no time at bat. Some of the pitchers even predicted that the ancient but almost forgotten squeeze play will come back into its own in 1931.

Brydson Leads Shamrocks to 4 to 2 Victory

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Chicago's Shamrocks took undisputed possession of third place in the American Hockey league with a 4 to 2 victory tonight over the Kansas City Pla-Mors.

Outskating the Kansas City team and breaking up its team play, Chicago held an advantage through most of the contest. The first period was scoreless, but beginning with Brydson's tally midway in the second period, goals were many.

Both Kansas City scores were on long shots after repeated failure to work the puck near the Chicago cage. Brydson was the outstanding individual on the ice.

GOLDEN GLOVES WIN MEANS JOB TO THIS FIGHTER

BY FRENCH LANE.

There may be a sign in the window of a restaurant over in the 100 block on North La Salle street tomorrow which will read, "Bus Boy Wanted," for if Earl Watson, Negro lad who lives at 2052 Warren boulevard, gets whipped in his bout in THE TRIBUNE'S west side sectional Golden Gloves opening this evening, his job is gone.

The proprietor of the grill where young Watson carries the trays laden with soiled cups, plates, saucers and knives and forks all day long, has informed the aspiring young leather pusher that he must win tonight or not come back to work tomorrow.

"You've broken up enough dishes improving your footwork and measuring your distance for me to take any more chances unless you can become a champion," the proprietor told young Watson as he handed him last week's pay envelope.

"Of course if you can become a champion I'd like to have you around the place," continued the restaurant proprietor with a shrug of his shoulders.

Lost to Chancy Crain.

So Earl Watson, who was beaten in one of the greatest battles of last year's tournament by Chancy Crain in the final battle for the Golden Gloves lightweight championship, hurried away to the Lawndale gymnasium to put in his final training licks knowing that if he loses tonight or tomorrow night there will be no way of squaring himself with his boss. The morning after will mean just another tour around the loop looking for an eating house where a bus boy who can double in brass as a bouncer is in demand.

Unless some powerful lightweights have been developed during the last year Watson should be able to retain his bus boy position. He beat some great amateur lightweights last year to fight his way through to the championship match. Crain, who conquered him in that struggle after both boys had scored knockdowns, has moved up into the welterweight division for this year's tournament.

Will Have His Backers.

He will have his own public with him. The boys from all along La Salle street for the last six months have been watching Watson get into condition while serving as a soiled dish juggler, and have organized a Watson rooting club. They're going out to the Ashland Boulevard auditorium tonight to see him start his fight for a Golden Glove.

WEST SIDERS TO TRADE PUNCHES IN FORTY BOUTS

Offer 120 Rounds for 75 Cents.

Tourney Facts

West Section Golden Gloves Tournament—Tonight and tomorrow night.

Time—Seven o'clock, each night.

Entries—208 in eight classes.

Boxers—All report between 4 o'clock and 6 o'clock this afternoon for physical examination and to weigh in.

Drawing—Made by lot at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

By midnight tomorrow night 16 will have qualified from an entry list of 208 for the Coliseum tournament of champions, there to carry on for title honors and the right to fight New York's winners in Madison Square Garden.

The bouts tonight, probably 40 in number, are Chicago's premier boxing presentation of the year. True, they may be surpassed in quality of competition in later rounds at the Coliseum and Stadium, but they can not be surpassed in action.

The long trail to Golden Gloves, a championship route which tests stamina and ability, has no easy stages. Undoubtedly there are several times 16 on Chicago's west side who are worthy of first honors. It is the struggle between these lads which marks tonight's fights as of the best.

Make Pairings by Lot.

This carnival of boxing may be seen for 75 cents. The admission is so low that Ashland Boulevard auditorium should be sold out. The ticket windows will open at 6 o'clock, an hour before the first boxers step to their corners. Those who first purchase tickets will have the best seats, for none is reserved.

Fighters in the west side boxing army will report at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the arena. They will be examined by physicians and then will weigh in. No examinations will be made after 6 o'clock. At 6:30 the names in each weight division will be shuffled, and the contestants drawn by lot. Thus, the best pair of lightweights, or the two best welterweights may meet in the first round. No other method assures absolute impartiality.

The west section tournament this year ranks high in number of experienced boxers. From Aurora and other adjacent cities, from the loop gymnasiums and the west side training quarters ten score boys are ready for their first ring tests. Many have waited a year for tonight's opportunity, anxious to redeem previous failures.

Novices Dangerous.

Not all, of course, have had the advantage of other competitions. But from these unknowns may come one or more of the champions, as in other years novices have proved that courage and youth can offset greater experience. The youngster who laces on a pair of tennis shoes and wears his swimming suit instead of the silk trunks recognized as boxing's correct garb must not be scorned. For this boy, inept as he may seem, may punch a bit quicker and fight a bit harder than his rival to earn victory.

Some of tonight's contestants are well known. Their records, including previous Golden Gloves achievements, mark them as favorites to qualify for the Coliseum tournament. Among them is Dick Mastro, a featherweight brother of Earl Mastro, professional boxer. He represents the Ci-Mad Athletic club. Last year, as a flyweight, he finished fourth in the finals, losing in the semi-finals to Johnny Emmerick, the champion.

Pistello's field goal in the last half minute gave Loyola-Hyde Park a 16 to 15 victory over La Rabida in the south section of the Knights of Columbus basketball league at White City yesterday. The triumph enabled Loyola-Hyde Park to remain in a tie with Aquinas for first place. La Rabida came from behind in the second period and would have won but for a costly fumble under the La Rabida basket that Pistello converted into the winning points. Lineup:

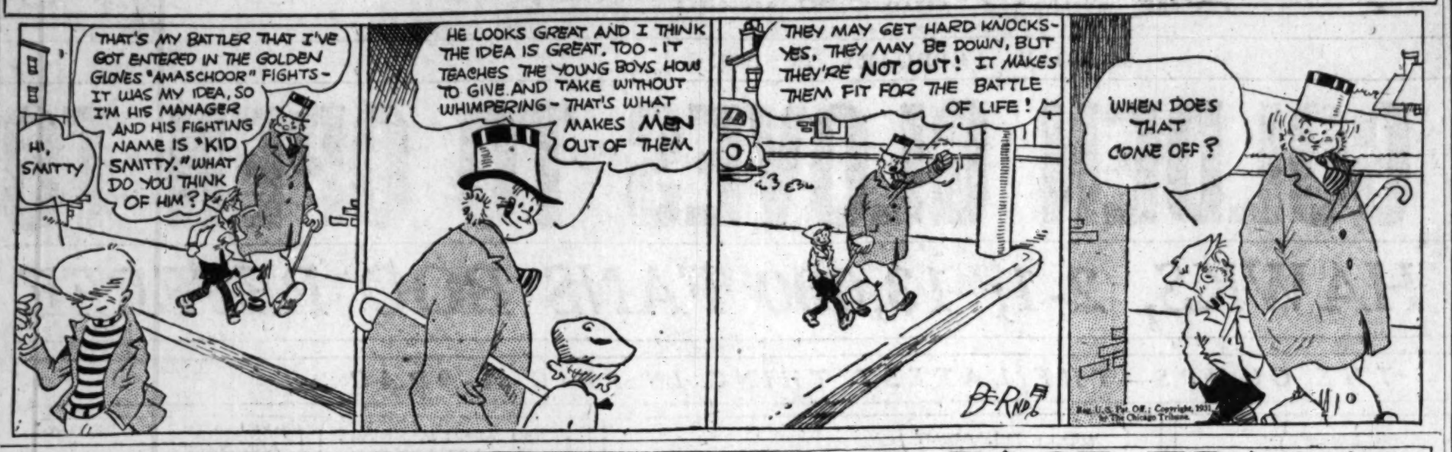
SMITTY—THE BIG FIGHT



Hi, SMITTY
THAT'S MY BATTLER THAT I'VE GOT ENTERED IN THE GOLDEN GLOVES "AMASCHOOR" FIGHTS - IT WAS MY IDEA, SO I'M HIS MANAGER AND HIS FIGHTING NAME IS "KID SMITTY." WHAT DO YOU THINK OF HIM?
HE LOOKS GREAT AND I THINK THE IDEA IS GREAT, TOO - IT TEACHES THE YOUNG BOYS HOW TO GIVE AND TAKE WITHOUT WHIMPERING - THAT'S WHAT MAKES MEN OUT OF THEM.
THEY MAY GET HARD KNOCKS - YES, THEY MAY BE DOWN, BUT THEY'RE NOT OUT! IT MAKES THEM FIT FOR THE BATTLE OF LIFE!
WHEN DOES THAT COME OFF?

WEST SECTION GOLDEN GLOVES TOURNEY OPENS

Tonight's trials are equally important to the clubs and gymnasiums seeking the team trophy. Their representatives must gain the qualifying group to compete successfully with north and south side teams. And the competition at Ashland Boulevard auditorium is keen. In addition to the Lawndale gym, teams will represent the Chicago Loop gym, Kid Howard's Arcade, the Jewish People's institute, and smaller groups.

Entries close today for the south section tournament at White City Feb. 23 and 24. All letters postmarked today will be accepted. The White City bouts will top the city in number of entries. Among those received yesterday were the seven winners of an elimination contest conducted at Davis playground by Director W. E. Fitzsimmons. He entered the following boys: John Mendoza, Frank Schultz, Frank Wujcik, Stanlay Rachael, Bob McGowan, John Dusk, and Steve Wojtowicz.

While Chicago fighters are engaged on two fronts this week, the out of town contestants also will be busy seeking local championship and the right to compete at the Coliseum. The week's schedule follows:

Ultra-Violet Ray Treatment Under the Mercury Quartz Lamp, $1.50

This Ultra-Violet Ray Treatment, however, is only a part of our Complete Scientific Treatment. For cases of "oily hair" it is sometimes used by itself!

For dry, tight scalps; brittle, falling hair; itching or baldness, the Ultra-Violet Ray treatment is followed by vibratory and hand massage to loosen the scalp and increase circulation; by the gentle application of high frequency current to electrify and tone the muscles and tissues, and whatever is required of ointments or stimulating and nourishing medicaments. These are applied to the scalp (not the hair) and gently warmed into it by the rays from the Infra-Red Lamp. THIS COMPLETE SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT attacks the disorder of the scalp from every angle and leaves it all aglow with increased circulation, soft, pliable, free from dryness and tightness, and with a wonderful feeling of increased vitality. This complete treatment, Including the Ultra-Violet Ray, is..... $3.50

"You Are To Be Congratulated For Fighting the Spitting Evil"

Says

DR. O. FLINT CLOUGH

Health Officer, Poultney, Vermont

O. FLINT CLOUGH, M. D.
COLLEGE STREET

POULTNEY, VT. June 24, 1930.

American Cigar Co.,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

I am interested in selling public health to the citizens of my community. You are interested in selling cigars to all America. Apparently there is no joining of interests here.

However, when I noticed your interesting advertisements which pointed attention to the evils of spit from a public health standpoint, and what had been done by you to prevent spit tipped cigars, I recognized that there was a union of interests.

You are to be congratulated for fighting the spitting evil as you do, not because it is going to sell more cigars, but rather that it is going to make healthier citizens. I do not care how many more cigars you do sell. I am interested in public health.

You can use this letter if you want to for publication.

Very sincerely

O. F. Clough
Health Officer, Poultney, Vermont.

OFC/JD

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Clough's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

TONIGHT.
Illinois at Northwestern.
Wisconsin at Iowa.
Chicago at Ohio State.
Purdue at Minnesota.

SATURDAY.
Chicago at Illinois.
Northwestern at Iowa.
Indiana at Michigan.
Wisconsin at Purdue.
Minnesota at Ohio State.

Since the double triumph over Chicago and the victory over Minnesota in the last eight days, Coach Lonborg and his Northwestern basketball players have raised the stake in the Western conference race. A month ago Northwestern only mentioned its desire to win the championship. Now, with that championship virtually assured, Northwestern would win by a perfect record of 12 victories.

Number seven in the list of Big Ten triumphs was scored against Chicago Saturday night at Bartlett gymnasium, 27 to 15. Tonight Illinois invades Patten gymnasium. Despite the third spurt which has lifted them from last position after the loss of five consecutive games, Northwestern is not apprehensive of tonight's game. Illinois defeated Iowa Saturday night, 26 to 23, for its second victory of the week. Purdue was the other victim, 26 to 22. This game may carry more of a warning than Northwestern realizes. For Purdue, which had been unable to conquer Illinois, Saturday scored its second victory over Indiana, 28 to 15. Obviously, the Boilermakers must be erratic or Illinois now is a better quintet.

Barely Won First Game.

Northwestern may well remember its first contest against the Illini. That night at Champaign the Wildcats led 19 to 4 at the half, but came out with a 29 to 27 victory. However, an Illinois victory tonight will not crimp Northwestern's championship hopes particularly. With five games remaining, including tonight's, Northwestern has a two game lead over Minnesota, its nearest rival, while four teams are three games in arrears.

Northwestern's schedule, which still calls for a trip to Minnesota, where the Gophers may show the Wildcats a few tricks, doesn't contain much potential dynamite. Iowa will be met twice and Ohio State, another second division team, has the order for the other game.

Battle for Second Place.

The rivals probably have conceded Northwestern its basketball championship, but the fight for second position is wide open. Minnesota and Purdue meet tonight at Minneapolis in the first of their important two game series. The Gophers ran over the remnants of Wisconsin's team at Madison Saturday, 42 to 15. Fourteen field goals to four for the Badgers routed Dr. Meanwell's team.

Minnesota must win at least one of its games with Purdue if it would be the 1931 runnerup. Double defeat, coupled with another reverse by Northwestern, conceivably might send the Gophers into fourth or fifth position.

Chicago, which is booked for six hard games, opens the second half of its schedule tonight at Ohio State. The Maroons will be fighting to stay out of last place before many days, unless, of course, they can dispose of the Buckeyes, who shape up as the easiest remaining opposition. Michigan and Indiana, in single games, and Illinois twice, are other opponents.

Badgers Meet Hawkeyes.

Wisconsin and Iowa complete the Big Ten program tonight. Wisconsin won, 24 to 12, on its home court, but Rogers, the Hawkeye center, who was ill at that time, now has returned to the lineup. The Badgers have a long list of woes which presage an Iowa victory.

Yale Revises Schedule; Puts Princeton Last

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Yale's football plans for next season and, to some extent, for several years in the future, were announced tonight by John M. Gates, director of athletics at the university. The program includes a revision of the annual schedule, which will bring the Princeton game last in alternate seasons by transferring the contest with the Tigers to the Saturday following Thanksgiving.

Harvard for years has been Yale's final opponent of the season. The Crimson will be met Nov. 21.

One Open Date on Schedule.

The revised schedule for next fall has left Nov. 14 open, giving the squad a two weeks' rest before the Harvard contest. The Princeton meeting is slated for Nov. 28 instead of Nov. 14. Playing a game the Saturday after Thanksgiving is something new in Yale football.

Mr. Gates' statement contained an outline of the coaching staff for the coming year and made it clear that Yale has not decided to effect a sweeping reduction in the number of experts who direct the football squad, or any curtailment of the number of games.

The Yale schedule for next season follows:

Oct. 3, Universitx of Maine; Oct. 10, Georgia; Oct. 17, Chicago [at Chicago]; Oct. 24, Army; Oct. 31, Dartmouth; Nov. 7, St. John's of Maryland; Nov. 21, Harvard [at Cambridge]; Nov. 28, Princeton.

CRIMSON ASKS EXPLANATION.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Harvard Crimson, undergraduate daily, in an editorial characterizes Yale's action in adopting an alternate football schedule with Princeton as "defensible," but "not understandable." It says Yale is obligated to explain the action.

HOLMES BEATS KREMS BY 273 IN PIN MATCH

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Ray Holmes of St. Louis defeated Eddie Krems of Chicago by 273 pins in their 40 game bowling match which ended here tonight. Holmes' total was 8,493 and Krems' 8,220.

Holmes went into the last ten games tonight 17 pins behind, but after the third game, when he took the lead, he never was headed. In the last block Holmes totaled 2,339 to Krems' 2,047.

BRUINS BATTLE MAJESTICS IN 2D GAME TONIGHT

The second game of the three-game series between the Chicago Bruins of the American Professional Basketball league and the Majestics, one of the city's leading independent clubs, will be played tonight at the Broadway armory. The first game resulted in a three point victory for the Bruins, although the Majestics scored more field goals than the pros. Free throws accounted for the Bruins' margin.

A curtain raiser will be played between the B. B. R. 135-pounders and the O'Grady Boosters.

Followers of the Majestics point to the fact that Benny Borgeman, one of the pro league's highest scorers, was held to a single basket in the first game and that the Bruins as a team made only six field goals.

The two teams will line up as in their first game. Cunningham and Farber will perform at forward for the Majestics, Mark Harper at center, and Hooker and Foster at the guards. The Bruins will have Charley Murphy at center; Borgeman and Wickhorst, forwards, and Miller and Kintzing, guards.

MIDWEST LEAGUE TO MEET.

The point that put the Rangers out in front at 2:15 in the third session was one of those things that happen once in a while. After some more of the reckless scrambling that had occurred from the outset Bill Cook scooted down the middle of the ice with the puck in his control. While still several feet away from the Hawks' blue line he cut loose with a whistling thrust and the disc lofted straight for Chicago's net. Gardiner stopped it with his hand, but failed to hold it, the puck bouncing off his glove and into the cage.

When the Hawks followed with a charge on the hostile net Johnson and Bill Cook, both Rangers, got tangled against the fence and play halted until they could be separated. Johnson was unhurt, but Cook was rendered groggy and retired.

They're All After His Mat Crown, Londos Learns

Londos was born in Greece while Zaharias is an American Greek hailing from Colorado. The latter will have a 40 pound advantage in weights. He is several years younger than Londos.

Londos has appeared in Chicago three times this winter and on each occasion hundreds of fans were turned away at the 202d Coast artillery. Londos' popularity here moved Promoter Krone to transfer the card to the Coliseum, which seats 12,000 fans.

BRICKIES RALLY TO BEAT SPARTA SOCCER TEAM, 2-1

Davie Coutts scored two goals in the last seven minutes and enabled the Bricklayers to eliminate the Spartas, 2 to 1, in the second round of the national challenge cup soccer competition at Sparta field yesterday. Four thousand saw the game. The Brickies had trouble controlling the ball against a strong wind and the play was almost entirely in their defense zone for the first fifteen minutes. Fenci, Sparta outside left, opened the scoring with a fast shot from about ten yards. Clem Cuthbert of the Brickies missed a goal by inches and the half ended, 1 to 0.

The Brickies opened the second half with a determined attack, and although they hemmed the Spartas in their own half of the field, it looked as if their string of 12 victories would be broken. But with only seven minutes left, Cuthbert passed to Coutts, who shot the ball into the net. A few minutes later Thompson gave Coutts another chance to score, and the rugged little center forward was successful. Lineup:

TELEVISION DUE BY '33 FOR USE COMMERCIALLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Television is about to break through the laboratory door. Commercially it is only about two years away, and when it does arrive in the studios it will be a lusty infant. The thing that has been holding every day practical television under wraps is that its cost has been prohibitive. Actually, reasonably perfect still pictures can now be produced on apparatus costing well under $100, although a convincing two-way television demonstration has not been accomplished except with installation costing well up in the thousands.

The above is a consensus obtained today from several laboratories where television experiments are being conducted. The recent hint by Sig. Marconi that radio soon will enter into a new field and revelation that stations in England and Germany have been receiving television images over short wave stations from the General Electric station in Schenectady, N. Y., have given rise to reports that all the corporations in the communications field are racing with each other to be the first to sell television.

Large Sums Are Spent.

This has brought a number of denials, but the fact remains that in the vicinity of New York a great deal of money is being spent in preparation for commercial television.

Radio City, of which John D. Rockefeller Jr. is to be the landlord, is founded upon television. Now in the process of construction in Midtown, Manhattan, this eventual $250,000,000 enterprise is to have its four great theaters designed for television as well as its twenty-seven radio studios.

The Columbia system has set aside an entire floor in its quarters here for television, and already is planning to broadcast images of the artists at the microphones in the studios of WABC.

Bell People Make Strides.

The Bell Telephone laboratories have made remarkable strides in two-way television. You sit in a booth not much larger than those that house the telephones and through an aperture about four inches square appears the head and shoulders of your friend who is in a similar booth two miles away on Broadway. You converse with ease and recognize every facial expression, but the Bell technicians say that it is a bit misleading, as the ratio of expense as compared to a long distance telephone call is about 25 to one—a $1.25 telephone call would cost you approximately $30 by television. Short wave transmission has been highly developed at the General Electric laboratories in Schenectady and in Camden, N. J.

For more than two months the Schenectady station has been experimenting with sending short wave pictures across the Atlantic to be received by stations in Berlin and Leipzig, Germany, and in London.

Movie Tests Succeed.

A development in television now being sought is the perfection of a method whereby everybody cannot pick up a television show free. It is hinted that it will be possible to stretch a "fence" around the television show and then the success of commercial television would be assured.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Home, Sweet Home

EYE REMOVED FROM J.P. COTTON, AID OF STIMSON

Federal Official Under Knife.

The operation was performed by Dr. Alan C. Woods, and afterward it was said that his condition was "as well as could be expected." Mr. Cotton has been in a serious condition since Jan. 21 when he underwent another operation, made necessary by infection of the spinal cord.

"Condition Serious."

Dr. Walter E. Dandy, brain specialist, who operated on Mr. Cotton the first time, said today that his condition was "serious rather than critical."

Mr. Cotton, in poor health last spring and summer, bore the brunt of the state department's executive work during the absence of Secretary Henry L. Stimson at the London naval conference.

Three months ago his tonsils were removed, and he returned to his desk, but later entered the hospital here on the advice of physicians.

Had Been Hard Worker.

Mr. Cotton, 59 years old, was appointed by President Hoover in May, 1929. He served under Mr. Hoover when the latter had charge of the food administration during the world war and later aided in enlarging the activities of the department of commerce when Mr. Hoover was its secretary.

A member of the firm of Cotton and Franklin, in New York, Mr. Cotton has served as director of a number of corporations and as counsel of the federal reserve board.

U. S. SURVEY HAS EMPLOYMENT IN JANUARY HIGHER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A slight improvement in the industrial employment situation during January was announced today by the labor department. It added, through its monthly employment bulletin, that further improvement could be expected in the next few weeks.

"There was a noticeable increase in production and employment in the iron and steel industry," the bulletin said, "many orders were received for railroad equipment, automobile requirements, pipe and structural materials. There has been an encouraging increase in activity in the automobile industry since Jan. 1.

HOOVER PRAISES WASHINGTON AS GREAT ENGINEER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The engineer who now occupies the White House believes the nation has never fully appreciated the engineering ability of the only other member of that profession to become President.

This was made known today through announcement of a foreword President Hoover has written for a memorial edition of the writings of George Washington, authorized by congress to commemorate the 200th anniversary of Washington's birthday next year.

"A much neglected side of his character is Washington as an engineer," President Hoover wrote. "His country-men have not realized how modern he was in his engineering operations."

Hooker added that Washington was the reclaimer of the dismal swamp in Virginia, advisor and engineer of the Potomac and James river canal, first advocate of a combined highway and waterway from the Atlantic coast to the Ohio river, one of the earliest Americans to recognize the possibilities of power transportation by water and the first to suggest that air navigation might be very useful to the people of the United states.

SIX CHICAGOANS HELD FOR $17,000 BANK FORGERIES

One man was arrested in Chicago and four men and a woman were seized in Oklahoma City yesterday by federal agents investigating a series of forgeries amounting to approximately $17,000 on the bank account of H. Blackstock, Oklahoma City oil man. The local prisoner is Joseph Decker, 61 years old, who is said to have served sentences in six penitentiaries since 1889.

Those held in Oklahoma City are James London, George Harris, Max Hirsch, Ray J. Mandery, and Donna Miller. According to United States Attorney Roy T. Lewis of Oklahoma City all are from Chicago. Miss Miller, he said, was formerly a dancer in George White's "Scandals."

According to federal authorities, drafts were forged to Blackstock's account in the First National Bank and Trust company of Oklahoma City. The inquiry started when Harris, it is said, tried to cash a check for $1,500 on the oil man's account. Decker, agents say, received a $10,000 check from the bank, which was received here at a Cornelia avenue address by a woman. Decker was seized in an apartment at 623 Melrose street, which is not his home.

Walter Stevens, whose local police record extended back to the '90s, died early yesterday in the Streator hospital, 2646 Calumet avenue. He was stricken with pneumonia ten days ago. He was about 70 years old.

Stevens was at one time called the dean of Chicago gunmen. He attained considerable publicity by obtaining a pardon from Gov. Len Small in 1922 after he had been sentenced to serve fourteen years in the state penitentiary for attempted murder of a policeman. He boasted of his "political pull" during Small's administration. He is survived by his widow.

ALASKAN CABLE, RADIO SYSTEM SALE PROPOSED

Budget Bureau Drafts Legislation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Legislation authorizing the war department to dispose of the Washington-Alaska military cable and telegraph system, operating thirty-five radio and nine cable stations, is now under preparation by the budget bureau, it became known today. Whether a buyer can be found who will be willing to guarantee to keep up the system which the army has built remains an open question, although the administration is optimistic the radio facilities can be sold.

U. S. Would Quit Business.

The move to sell this system is in line with the recommendations made recently to President Hoover by a special executive department radio committee set up by White House order to end duplication of radio services by the army and navy and to study the question of how far the government should enter the radio field. Sale of the Alaska system represents, according to the committee, a move to get the government out of the commercial radio business.

According to members of the committee, which is headed by William R. Vallance of the solicitor's office of the state department, as many as thirty wave lengths now utilized by the army and navy in their radio services, which includes the Alaskan system, probably will be freed for commercial use.

The estimated commercial value of these wave lengths was set at $30,000,000.

The committee has recommended that the army give up its long distance radio communications to Hawaii and the Philippines and utilize the powerful circuit maintained by the navy department in communicating with its overseas possessions.

The total operating cost of the Alaska radio systems was set by the army at $576,464.02 with total receipts at $672,699.68. The receipts included war department business amounting to $314,793.42.

"COIN" HARVEY SAID TO RALLY FROM ILLNESS

Monte Ne, Ark., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Physicians attending W. H. (Coin) Harvey, 80 year old economist of the Bryan free silver era, reported tonight he was "greatly improved" after what "threatened to be pneumonia."

Harvey contracted a severe attack of influenza and late yesterday his condition was serious. Today his recovery was anticipated, however.

Harvey's writings on financial subjects of the last century brought him before the public and injected him into the fight for free silver waged by William Jennings Bryan. Only recently he added to his notable writing, "The Financial School," with a modern day financial thesis, "The Book."

Police Shelter Homeless Mother and 2 Children

Seeking shelter, a mother accompanied by two children, appeared late last night at the Warren avenue station and told of being put out of a home where she was employed as a maid. She is Mrs. Kitty Richards, 34, a widow. Her children are Donald, 10, and Sandy, 6. Policeman John Wilson took up a collection from five men and women present at the station, amounting to $15, gave the money to Mrs. Richards and sent her to the North Racine avenue annex with her children for the night.

LONG PROCESSION PASSES BOSTON BIER OF MAJ. GEN. EDWARDS

Boston, Mass., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Boston honored Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards in death today with many a tear dimmed eye. From 10 o'clock in the morning until 4 in the afternoon a line of humanity passed before the simple bier of the beloved wartime commander of the Fighting 26th, Yankee division.

It saw him beneath the dome of the hall of flags in the state capitol. The yellow sash of a major general lay across his breast, his cap and sword reposing on the flag which draped the lower half of the casket.

Others who came were state governors, high military officials, and dignitaries of the city.

More than a thousand ex-doughboys who had served under the commander passed by the bier, led by Brig. Gen. Charles H. Cole and a group of officers of the 26th.

Maj. Gen. Edwards died early yesterday after an operation.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at Washington. The general's body will be placed beside those of his wife and daughter in Arlington National cemetery.

RUNAWAY BOY RETURNS TO ROB AND IS KILLED

Edwardsville, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Clifford Black, 20, who ran away four years ago, came home Saturday night.

Grocer George A. Dornacher was counting his day's receipts when Black came in, pulled out a revolver, and told him to hand over the money. Dornacher grabbed Black's gun and shot him.

Black fled. Today they found his body in an alley. Marks on the ground bore mute testimony to how he had attempted feebly to crawl toward a friendly light shining like a beacon from his father's window, hardly 100 yards away.

ALFRED CHATAIN, ART CRITIC, IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Alfred Chatain, art critic, died of heart disease yesterday at his home at 629 Woodland Park. He had observed his 78th birthday anniversary on Feb. 7, and had been ill only a few days.

Born in Grenoble, France, Mr. Chatain came to this country as an artist 60 years ago. He for a time was an instructor at the Chicago Art institute, b... became known for his art criticisms and as a collector. He was engaged by numerous wealthy art patrons to make collections for them and in his own name had collected art works and antiques which he valued at $500,000. He had made art collections for the late Judge Elbert H. Gary, James B. Duke, tobacco merchant, and the late John W. Gates.

Two sons, Robert and Leo, and a daughter, Mrs. Marie Brown, all of Chicago, survive. Funeral services are to be conducted at the home Tuesday afternoon.

TWO BIG INSULL INVESTMENT FIRMS REPORT

Both Make Public Their Portfolios.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The upturn in securities prices in the last six weeks enabled the two big Insull investment companies to bring down the depreciation in the aggregate market value of their combined holdings from over $110,000,000 to less than $25,000,000. The two companies, Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Corporation Securities Company of Chicago, which are interrelated and whose combined assets exceed $410,000,000, made public their annual reports last night.

Practically all of the investments of both companies consist of stocks of the chief Insull public utility companies. They also hold each other's stocks and they jointly own two other investment concerns, the Public Service Trust and the Second Utilities Syndicate.

These interlocking companies hold 17.19 per cent of the stock of the Commonwealth Edison company, 29.21 per cent of the stock of Middle West Utilities, 28.78 per cent of the stock of Peoples Gas Light and Coke, and 11.45 per cent of the stock of Public Service of Northern Illinois. Other Insull companies also figure in their investments.

Value of Securities.

Securities owned by Insull Utility Investments had a market value of $38,315,665 on Dec. 31, 1930, compared with an original cost of $253,726,626, thus showing a shrinkage of $65,410,961, or 25 per cent. But the rise in prices this year resulted in aggregate market value of $236,597,335 on Feb. 11, thus showing a depreciation from cost of $16,769,291, or only 6½ per cent.

Securities owned by Corporation Securities had a market value of $95,448,451 on Dec. 31, 1930, compared with an original cost of $140,696,328, thus showing a shrinkage of $45,247,750, or 32 per cent. But the market value on Feb. 11 had risen to $138,200,054, which was $7,496,274, or 5¼ per cent, below cost.

Net income of Insull Utility Investments for 1930 was $10,343,072, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.74 a share on an average of 2,706,168 common shares outstanding during the year and to $2.50 a share on 2,984,438 shares outstanding on Dec. 31, 1930. Dividends totaling 6 per cent in stock were paid and capitalized at $20 a share. Thus, the dividend on each share of common stock was capitalized at $1.20. Earned surplus at the end of 1930 was $9,792,114.

Net income of Corporation Securities last year was $8,006,804, equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.55 a share on an average of 3,791,027 common shares outstanding during the year and to $1.37 a share on 4,282,468 shares outstanding on Dec. 31, 1930. Dividends totaling 6 per cent in stock were paid and capitalized at $5 a share. Thus, the dividend on each share of common stock was capitalized at 30 cents. Earned surplus at the end of 1930 was $4,492,603.

Gain in Stockholders.

The number of stockholders of Insull Utility Investment increased from 16,333 at the end of 1929 to 43,727 at the end of 1930, while the number of stockholders of Corporation Securities increased from 4,425 to 24,142.

The reports of both companies make public for the first time their investments. The bulk of depreciation for both companies occurred in their holdings

Recalls Plans to Overcome Trade Slump

BY SCRUTATOR.

Most remarkable, perhaps, of all the facts about the depression that began in 1929 and continues today, unless the augurs have made a mistake in reading contemporary signs, has been the general failure to make any of the hastily arranged plans to overcome it effective.

Somewhat more than a year ago rather grandiose assurances were made that large employers of labor, including the railroads and the public utilities, would carry on expansion, re-equipment or needed maintenance projects at a rate fully equal to 1929. Likewise, government, state, and national and municipal, was to expend large sums in permanent improvements.

The evidence shows that honest efforts were made to carry out the pledges. Railroads for eight months or so carried out their part. But many of them, at the beginning of autumn, found that their financial condition was not good and extreme economy in expenditure was necessary. Some roads it has been stated authoritatively, have been forced more recently to let certain of their properties run down physically in order to conserve cash.

Presents Argument.

It is at least arguable that if the rails' executives had not strained themselves a year ago to forward the plans they might have had more left with which to operate now.

Utility expansion has gone on as promised. The betterment of facilities, including the building of thousands of miles of gas pipe lines, has proceeded without letup. These facilities are so manifestly needed that even depression has had little effect on their building. Public expenditure has been stretched, also, to a logical limit; even to an illogical limit in view of the greater taxes necessary and a fall in the values of the properties and incomes that must be the source of the taxes.

With all this, it still remains true that only the effects of time and the unregulated necessities of demand have accomplished anything of note. We are probably at the end of the depression because it has been worn out and not because it has been legislated out or even thought out. Employment has been low for months and months and some hundreds of thousands of Americans are unwillingly dependent on charity.

As it appears from the arm chair, the trouble with the artificial relief schemes offered and tried has been their radical departure from the usual course of business. To ask capital and management to keep men at work without profit is too far from present day conceptions. It has even been suggested that corporations should start production and dump their products on the markets regardless of slim demand, on the theory that a general trial of this kind would furnish the income for the purchasing of the goods.

Takes Time—and Meanwhile.

This theory is true. But it would take time to show it in the dollar compilations and in the meantime many corporations would fail to remain alive. The interests of individual businesses often are not in line with those of a whole economic structure.

Any understaanding at all of the business cycle is new. Every few years, we know, we have intense activity, and every few years a reaction in the form of depression. There is a big field for the stabilization of employment in the two kinds of eras. If between now and the next depression we could get it settled that employers in the flush periods would take on no more labor than they had to and in the slow ones would work their full forces five days or four days a week rather than release a sixth or a third of all employés, or cut wage rates, something practical would be accomplished.

That much can be done. It is too much to expect complete evolution at once.

NET PROFIT OF KROGER GROCERY & BAKING CO. FOR 1930 IS $2,168,247

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Kroger Grocery and Baking company today reported for the year ended Jan. 3, 1931, net earnings of $2,168,247, equal to $1.15 a share on the 1,813,486 shares of common stock outstanding, after providing for preferred dividends.

For the previous year, ended Dec. 31, 1929, the company reported net income of $6,375,789, equal after preferred dividends to $3.64 a share on the common stock.

President Albert H. Morrill in his letter to stockholders pointed out that during the year the management found it necessary to report adjustments amounting to $1,284,294, and that the company absorbed out of earnings and charged to depreciation the sum of $3,192,819, which was $1,332,359 more than was absorbed and charged in 1929. He also said that the expense incident to change in the auditing and accounting systems, establishment of budgetary control, decentralization and reorganization in general, including temporary loss of efficiency, had been large and for the most part should be non-recurrent.

A tentative statement of earnings of Columbia Gas and Electric corporation, subject to completion of the audit, shows for 1930 after preferred dividends a balance of $20,618,763, equal to $1.76 a share on the common stock, against $26,409,665, or $3.12 a share for 1929, before the 25 per cent stock dividend paid March 31, 1930.

The Belding Hemingway company reports a net loss from 1930 operations of $1,541,287 after all deductions including inventory write down, interest, amortization and depreciation. This compares with a net loss of $163,644 in the previous year.

Finds Earnings Shrinkage of 23.2% for 774 Companies

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The most complete tabulation of annual corporate earnings statement for 1930 appeared today, indicating that less than a quarter of the net income for the banner year 1929 had been shorn from the profits of 1930 by business depression.

This tabulation, prepared by Moody's Service, includes the reports of 774 companies. A previous tabulation from another source, including about 400 reports, indicated a shrinkage from 1930 of about one-third. The new tabulations however, apparently includes many statements of smaller companies. Allowances must also be made for the fact that hundreds of statements are yet to appear, and there is a tendency for companies with the best showing to report first.

Show 23.2 Per Cent Decline.

The 774 companies show a decline of 23.2 per cent. The 375 in the industrial group showed a drop from 1929 of 35.9 per cent. Railroads, calculated on an 11 month basis, were down 31.6 per cent. The general average was appreciably aided by the showing made in the first 11 months by 95 light, power, gas and traction companies, which in that period showed profits nearly 2 per cent above 1929. Furthermore, 103 telephone and telegraph companies showed a small decrease of little more than 2 per cent.

Of these reports, Moody's finds comparable material going back five years for 219, while the 219 showed a decline from 1929 of 37.3 per cent, the drop from 1926 was only 12.6 and that was considered a very profitable year. Of course many companies vastly increased their capitalization since that time, so that figures are not comparable in a strict sense

Few Show Increases.

A few groups showed increases over 1929, and wide gains over 1926, and offered an interesting commentary on the things that consumers cleave to in hard times. The groups showing substantial increases were not industries providing necessities, but amusements, beverages and cigarets. Furthermore, the groups showing the widest gains over 1926 were amusements and beverages, with gains of nearly 200 and 65 per cent, respectively.

Compared to the fifth preceding year, farm implements showed a gain of 41 per cent, chewing gum, 30 per cent; cigarets, 29 per cent; magazines, 28 per cent; chemicals, 26 per cent; household products, 25 per cent; snuff, 14 per cent, and chain stores, 11 per cent.

STABILIZE SILVER TO FINISH SLUMP, BROWNELL URGES

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—One of the easiest steps that could be taken internationally toward curing the current business depression would be an informal agreement for the stabilization of silver, in the opinion of Francis H. Brownell, chairman of the American Smelting and Refining company.

Mr. Brownell, who recently suggested that the United States, Great Britain, India, France, and Indo-China come to an understanding on the question of selling government owned silver at a fixed price, today discussed the extent to which India could cooperate in such informal stabilization.

India has a large excess stock of silver, chiefly in rupeees, which is to be sold over a period of years in order that she may support her gold reserve. The original plan for the disposal of this metal, Mr. Brownell said, contemplated its sale over a perior of ten or more years, which arrangement would not greatly disturb the market price.

"It seems probable that the volume of mine production of silver, especially from silver mines proper, is beginning to fall, with the prevailing lower price. There is every present reason to believe that production of silver in 1931 will be below that of 1930. As mine production falls, assuming demand in Indian and China to remain constant, it becomes obvious that the Indian government would be able to sell a still greater amount of its excess silver.

"It thus seems that it is for the interest of India to strongly coöperate with the governments in stablizing the market price of silver—certainly so long as the production of new mine silver does not exceed such an amount as will prevent India's selling the necessary amount to protect her reserves.

"It is also obvious that if the price of silver could be stabilized at some given level and at the same time the Indian government could thereby achieve a sale necessary to raise its requirement for reserve purposes, the great mass of Indian people would be greatly benefitted in that the market value of their hoardings would be diminished."

"It would not only tend to restore and help the foregin export trade with India, China, Mexico and other silver using countries, but would have a far-reaching beneficial effect upon the general world situation."

NEW INSURANCE OF N. Y. LIFE IS OVER $900,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kinner Airplane Steps Up Glendale Plant Production

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Robert Porter, president of Kinner Airplane and Motor corporation, said that production at the Glendale plant is being stepped up to meet a demand for delivery of the company's engines which exceeds the volume of business for the corresponding period of last year by more than 75 per cent.

NET OPERATING INCOME OF 171 CLASS I. RAILS OFF 30.5% FROM 1929

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15.—Net operating income of 171 class 1 railroads in 1930 totaled $885,001,000, a decrease of 30.5 per cent from the 1929 total of $1,274,605,000, according to the bureau of railway economics. These roads operated 242,707 miles of line. Gross revenue in 1930 totaled $5,342,957,000, against $6,360,303,000 in 1929, a decrease of 16 per cent. Operating expenses were cut 12.8 per cent in 1930.

"This reduction in net railway operating income in 1930 compared with the preceding year resulted from a drop in traffic caused principally by business conditions," said the bureau's report.

"Expenditures for maintenance of way and structures in 1930 amounted to $713,012,582, a decrease of 17.2 per cent from 1929, while expenditures for maintenance of equipment amounted to $1,027,042,042, which was a decrease of 15.3 per cent.

"Passenger traffic in 1930 was the smallest for any year since 1906. Passenger revenues in 1930 amounted to $729,635,768, which was a decrease of 16.5 per cent compared with 1929.

Net operating income of eastern roads in 1930 totaled $447,547,000, against $648,738,000 in 1929, a decrease of 31 per cent. Gross revenue decreased 16.1 per cent to $2,660,391,000 and operating expenses decreased 12.8 per cent to $1,983,316,000.

In the south net operating income of the roads totaled $89,107,000, against $133,115,000 in 1929, a decrease of 33 per cent. Gross decreased 16.4 per cent to $643,369,000 and expenses decreased 13.1 per cent.

Western roads had net operating incomes totaling $348,356,000 in 1930, against $492,751,000 in 1929, a decrease of 29.3 per cent. Their gross decreased 15.7 per cent, to $2,039,195,000, and their operating expenses decreased 12.7 per cent, to $1,488,599,000.

That the trend in 1930 continued into December is shown by the fact that net operating incomes of the roads in that month totaled $49,371,000, against $71,892,000 in December, 1929, a decrease of 31.3 per cent. Gross decreased 19.5 per cen, to $377,932,000, and operating expenses decreased 18.2 per cent to $297,606,000.

Appeal Cites Broad Radio Patent Issues

New York, Feb. 15.—In carrying to the United States Supreme court the long legal battle with the De Forest Radio company over its patent-licensing contracts, which it has announced that it will do, the Radio Corporation of America will face issues of a broader nature than were directly involved in the case in the United States District court of Delaware and the Federal Circuit court of Appeals in Philadelphia, it was said today.

According to legal observers, one of the more important matters at stake is whether the Radio corporation can be deprived of radio channels as a result of the decision given in Philadelphia on Friday, under the terms of the White act of 1927. Section 13 of that act reads in part:

"The licensing authority is hereby directed to refuse a station license and or the the permit hereinafter required for the construction of a station to any person, firm, company, or corporation, or any subsidiary thereof, which has been finally adjudged guilty by a Federal court of unlawfully monopolizing or attempting unlawfully to monopolize, after this act takes effect, radio communication, directly or indirectly, through the control, the manufacture or sale of radio apparatus, through exclusive traffic arrangements, or by any other means or to have been using unfair methods of competition."

According to one school of thought, there are three arguments against a construction of section 13 unfavorable to the Radio corporation. First, the constitutionality of the section may be debatable, it was said; second, it was argued that the corporation had not been "totally adjudged guilty" of unlawfully monopolizing or attempting unlawfully to monopolizze traffic, and third, the phrasing of the section involved the definition of "communications."

In this connection, it was contended that in finding for the plaintiff in the De Forest suit, the Circuit Court of Appeals did not finally adjudge the Radio corporation guilty of violating the Clayton act. Judge Huffington ruled that "the exclusive making of tube sales, obviously the purpose of the [licensing] contract, was to effect a monopoly, but, observers say, in making the decision giving relief to the De Forest company, the court in no sense passed sentence upon the Radio corporation.

WALL ST. SCANS UPWARD RISE OF STOCK MARKET

Hopes Advance Isn't False Signal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 15.—Last week was an interesting period both as witnessing a rise in stocks emphatic enough to change Wall street's view of many things, and then a somewhat sharp reaction. Interest was not diminished from the fact that an exactly similar movement occurred on Europe's stock markets.

It is reasonable, in the light of all past experience, that great importance should be attached at times like this to a sustained forward movement on the stock exchange. This is not because an emphatic rise in Wall street always indicates a coming turn for the better in trade and industry. The stock market has notoriously hoisted false signals on more than one occasion.

As a forecast, nothing could have been more erroneous than its 19 per cent advance in the three and a half first months of 1930, unless it was the rise of 32 per cent between June 1 and Sept. 19, 1929. But the fact remains that no prolonged movement of business recovery has ever occurred without being foreshadowed, first tentatively and then emphatically, by rising prices on the stock exchange. This movement, moreover, was almost invariably in full swing before anxious observers on financial watch towers could make out definite signs of a brightening trade horizon.

Cites 1922 Recovery.

Business recovery was not convincingly under way in 1922 until the merchants discovered, in the autumn, that their existing stocks of goods were too small to meet the suddenly much increased demand. But the year's stock market had risen steadily 20 per cent before June, and was nearly 15 per cent higher still before the autumn trade began. In midsummer of 1930 even steel production had fallen to the lowest since deflation year, yet the stock market advanced 74 per cent in the ten weeks before the end of July, thereby giving the best signal for the outburst of prosperous activity in the later autumn.

Hopes This Advance Isn't False Signal.

Sometimes this prophetic demonstration was encouraged by something of a reassuring character in some other market. It was stimulated early in 1932 by a halt in the continuous fall of prices; in 1924 by the rise in wheat, in fore-knowledge that foreign crops were faced with serious shortage while our own was abundant; in 1895 by the arresting of the exhausting drain on the gold reserve that secured the United States currency. But on other similar occasions it has occurred without any visible specific cause in the day's events. Apparently reflecting only instinctive judgment among far seeing financiers that the prolonged economic readjustment had nearly run its course. In so far as the rise on the stock exchange in the first six weeks of 1931 has indicated expectation of a turn for the better in the business situation, it has belonged in the last named category.

Moves Erratically.

No such prophetic movement on the stock exchange whose predictions have come true has ever pursued its course without hesitation and interruption, or without occasional lapse into cautious inactivity. That was one reason for the skeptical attitude of experienced financiers towards the almost uninterrupted 19 per cent advanced in the first twelve weeks of 1930. Not only did that impulsive rise ignore the actual damage done and the serious weakening of financial resources by its unprecedentedly severe crash of Wall street values, barely two or three months before, but it was carried forward in face of the full violence of the break in prices for raw materials and agricultural produce.

Prices today are only gradually readying, but there is none of last year's precipitous crumbling—swaying commodity values, and the prolonged hesitation and readjustment in the weak spots left after the panic of 1929 have been exceptionally thorough.

Republic of Colombia.

Will you please tell me something about Republic of Colombia 6 per cent external bonds of 1928, due Oct. 1, 1961? Do you think they are safe and will be able to pay their interest? I am a widow of small means and a couple of bonds I held have been unable to meet their interest.—Mrs. C. V. T.

Colombia's present troubles became acute in 1929 when extensive public works programs designed to improve transportation facilities had to be suspended because of the difficulty in obtaining additional loans abroad.

One of its chief troubles is too great dependence upon one crop, coffee. Prices for the latter declined last year. Colombian coffee, however, is of better than average grade and practically the entire crop was disposed of, although at lower prices.

The country has great natural resources, including petroleum, and more intensive exploitation of these would make possible greater diversification of exports and would be a strengthening factor.

The leaders of the various political parties have exhibited a willingness to cooperate in dealing with the economic situation.

The external 6s, due in 1961, are considered more suitable for one familiar with securities than for small savings.

Real Estate Bonds.

1. Will you kindly tell me to what extent, if any, the value of a first mortgage real estate bond suffers if the bank that has sold it fails?

2. If a first mortgage loan is 40 per cent of the value of the building when it was built must not the real estate market value be depressed to about 40 per cent before the bonds are in danger of default?—A. F.

1. A bond is the obligation of the borrower, not the bank or house that sells it. For that reason the failure of the seller need not affect the value of the bond. If the seller has been making a market for the bond that market would probably be eliminated.

2. Default occurs when the borrowing company's earnings are not sufficient to meet service on its bonded indebtedness. A depression in real estate values is not a direct cause. A first mortgage amounting to 40 per cent of the actual cost of the property is usually considered conservative. If it were 40 per cent of an appraised valuation much would depend upon the appraisal.

Hugo Stinnes Corp.

It will be appreciated if you will tell me as to whether you consider Hugo Stinnes corporation 7 per cent notes of 1936 a suitable investment for a woman to make?—E. H.

Hugo Stinnes corporation ten year 7 per cent notes, due Oct. 1, 1936, are more a speculation than an investment.

SENTIMENT IN GRAIN TRADE IS LESS CHEERFUL

Outlook for New Crop Is Better, However.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Sentiment in business is better, but in the grain trade, those who have been optimistic are less inclined to the constructive side of the market than a week ago, although outlook for the new crop is better as a result of breaking of the drought in a large part of the middle west and southwest.

The northwest, however, needs good rains over the American and Canadian territory and unless it comes soon a reduced acreage in all grains is expected. On the other hand, should serious accidents befall the winter wheat crop which is in fair to good condition and within four months of harvest, spring wheat farmers might be induced to put in a larger acreage than previously contemplated.

In the world's wheat situation there is nothing to induce predictions of materially higher prices for the old grain on hand or for the prospective crop, as viewed by a large number of leading traders as well as the United States Department of Agriculture which has reviewed the situation carefully from all standpoints.

Legge's Retirement.

Uncertainty as to what the government will do with its holdings of 125,-000 bu of wheat, remains a disturbing element all over North America and extending into leading importing countries of Europe. It was officially announced late Saturday that Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board is to retire March 4. It is understood that a successor will be appointed, so the grain trade will have more uncertainty as to the new chairman's attitude.

The same feeling is also created by inability to secure satisfactory statements from Russia as regards its supplies and intended exports. Conditions in non-European countries are startling, the Danube basin having larger surpluses than last year, and the latest estimate of the surpluses that will be available for export and carryover in the four important non-European exporting countries appears to be over 100,000,000 bu in excess of Jan. 1 last year.

Poor quality of Russian, Argentine and Australian wheats together with the low prices obtained by farmers is expected to induce those who can to hold their crop back, and at the same time the cheapness of wheat, it is said, should increase consumption the world over.

Canadian Exports Disappointing.

Canada is selling wheat freely but export clearances are not sufficiently large to indicate that their surplus will be disposed of when the new crop is available. Prices in Canada have had a good advance of late due to short covering and buying by speculators in western Canadian provinces.

American markets have also been advanced by covering in an oversold position which has been rectified on the upturn and the market is in a position where increased buying support by millers, speculators and exporters is necessary at all times to advance prices and hold the appreciation.

Expectations are that the visible supply will show another small increase for the week when it should be decreasing rapidly. The visible supply in the United States a week ago was 192,000,000 bu. Should the visible decrease 5,000,000 bu a week for the next sixteen weeks it would leave a supply on July 1 of 112,000,000 bu which, up to a few years ago, would be considered unprecedented.

Closing prices were almost at the lowest of the week, and the new crop futures in which the principal business centers were 1⅞@2c higher at the close, while old crops were unchanged to ⅛c higher. March closed at 79¼c, May 82⅝c, July 69¼@69⅝c, and September 69c. Prices follow:

Old and New Style Corn.

Corn appears heavy with offerings from the country and other terminals increasing. Arrivals have enlarged considerably and are likely to expand further.

An important feature in the corn market, as viewed by a large commission house, is the fact that old style can be satisfied by carlot deliveries of No. 3 grades winter shelled mixing hogg grain, and if officially ordered, carlot deliveries can commence as early as the first business day of the delivery month, while carlot deliveries on new style grain are prohibited except during the last three business days, and cannot be lower than No. 2 grade, and must be strictly country run grain. In view of the competition Chicago is experiencing from other markets, it is said winter shelled No. 3 corn from mixing houses might be considered comparatively unattractive property in cars by those not equipped to handle it and the condition risk is naturally greater in cars than in elevators and suggests wider differences between new and old style corn.

Corn prices were on the down grade most of the week with liquidation by buyers of the previous week. Outside help was limited. Closing prices were around ¼@2c of the season's low. March closed at 63½c, May 65⅝@65¾c, July 67@66¾c, September 66¾c. Prices for the week follow:

	March.	May.	July.
Monday	64¼-64¾	66⅝-66¾	67¾-68⅝
Tuesday	65¾-66⅛	67¾-68¼	68¾-70⅝
Wednesday	65 -65⅛	67⅛-68⅜	68¼-69⅜
Thursday	63¼-64⅜	65⅜-66¼	66¾-67⅜
Friday	62½-63½	65 -66	66⅜-67¼
Week	62¼-66¼	65 -69½	66⅜-70⅝
Year	61⅝-65⅝	63¼-68¾	64½-68¼
1930	56¾-59⅝	59¼-62¼	62⅝-65
1929	93⅝-97½	97¾-01¼	1.00¼-3¼
1928	61⅜-62¾	63½-63¾	64¼-67½

One set of traders are bearish and selling July oats because of early seeding and good crop prospects in the southwest. Weakness in corn also had a depressing influence. Prices closed ⅜@⅝c lower for the week, with March 33¼@33¼c, May 33¾@33½c, July 32¾c.
